

Former students get wings . . .

According to an announcement received from Randolph Field, Texas, the "West Point of the Air," the most recent class to complete the basic flight training program included two former university students, Richard L. Bisgard and Charles C. Parmele.

Pictured above is one of the powerful low winged monoplanes used in the training of cadets at the field. The plane has a cruising speed of over 150 an hour.

College athletes urged to continue physical exercise

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. (ACP). Post-graduate athletic activity should be the goal of all American college athletes, particularly at this critical period, according to Lawson Robertson, Penn and Olympic track and field coach.

"From the standpoint of physical condition it is wrong for a young man who has been competing for eight years through high or prep school and college, upon his graduation from college, suddenly to stop all athletic activity," said Robertson, who in April observes his twenty-fifth anniversary as University of Pennsylvania track coach.

"Most athletes are graduated when they are 21 or 22. That is an age when they haven't yet reached their physical maturity. They should participate in some form of athletics until they are at least 25, the age of full physical maturity."

Velma McPeck tells women 'How to Meet Public'

"How to Meet the Public," will be the subject of a lecture by Velma McPeck, head hostess of the Burlington railroad lines, when she speaks in Ellen Smith today at 4 p. m. on the current vocational lecture series.

Sponsored by the AWS board and the dean of women's office as the third speaker in their series, Miss McPeck was the first woman to be appointed passenger supervisor by the railroad. She has also been manager of a department store and of tearooms in Kansas and Oklahoma.

Besides discussing "How to Meet the Public," Miss McPeck will explain positions open to women in the transportation line. "This speaker's topic should be of interest to everyone, stated Dean Hosp in urging coeds to attend the meeting. "There are many positions requiring a knowledge of meeting the public."

Honor lists show . . .

Men are smarter than women in Nebraska by 20 percent

Nebraska men make better scholars than do their female classmates. At least that is the conclusion indicated by the ratio of men to women students on the honor rolls of the university as announced at Tuesday's convocation.

Three hundred and seventy-four of the 607 students honored were male, Prof. L. B. Smith, chairman of Honors Convocation committee, announced. The fair sex placed 233 of their number on the lists. Thus the men numbered slightly over 60 percent of the honor students.

Among the seniors the difference was especially noticed. Twice as many senior men as senior women were honored. Seventy-four senior men and 37 senior Honorary organizations sponsor . . . First Journalism Day May 2 features Martin as speaker

An evening banquet with Dean Frank L. Martin of the Missouri U school of journalism as speaker will climax the Journalism Day to be instituted on the university campus Friday, May 2. During the day men and women prominent in journalism will lead round table discussions.

The event is sponsored by the Lambda chapter of Theta Sigma Phi, national honorary for women in journalism; Sigma Delta Chi, journalistic fraternity; Gamma Alpha Chi, advertising sorority, and the school of journalism.

"Service a Free Press Renders in a Democracy" will be the keynote of Journalism Day, Dorothy Gordon, of the UN chapter of Theta Sigma Phi, announced yesterday. A series of talks and round table discussions on the problems and advantages of the various journalistic fields will occupy the afternoon session.

Dean Martin, a native Nebraskan, is a graduate of the university.

Among the leaders of discussion groups are Governor Griswold; E. W. Huse, president of the Nebraska Press association; George Grimes, managing editor of the Omaha World-Herald; Prof. Forrest C. Blood of the university; Ralph Cox, former president of the Nebraska Press association; James E. Lawrence, editor of the Lincoln Star; Fred Arnold of the Journal, and Ruth Donovan of Lincoln.

"In view of the important part newspapers are assuming in the defense preparations, it is wise to start now to better educate the people in journalistic work," Miss Gordon declared.

Students dispute fashion decrees

EAST LANSING, Mich. (ACP). Fashion experts may recommend high rubber boots, knee-length stockings and head-scarfs for the well-dressed coed, but Michigan State college's male population observes such dress with a chilly eye.

In inquiring-reporter interviews with "stags" on the campus, the Michigan State News, college tri-weekly, discovered that men like "less boot."

Some typical comments: "Long socks, especially blue and green ones, look like infant's wear. Besides, they're too coarse. . . ." "Most women look clumsy in high boots or babushkas and no stockings."

Other male complaints centered on snoods or bandannas in class—"they make the girls look like gypsies"—nail polish half off, bare legs, girls in front rows of classrooms with dresses too short, tall girls who wear high-heeled shoes and short girls who wear low-heeled shoes, and the new boxing-glove mittens.

Ag, city YMCA groups to hold retreat Saturday

First joint ag and city campus YMCA retreat of the year will be held Saturday at 5 p. m. in the Lincoln Hi-Y building. A new feature of the program will be a softball game. Following the game will be the usual weiner roast and discussion.

"The Christian and War" will be the title of the group discussion, which will be led by C. D. Hayes, general secretary of the Y. Those attending will be invited to express their views on the subject, which will cover several questions regarding the present international situation, the relations of the war to the United States, and the proper Christian attitude to war.

The group will meet at 4:45 in the Temple and leave at 5 p. m. for the Hi-Y. Cars will be provided for the trip. Charge is 20c to cover expenses of food and transportation.

women made the honor roll. Among juniors, 86 men and 61 women were honored, while 88 sophomore men and 69 sophomore women made the lists.

Freshman class placed the largest number of students on the roll, because of its larger enrollment.

AWS will sponsor Ivy Day tea dance

AWS will sponsor the annual Ivy Day tea dance May 1 in the Union. Henry Mattison's orchestra will play at the affair. Admission is 10 cents per person and dancing will continue from 4 to 6.

for those

EXCITING DAYS

this spring

We offer YOU the Finest in New Spring Suits

You'll want a suit that will fit well and feel extra cool for those balmy days this spring. Special events call for special clothes and our complete stock of Flannels, Shetlands, and Worsted Cheviots are standouts in any league. Be at your best in one of these striking spring suits. Priced at $25.00 and $32.50.

$25 to $32.50

Let's go to

MAGEE'S

for SPRING SUITS

Something New Under the Sun

Long's presents the SPECIAL TABLE

New and used books; novels, texts, and references at the lowest prices in town.

SPECIALS

- A complete volume of Keats & Shelley 90c
- Poems and Plays of Robert Browning 90c
- Practical Encyclopedia 75c
- Dictionaries 75c

Look for the SPECIAL TABLE When at Long's Watch This Paper for These Bargains Each Week

