

An eye on Girls Sports

By Jeannette Mickey

The Alpha Chis overtook the slight lead of Bouton Mickey in the first part of last night's basketball game to win 19 to 11. Mary Thorley put in five field goals to take high scoring honors, and Doris Peterson led Bouton with 9 points to her credit. Virginia Long chalked up 6 points while she was in the game for the Alpha Chis.

Wednesday night the Tri Delta defeated Howard Hall 34 to 7. Doris Patterson led the field sinking 12 points, and Lucille Enyeart was close behind with 10. Opal Jackson made all of Howard Hall's 7 points.

The latest dope about Tanksterettes and Orchesis is this: From this spring on arrangements are being made for girls in these two clubs to receive advanced physical education credit for participating. Complete arrangements are yet to be made but the deal sounds interesting.

There will still be the recreational angle of no credit, however, but a few requirements will be added for those desiring credit, as we understand it.

While we're on the subject of Tanksterettes, we'll give you the winners in their Interscholastic Telegraphic meet held Wednesday. 40 and 100 yard free style events: Jane Jordan, 40 yard back stroke: Jane Fenton, and the 40 and 100 yard breast stroke events: Jean MacAllister.

The remaining events, the 75 yard medley and the 100 yard relay, will be run off Saturday afternoon, and the probable entrants will be for the medley-free style, Jane Jordan, back stroke, Betty Meyer, and breast, Jean MacAllister, and for the 100 yard relay—Jane Jordan, Doris Patterson, Eilean Kealy, and Sue Shaw.

Ping Pong proceeds as Kathryn Kellison, Independent, wins over Virginia McNeel, Howard 1, in singles, and Nicholson-Mickey, DDD 2, win over MacAllister-Hecker, AXID 2. The League finals will be coming up soon.

Daily calls for fashion writers; to meet today

The Daily requests all girls who wish to work on the fashion edition to report to the Daily office at a meeting at 4 p. m. on Friday.

Vibrating Vike...

Lincoln Journal.

Rip-roaring, hard-charging Vike Francis has energy to burn these days in Husker moleskins. Still cooped up in the stadium basement, the Nebraska football team awaits the first day for outdoor practice. So does Vike. This fullback, who will be a senior next fall, promises all that they will have something to remember him by when he hangs up his cleats. He is expecting a big season next fall.

Ag senior writes script for KFOR radio program

An excellent way to get valuable experience has been discovered by Cornhusker Countryman editor, Dale Theobald. Dale, an ag junior, is the regular script writer for a program broadcast each Monday morning from KFOR by the Better Business Bureau. The programs are short plays exposing common "rackets" and are designed to protect listeners from being "suckers."

So next Monday, if you don't have a 10 o'clock class, turn the dial to 1210 at 10:15 and listen to
