Editorial

High cost of vanity!

2

Driven by a vain desire to be what they aren't, to cover up their deficiencies, and to gain a little questionable prestige, about 10 percent of the students on this campus, particularly sophomores and juniors, falsify themselves, and hide what they are really like under a veil of make believe that smells of insincerity. And not gaining a thing thereby, they purchase this vanity at the cost of doing much which they themselves deplore.

Names are not necessary for identification. The very conversation of this group colored as it is with personalisms, tags its members. Whatever they say is for effect. They go certain places against their wishes because they feel it is important that they be seen there. They pretend to be interested in sports or other activities when in truth they detest them. Their whole life is something that they naturally are not. By their actions, you all know them.

DAILY editorials are not sermons. For who are we to preach. But when glaring examples of make believe are brought to our attention, we can't help but feel such vanity is purchased at a mighty high cost.

This is our stand!

of recognized politics for women, antagonism arose among the "see no evil" elements on the campus and efforts were immediately made to misinterpret the position of this paper on politics in general.

champion of dirty poltics, and that certain selfevident truths about politics may be brought into the open, it is altogether proper that the DAILY codify its political stand.

Board issues special forms for draftees

Student registrants may receive question blanks from Thompson

In order to provide local draft boards with information concerning student registrants who have been deferred until July 1, the Board of Occupational Placement of the university has prepared for exempted students to fill out.

DAILY NEBRASKAN

Comment

merit works injustice on the capable, and obstructs organizational advancement.

· Yet words or the wishes of any "shame on politics" group aren't going to eliminate a condition that does exist and is a part of a democratic system of government. Politics is here to stay.

Certain "popularity" elections such as Prom Girl, Nebraska Sweetheart, and Honorary Colonel must be non-political, and the efforts of all groups must be turned to making them such if the offices themselves are to have any significance.

 On other elections, however, women have as much right to factionalize as men. They have been making deals with one or more of the factions in the past and have plotted among themselves. Whether recognized or not, it is apparent women will organize on a large scale this spring. In view of this condition, nothing is gained by refusing to nickel for towel and matron publicize it.

If every girl is to be given the same chance, the "deals" must be made openly. Where only one or two sell their offices to a party, as has been done so often, a premium is placed upon the best evening swim. politicians. Girls believing the fine statements of the Mortar Boards that there is no politics, are will give to every girl an equal chance in an elec-

It is believed that the gathering will be of mutual assistance to the istrant.

Thompson's office.

awards offices on the basis of affiliation rather than Barbs plan mixed Library lists swimming parties nine new books

In an effort to round out the council has announced a mixed p. m.

Competition between organized houses and clubs, between men and women will be carried on in relays and games. For the first time, pool authorities have relaxed the regulation bathing suits, and girls may wear their own suits.

Only requirement is that of a swimming permit which may be secured at the Student Health office. Men may bring their own towels, but women must pay a service.

All students who plan to go should sign up on the bulletin board in the Barb office. Another swimming party has been scheduled for the following week for an

Among the many new books in barb social program, the Barb the library are: "The Trees," by Conrad Richter; "A Primer of Actswimming party to be held next ing," by C. Lowell Lees; "I Rode Saturday in the colliseum at 2:30 With Stonewall," by Henry K. p. m. Douglas; "Vanguards of the Frontier," by Everett Dick; "The Caribbean Danger Zone" by J. Fred Rippy; "The Struggle for Judicial Supremacy," by Robert H. Jack-son; "American Dream," by Michpool authorities have relaxed the ael Foster; "Earth's Green Man-restriction that all girls must wear ael Foster; "Earth's Green Man-"Rival Ambassadors at the Court of Queen Mary," by E. Harris Harbison.

> Your Drug Store Bring your prescriptions to us. There is no substitute for quality drugs.

> OWL PHARMACY 148 No. 14th & P Phone 2-1068

Bulletin