Everybody

Seems to be buried in book this week, which is likely as this the sixth week. That doesn't alter the fact that the social side of the institution has hit a new low. But we can still talk about the prom, what fun it was and add the people we saw there...for instance, did you see Phi Betty Baker, the gal with the Hedy La Marr hair doing her dancing with Phi Delt Cliff Meier? Senior class prexy John McDermott dated DeeGee Lou Malmberg for the prom.

The Innocents held their annual dinner before the prom. A new dating combination was that of Pat Sternberg and Farmhouse Mary Kruse. Acacia Elton Wiley imported D.G. Mary Stuart, famed for her husk vocalizing of a year ago.

New dating

Combinations which are almost steady deals are those between Marilyn Fulton and Al Brown, Peg Gleason and Duan Wright. In fact with spring coming on and all, we can almost predict that they will be steady before long...

Speaking of spring

Reminds us of a little deal that was going strong last spring. Kappa Mary Beeson and Sigma No Duke Schatz were going steady... But fall came and with it cute DG Dottie Thomas so Duke pulled old stunt of trying out the fresh-and from Shelby, Michigan, back to her home.

The freshman award is to be used at the American Youth Foundation camp, Camp Miniwanca, Shelby, Michigan.

Candidates write essays.

Each freshman girl who is a candidate must submit a two hundred word essay entitled "The Importance of Well-Balanced Development, Physical, Mental, Social, and Religious, in Attaining Leadership."

Women interested in applying for the awards should see Miss Peters immediately. A group of faculty members will serve as judges to decide which of those girls who apply are most worthy to receive the fellowships.

bestowed upon her the honorary order from King George of Commander of the Most Excellent Order of the British Empire.

Tassels sell tickets.

Innocents and Mortar Boards will make a speaking tour of the campus Monday nite and Tassels will sell tickets to the recital. Tickets may also be purchased at the Union office. For the general public the price is $1 but for students the price is 25 cents. Sponsoring Gracie Field is the English Speaking Union.

The office of the Dean of Women has granted permission for all freshmen girls who wish to attend the concert to stay until the performance is over. The recital will probably last from 8:00 until 9:30.

Winnacker receives Ohio appointment for summer

Dr. R. A. Winnacker of the history department has been appointed lecturer in history on the Ohio State University summer faculty this year. The summer quarter will start June 23.

man girls...but spring has rolled around and with it a young man's fancy turns to love, they tell me, so Duke and Mary are seen together more and more these days.

Barb leader

Blaine Sloan was certainly having a good time the other night with blonde Althea Ware. We wonder if this will be one of those frequent dating situations?

Big weekend

At ag is being planned when the Ak-Sar-Ben takes the center of the stage for Saturday night...to the music of Ralph Slade and his orchestra.

Speed for spring

Is the motto of Delt Dick Gellatly who has just purchased a new motorcycle and is now wearing a path between the Tri Delt and Delt houses as he takes Mary Dietrich for a short spin.

Judging team places tenth

Nebraska's livestock judging team placed tenth in the intercollegiate competition with 20 other teams in Fort Worth, Texas, this week end. First place in the event went to Texas A. & M., and second to Oklahoma A. & M.

Carl Ervin, junior, placed second high on judging sheep, and the entire team ranked fourth in that division. John Schick, junior, was eighth high in an average score for judging all classes and was eighth in judging hogs.

Ag senior Vern Kerchberger placed fourth in judging cattle, sixth on hogs, and averaged eleventh in all classes. Other members of the team were Richard Crom and Ray Crawford.

Three men will be selected from this group to represent the ag college in meats judging Tuesday at the Southwest Livestock Exposition in Fort Worth.

Margit Varga says art show ranks with best

High praise for the 51st annual Nebraska Art association exhibition was voiced by Margit Varga, editorial associate of Life magazine, as she toured Morrill galleries with a photographer.

"I have visited many shows all over the country, and this one certainly stacks up with any of them and is much better than many," stated Miss Varga, who is spending several days at the university getting material for a forthcoming Life pictorial feature on the exhibition and art activities of the university.

Lack of monotony.

"One is immediately impressed by the lack of monotony in the exhibition. The great diversity of contemporary works and different kinds of paintings makes it a most interesting kind of show."

Miss Varga, a well known artist in her own right and currently represented in the Morrill galleries by a painting entitled "Road to Danbury," reports a definite trend in the East toward the idea of pictures in the home as featured in this year's Nebraska Art association show.

How to live with art.

"Many New York galleries are beginning to get quite excited about the idea and now I come to the middlewest to find that you are already doing something about it. Showing people how to live with art is certainly important."

She complimented the university and state for "taking art to the people instead of making it stuffy and something to be put in a mausoleum."

Life watches university.

When asked how Life happened to pick this particular show for a feature, Miss Varga replied, "Oh, we've been watching the work of the university for a long time." Photographers from the magazine also visited last year's NAA exhibition although no material has yet appeared in the magazine.

Ag students plan Junior Ak-Sar-Ben

Weekend affair features showing contests, ball, sheep shearing contest

Preparations for this weekend's 11th annual Junior Ak-Sar-Ben on the ag campus are well under way, co-chairmen Oscar Tegmeier and Don Baird, ag seniors, announced yesterday.

Most important feature of the two-day affair is the showmanship contest, competition in showing all classes of livestock, which is scheduled to be staged in the main pavilion of the Equine Manor Saturday.

Select grand champion.

After prizes have been awarded, the class champion of this contest will be brought into the judging ring and the individual winners will show all five of the champion animals. The grand champion is then chosen and awarded a loving cup and a champion ribbon. The cup may be kept for one year by the winner. Prizes and ribbons are now on display in animal husbandry.

Marvin Kruse will act as master of ceremonies and K. C. Fouts of Seward will judge the showmanship of the contestants.

Another feature of the show will be a sheep shearing exhibition by

Conference speaker reports on irrigation in Nebraska

Irrigation engineers in Nebraska must now be concerned with individual farmers to get the most profitable use of the water which the great over-all engineering works have made available, Ivan D. Wood, irrigation engineer for the Farm Security Administration, told the Nebraska Well Drillers conference Friday.

Altho "Nebraska's big canals, dams, headgates have been well designed and competently built up to the present the engineering problems of developing the bodies of land to be irrigated have been left to the individual farmers to carry out in hit or miss fashion," Wood stated.

"It now seems that we must do more than just get the water to him. His land has to pay the cost of the whole thing and sometimes it has not been able to do so."

May abandon present method.

The speaker explained that "the present method of land surveys and land subdivisions may have to be abandoned with a redistricting more suitable for irrigation. They system accepted up to now is based on old federal land surveys made in the early days of the state. These are often uneconomical and wrong for irrigation projects.

"The old belief that it takes two generations to secure successful irrigation need not follow if competently directed engineering methods are employed."

Alexander Granovsky, associate professor of entomology at the University of Minnesota, is national president of the Organization of the Rebirth of the Ukraine.

Lee Hester of Arlington, Nebraska. Hester was champion of the national sheep shearing contest held at the 1940 Chicago International Livestock show.

Ball Friday.

Highlight of the two day affair will be the Junior Ak-Sar-Ben Ball which will be held in the student activities building Friday.

Ralph Slade and his orchestra, who recently played at the Creighton military ball, will play for the event. "An attempt to import a first rate band has been realized" stated Harold Bacon, chairman of the ball.

Tickets are now available to all students at Long's book store, the finance office, and from members of Block and Bridle.

Lobdell joins military staff

Major Arthur T. Lobdell of Lincoln joined the university engineering corps, according to announcement Saturday by Col. C. A. Thuis of the military department. He is a graduate of Cornell University.

All America knows... Chesterfield is the Smoker's Cigarette MILDER, BETTER-TASTING

Those clean white Chesterfield packages have everything a smoker likes and wants. Pull the red tab - take out a Chesterfield... and light it. You'll like the COOL way Chesterfields smoke... you'll like their BETTER TASTE... and you'll find them DEFINITELY MILDER - not strong, not flat.

That's why Chesterfield is called the smoker's cigarette - the cigarette that SATISFIES.
