

Council committee to print pamphlet . . . on Daily subscription

In an effort to clarify misunderstanding and doubts surrounding the plan of universal subscription to the DAILY, the Council committee in charge of the project will soon issue a paper clarifying questions on both sides of the controversy.

"Petitions signed by students indicated a definite interest in such a project," stated committee chairman Burton Thiel, "but it will take a student election to settle the issue one way or the other."

Plan question and answer sheet.

Stating that a printed question and answer sheet to be distributed to every person on campus before the universal subscription plan comes to a vote, Thiel stressed the fact that circulation and collection of petitions had been too fast to allow students to fully understand the plan.

Features of the plan as well as arguments on both sides of the question will be fully explained in the sheet. It was, however, erroneously stated in yesterday's DAILY that the plan called for distribution at a maximum charge of 25 cents a semester. It should have read a maximum cost of 75 cents a semester.

Uni Theatre production brings original songs, and costumes

. . . by students

When the University Theatre opens with "Boy Meets Girl" Wednesday, March 19, Theatre-goers will be exposed to two major student contributions to the original; one in the field of costume designing and the other in the field of original music composition, both by students of the university. Clarence Flick, junior in teachers college from Lincoln, and Marian Anderson, arts and science junior from Omaha, Flick composed the music for a song titled "Pain in My Heart," and "My Heart's in My Sleeve." The words for this song are a part of the script for the play, with the problem of music left to the producer.

From "Golden Slippers" on the old family piano at the age of 15, to composing for a university play musical number—that's the story of Flick's musical accomplishment.

Asked how many numbers he had composed, Flick replied, "Oh, quite a few, but I never write them down unless somebody wants to use them for something. Otherwise I just keep them in my head." In the play the song is used by

Barb groups hold non-date party tomorrow

Unaffiliates experiment with joint activities; expect 150 students

The Interhouse Council-Barb Union party scheduled for tomorrow night, will be held in the Union ballroom. Approximately 150 students have been invited to the party which is to be a non-date affair with dancing as the main entertainment with other activities also planned.

"This party, which is chiefly experimental, will determine whether the group is too big for real entertainment to the whole crowd or whether students will prefer parties on a smaller scale," stated Fern Wilterdink, social chairman of Interhouse Council.

Program chairman is Kathryn

Tassels elect new officers Monday

Election of officers for Tassels, women's pep group, will be held Monday at 5 p. m., in the Union. The president and vice president will be chosen from the junior class members of the group, while the secretary, treasurer, and notifications and publicity chairmen will be elected from the sophomores.

The group has planned a formal dance to follow the initiation banquet on Friday, April 4. The orchestra for the dance has not yet been selected.

Japanese hold Lowe, former med student

Anything can happen to a Nebraskan student no matter where he goes after leaving the university!

That claim received support this week when word was received from Dr. Dewitt Lowe, former medical student now in Korea, carrying on medical missionary work. He is now awaiting trial on Japanese charges of removing idols from native servants houses.

In a cablegram to his wife in Hastings, Dr. Lowe said that a trial had not been set. State department officials in Washington said that full details are not known but they are doing what is possible for Lowe and another American, arrested with him.

Dr. Lowe is a graduate of Hastings college. He received his medical training at Nebraska and Creighton, graduating from Creighton in 1928.

Alaska Nellie, pioneer woman, thinks Morrill collection 'good'

Alaska Nellie was in town!

No it isn't time to get out your shooting guns or run to find the sheriff. Alaska Nellie isn't to be confused with some of the early women in the west's history such as Calamity Jane.

Alaska Nellie, is a pioneer woman in the still relatively frontier country a few hundred miles north of Seattle, but Alaska Nellie is civilized. She spent a few days in Lincoln last week looking over Morrill hall and other interesting places.

Sees Museum.

After viewing the collection of animals in Morrill she told C. B. Schultz, assistant museum director, that "it is a marvelous collection, second to none that I have ever seen of its size. All Nebraskans should be proud of it."

This woman, whose real name is Nellie Neal Lawing, was raised on a Missouri farm but when a childhood urge demanded that she go out on her own she found herself in Alaska in 1915 as a trapper. She had two suitcases of clothing, a few keepsakes and $35 when she landed.

Eleven percent of American collegians expect draft July 1

By Student Opinion Surveys.

AUSTIN, Texas, March 14.—Colleges and universities over the nation will lose 11 percent of their male students to Uncle Sam's defense program this summer, if these students today accurately prognosticate their future, Student Opinion Surveys of America disclosed in the results of a national sampling.

Projected against the total enrollment in colleges today, this figure suggests that more than 80,000 college men believe they will either be called by their local draft boards or else they will volunteer for their year's service instead of returning to school in the fall. Those called will probably go July 2.

Because of the selective service act provision permitting deferment until June 1 for all men 21 or over enrolled in school, very few undergraduates have already entered into their year of military training.

Besides the 11 percent above, nearly 10 percent are not planning to return to school next year, but do not believe they will be drafted or will volunteer. Nearly four-

ATO's, DU's win in first I-M debates

Negative debaters carried away the honors in the first round of the intramural debate last night, as Alpha Tau Omega was awarded a decision over Delta Tau Delta, and Phi Delta Theta forfeited to Delta Upsilon. Zeta Beta Tau and Delta Theta Phi postponed their contest by mutual agreement until after examinations.

John Jay Douglass and William Rist were the winning debaters for Alpha Tau Omega, while Sherwood Larson and Robert Ross supported the affirmative side for Delta Tau Delta.

Teams switch.

Teams which supported the affirmative side in first round debates will defend the negative side later, while negative debaters will switch to the affirmative side. Two defeats eliminates a team. Each debate is judged by a former member of the varsity debate team.

Von Bergen will address UN women

Discussing office workers in large corporations, Alice Von Bergen, office manager of Roberts Dairy, will be guest speaker at the career clinic Thursday, March 20. The clinic is sponsored by AWS and the dean of women.

Speaking at 4 p. m. in Ellen Smith, Miss Von Bergen will hold conferences from 3 to 4 p. m. Appointments must be made in the dean of women's office.

Speaking at the ag AWS clinic on March 20 at 4 p. m. will be Mrs. Joe Lotto, who will talk on "Interior Decoration."

Quiz deadline today

Teams wishing to compete in the Junior-Senior quiz sponsored by the Union must register in the Union today. Fraternities, sororities, and barb organizations are urged to enter teams composed of three juniors or three seniors.
