

Science Gives Housewives Better Spuds

Nebraska housewives will be getting better potatoes from now on if the recently revised U. S. standards for potatoes are enforced.

One of the principle changes in the revised standards, according to the agricultural marketing service, is a reduction in the tolerance for undersized potatoes.

Previous standards have permitted a 5 percent damage or hollow hearted spuds, new regulations reduce this damage to three percent.

In recent years, however, other types of concealed defects such as various types of necrosis, stem-end browning and internal brown spot have become important defects in some potato districts. In accordance with consistent policy the revised standards permit the application of this additional tolerance of five percent to such concealed defects as well as to hollow heart.

New standards require all grades

Pardon Us—Please

The "Daily" staff wishes to offer its humble apologies to Bill Horney for calling him "Honey." We know that he's kind, sweet and lovable, but that name should be saved for certain appropriate moments. We are very sorry Bill, and will try not to make the same error twice.

except seconds to be free from blight instead of free from injury or free from damage by this defect. Experience has shown that tubers affected with this disease at shipping points very often break down and decay in transit.

Husker Trio Operates Pumps To Earn Money for Supper

. . . Pool Resources for Venture

They call themselves the Husker Trio—Bob Ford, Hunkey Hungerford and Paul Davidson. But they don't sing for their supper; they operate a filling station.

They're three fellows from North Platte. One wanted to be a lawyer, one an engineer and the other a business man; all of them wanted to come to Nebraska. Only a minor matter of funds was holding them back. Then they conceived the Husker Trio.

The boys pooled their resources, leased a station on 16th and "P" and began their venture. Now the business provides all the partners with board and room, money and more.

The wise guy who panned a college education when he wrote the song about "taking examinations to run the filling stations" was all wrong. Hunkey, Bob and Paul reverse that order.

Greeks Will Open I-M Program First of October

Starting sometime in the first week of October the greeks will begin the battle of the Jack Best intramural sports trophy.

Best was a trainer of the university sports teams from 1888 till his death in 1923. The trophy is offered in his memory by the intramural board to the fraternity scoring the most points in the season's competition of various sports.

Each year a new trophy is offered. The club that wins it for the year keeps the trophy. It is one designed by the intramural department especially for the competition.

The trophy was won last year by Delta Upsilon with Alpha Tau Omega running a close second. The winner was not decided until the semifinal round of softball. The first trophy was copped by Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

Strader Outing Is Postponed

No YMCA activities are planned for this week-end. The first regular meeting of the organization will be held next Wednesday with definite details as to time and place to be announced Monday.

The overnight outing at Camp Strader originally scheduled for this Saturday and Sunday, September 20 and 21, has been postponed to next week-end.

Miss Deyke Will Become Mrs. Augustine Tonight

Deyke-Agustine.

Elaine Deyke, Chi Omega, will be married to Harold Augustine at 8 p. m. this evening in the First Lutheran church of Lincoln. The couple will make their home in Louisville, Ky., where he is a chemist for DuPont.

the president in this war crisis, he answered that the president was elected by the people too.

"Anyone with an ounce of intelligence knew that the pledge to 'keep America out of war', and 'All aid to Britain' were absolutely contradictory", Linton stated, reminding his audience that both Roosevelt and Willkie were openly interventionist.

Following the forum there was informal discussion and refreshments were served by the union.
