

UN men prefer army service

Air force is majority choice in national poll

By Student Opinion Surveys.
Austin, Tex., April 3—Nearly half the nation's college men would join the air force in preference to the army and navy, if they had to enter the armed forces, the Student Opinion Surveys of America found this week in its weekly sampling of the college campuses of the nation.
Less than one-sixth of the male students polled, however, say they would leave school and join the armed forces should the US have to send an army to aid Britain.

The results.
The surveys found the following results, excluding the 6 percent who held no opinion in answer to the question, "If you had to enter the armed forces, would you prefer the army, the air service, or the navy?"

Air Service48%
Navy27
Army25

The Far West, where 57 percent favored the air service, and the West Central, where 55 percent preferred flying, were the strongest supporters of that branch of the service. The Middle Atlantic section was least enthusiastic over

Union board approves band booking plan

Ayres hires orchestras for all-university parties under new arrangement

A resolution making Joyce Ayres, Union director, official booking agent for the six big university parties of the year was passed by the Union board last night after it was accepted by the Student Council a week ago.

Under the new plan Ayres will have entire responsibility for contracting and hiring bands for the Military ball, Mortar Board party, Union birthday party, Prom, Interfraternity ball, and the "N" club dance. He will contact booking agencies in Chicago for the bands, and in this way will be able to secure big name orchestras.

Set dates in advance.

Dates for all parties will be set far in advance, and Ayres will be able to contract for all bands at the same time from the same agency. Having played in a band while he was in the university, he has had valuable experience in this field, and has already aided certain groups in securing bands for their parties.

Share croppers group announces prize contest

Prizes of $25, $15 and $10 will be awarded for the best essay on sharecroppers submitted to the Educators Committee National Sharecroppers week not later than April 5. Any undergraduate student may participate in the contest.

Essays should be approximately 2,000 words in length and should discuss civil liberties and the sharecropper, giving specific illustrations of points made with respect to violation or gaining of civil liberties.

The contest is sponsored in connection with National Sharecroppers Week, which was celebrated from March 2 to 9. Reference material may be obtained by writing the national office. The address can be secured by the DAILY office.

Freshman must have conferences

All Junior Division students are requested to see their advisers before April 10 to arrange appointments for pre-registration conferences.

These conferences are to be held in preparation for early registration scheduled for May 12-17. It is essential that students confer with their advisers for instructions before the spring vacation.

Ag folk dancers give recital today

Sophomore folk dancing classes on ag campus will present a recital tonight from 7 to 8 p. m. in the activities building.

The program will feature the folk dances of all the countries in the world, with special emphasis on dancing in America. All students are invited to attend.

'A Day in Rome' is lecture topic

"A Day in Rome" will be the subject of an illustrated lecture given today at 11 o'clock in room 205 social science by Prof. M. S. Ginsburg of the Latin department.

Though the lecture is primarily for Latin classes, everyone is invited to hear it.

Aviation corps ranks next; navy last

When it comes to the nation's armed forces, the army is still the favorite division of Nebraska students although the air corps is "coming up" and the navy is "going down."

Interviews with 12 students revealed that five would prefer to join the army, four were for the air service and three were in favor of the navy, if they had a choice to make between the three branches.

However, all four who said they would join the army are members of the advanced ROTC and eligible for commission in the reserve army. Those who favored the air service had received previous training in flying.

Four volunteers.

Also asked if they would volunteer in case the United States decided to send armed forces to aid Britain, three out of the four stu-

Ivy Day poem contest opens, offers $5 prize

Students wishing to submit manuscripts in the Ivy Day poem contest should do so immediately, according to an announcement yesterday by the Mortar Boards who sponsor the competition. A five dollar prize will be awarded to the winner, who will read his poem on the traditional Ivy Day.

Judges for the contest are three members of the English department. All entries must be mailed or submitted to Mrs. Ada Westover, secretary to the dean of women in Ellen Smith hall. Three copies must be submitted and the name of the contestant must not appear on the same paper as the poem but must be enclosed in a sealed envelope and handed in with the manuscript.

Members of Mortar Board urge men to enter manuscripts this year as well as women. The only specification in regard to the poem is that it must be relevant to Ivy Day proceedings and tradition. All undergraduate students may enter the contest. The deadline will be shortly after spring vacation.

Barbs meet next week to endorse spring candidates

At a meeting of the Barb Union and the Interhouse Council next Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. candidates for the spring election will be endorsed according to an announcement by Blaine Sloan and Esther Connet, presidents of the groups. Filings should be turned in at the barb office before Saturday.

To insure the fairest possible means of nomination, any unaffiliated student is invited to attend the meeting and nominations may be made from the floor in addition to those made by filings. Both bodies have set up a system of endorsing both men and women candidates.

Each barb club and house will have representation and a vote in nominating candidates to be endorsed. In addition any student not representing any club who is interested in attending meetings may become a voting member by attending three meetings.

Students wishing the endorsement may turn in filings to Sloan and Miss Connet as well as to the barb office.

Council chooses eight holdovers

Election of Burton Thiel, Dale Theobald, Chris Petersen, Marvin Thompson, Mary Rosborough, Marion Cramer, Ruth Iverson, and Alice Jean Humphery as holdover members for next year's Student Council highlighted the meeting last night.

Other Council members will be elected at the polls April 22 along with student representatives on the publications board, representatives to the ag executive board, and candidates for Innocents society.

An amendment to the Council constitution changing the representation was passed and will go before the student body for acceptance at the general election. "This change," explained Dale Theobald and Burton Thiel, co-chairmen of elections committee, "is being attempted in order to make the representation more democratic."

How system works.

Colleges and schools in the university will be represented according to the number of students enrolled the last semester instead of by the numbers now in the constitution. The amendment contains the following provisions for representation:

Each undergraduate college or school on the campus will have one member on the Student Council regardless of size, and such a member shall be elected from the majority sex. If the membership of their sex reaches a total of 601 and does not exceed 1000 then an additional representative shall be allowed. Upon reaching a membership of 201 a minority sex shall be allowed one member on the Council. When a minority group has a membership between 601 and 1200 it shall be given another member. Either sex having 1201 to 1800 shall be allowed a third representative.

Filings due next week.
