When asked about the Nebraska

Gridders Run Down Frosh In Skirmish

Turn in Large Number Of Touchdowns But Fail To Impress as a Whole

By Bob Miller.

In a scrimmage that was ragged from the standpoint of polish and perfection, the Huskers drove approximately 11 touchdowns over an opposition composed of freshmen.

This marked the first time this year that the freshmen have been called upon to provide blocking material for the varsity squad since they have been out for practice less than a week.

Varsity Looks Bad.

At that, however, several times during the afternoon they made the offensive drives of the "big boys" look bad. Coach Ad Lewandowski kept running in different teams to stop the first squad and nearly every freshman got his chance.

At first there were kickoffs that had to be mastered with the frosh doing the kicking and then trying to tackle the opposing player. Then they had to punt for them. At last came the real actual scrimmage efforts.

Playing on wet sod the A, B and C teams took turns on the offense with frosh on defense exclusively.

Assignments Missed.

The frosh seemed to have a hard time doing what they wanted to do with assignments missed and running questionable. Vike Francis put the first tally across with four of his famous rushes thru the middle.

Athey was good for another marker and then Al Zikmund took over and ran the opposing frosh into the ground and that can be taken literally. One freshman came up with mud covering his face after he had tasted an Ord still arm special.

Sindt Tallies Twice.

For the seconds Wayne Sindt did his best which amounted to two touches that made the most of his running technique. Howard Debus was another of the headliners.

Debus ran away from the opposition on several occasions with only one counting. His pass to Fred Metheny was good for a substantial distance in addition to its resulting in a touchdown.

Stub Hansen Scores.

When the third outfit went to work on the offense, Willmer "Stub" Hansen took over. On his around end sweeps he drove to three touches to show that a little man can play football along with the six footers.

Even with this array of markers, the play looked too spotty considering the opposition to make this scribe a talking advertisement for the Huskers to appear in any of the bowls.

It will have to improve if the Scarlet gridders hope to go thru the season undefeated.

Biff Jones Hit Of Grid Club's First Fall Confab

Lincoln business men convened Tuesday night at the University Club in the first meeting of the Quarterback club. Throughout the grid season, the club meets every Monday noon to discuss Saturday's game.

Biff Jones, Husker mentor, indicated the Huskers had passed expectation and would be faster than last year's club. The Husker mentor provided the highlight of the evening when pictures of the Rose Bowl battle were shown. After the Huskers had scored their opening touchdown, Biff ordered the machine turned off with, "That's enough!"

First Edition Of 'Awgwan' Due October 15

A dash of fashion—a sprinkling of jokes—new, bigger and better gore—plus a feature by the newest addition to the staff, Norris Anderson, will be included in the first edition of the Awgwan, due to appear October 15.

Incidentally it has been rechristened Awgwan from the former title, Awgwan Flash. James Lepsey is editor of the publication.

The Sports Mill

By Bob Miller

When Green Bay Packers toppled Cleveland off the summit of the National football league's western division Sunday, an ex-Husker of last year had a share in the spotlight.

Herm Rohrig, backfield All-American, booted a 36 yard field goal from a difficult angle that turned the tide. The Packers turned on the heat after that and ran up a 24-7 final score.

HERM ROHRIG

Two other former grid greats hit the news in the Sunday games

—State Journal, when Harry Hopp, last year's big noise on the turf, and Bill Calahan, fullback of several years ago, led the offense for the Detroit Lions in their battle with the Brooklyn Dodgers. The Lions lost however, 14-7.

"The 1941 frosh grid situation brightened up perceptibly yesterday when Coach Fred Oster smilingly greeted seven more yearling huskies hopping up the squad to 24 men" was the comment in California Daily Bruin at U. C. L. A.

They must certainly have a devoted group of freshman to get all of 24 men out for freshman ball. Nebraska could only induce 100 more than that number to check out.
