Vocational education . . .

Department offers courses in home economics, agriculture

The function of the department of vocational education is to prepare teachers of vocational agriculture and vocational home economics for efficient service in Nebraska high schools.

For men and women four years of undergraduate study are required. Candidates must have a comprehensive knowledge of the subject matter in agriculture, home economics, and related sciences. Undergraduate courses in vocational education furnish the training in methods of organizing and teaching from the standpoint of vocational efficiency.

Other courses deal with the philosophy and history of the vocational education program. From other departments courses in educational psychology and problems of the entire high school round out the professional training program.

Courses on graduate level.

The summer session courses in vocational education for men are all on the graduate level. A special four weeks' session is offered because the teachers of vocational agriculture in high schools are employed on a 12 months basis with one month for vacation.

Special opportunities for both the graduate and undergraduate student are provided in the vocational homemaking courses offered during the short session. Two courses, Teaching Home Management, which may be taken by either graduate or undergraduate students, and Seminar in Home Economics Education which is open to graduate students only, will give definite help and inspiration to the teacher of homemaking whether she expects to complete the requirements for a master's degree or desires simply to refresh her knowledge and improve her teaching techniques.

Organization and Administration

Lincoln residents are urged to live in the dormitories if possible, but in cases where this is impracticable the fee will be $16.50. Girls will live in the Pi tion of Homemaking Education is an undergraduate course which is required of all students who expect to teach home economics whether they have a major in home economics or just a teaching minor in that field.

In this course the prospective teacher gets definite helps on the selection and organization of materials to be taught in homemaking courses in either the vocational or non-vocational departments.

South American tour . . .

in line with the recommendation of the National Department of State "in order that Americans may become better acquainted with South America." Students taking the trip will be given an opportunity to earn up to eight credit hours in the Spanish seminar of the summer session. Study is open to any tour member, with credits earned transferable to any educational institution in the country.

Leading the group will be Dean Hosp, recently made a member of the Speaker's Bureau for the Committee for Commercial and Cultural Relations between the Americas, of which Nelson Rockefeller is co-ordinator.

Spanish classes.

Teaching Spanish on the tour will be Carlos M. Teran of Ecuador and now in the Spanish department of the University of California. The Spanish course will consist of classes on shipboard, conversation, daily discussions, and conferences while in South America.

Traveling by ocean liner, private automobile, motor coach, railroad, steamer, cable railroad, and air-liner, the group will visit both the east and west coast, including travel in Panama, Ecuador, Peru.

Beta Phi house and boys at the Delta Tau Delta house. All meals will be taken at the Union.

Private music lessons.

Classes will be designed to aid the high school student to a fuller appreciation of his musical talent. Private lessons will be given by members of the music department faculty. A series of Sunday afternoon concerts will be presented by the band, orchestra, and chorus in the Union ballroom.

The last concert will take place on Wednesday evening, July 2, when all three organizations will make their final appearance. These concerts will be open to the public and broadcasts also are planned so that relatives and friends of the students who are unable to come to Lincoln may share in the music. Students may also use the University's recording room to make records for a nominal fee.

Application blanks may be secured from local high school officials or from the department of music at the university. The blanks

Rosenlof goes to Chicago

Dr. G. W. Rosenlof, director of admissions, will attend meetings of the American Association of Collegiate Registrars in Chicago this week.

Lentz writes pamphlets

Don Lentz, of the music department, has been commissioned by Boosey, Hawks & Belwin, music publishers to write a series of teaching methods for woodwind instruments. The first booklet, "Method of Teaching the Bassoon," is now off the press, and is one of 12 publications planned.

Bolivia, Chile, Argentina, Brazil, and Trinidad.

Sightseeing programs have been outlined and arrangements have been made by Miss Hosp and the members of the party to visit social groups, civic organizations, business firms, schools and universities. Directors of the Museums of Archeology and Anthropology in Lima, two of the best institutions of their kind in the world have been contacted as well as presidents of several of the cultural institutions in South America.

The tour group will sail from New York July 28, on the M. V. Aconagua of the Chilean line to the Panama Canal zone in six days and return on a five day steamship trip from Port of Spain Trinidad.
