

The Sports Mill

By Bob Miller

The Big Six banner dipped slightly last week end as the result of the conference teams' showings against non-conference foes... Oklahoma and Iowa State were the two teams that held up the conference prestige...

Oklahoma was the team that really did the job up in fine style with a crushing 19-0 shellacking of the Oklahoma Aggies team... The Sooners definitely established themselves as one of the top teams among the Big Six...

With Jack Jacobs, Orville Mathews and Huell Ham either on the running end or the passing end, the Sooners scored when the heat was on... The Aggies showed plenty on their side of the ledger, going to the Sooner four, one, half and five yard lines before being repulsed...

Iowa State was the other team to break the spell that seemed prevalent during the wend end games when they invaded the Mile High City to take on Denver, 7-6.

Royal Lohry and Paul Darling were the big guns for the Cyclones as the former plunged over for the touchdown and Darling added the extra point that spelled the margin of victory...

One of the interesting sidelights of the game had to do with a one yard punt... It seems that a Denver back punted out 26 yards when the break occurred which was helpful or not, according to your partisanship, and bounced back for 25 yards... That starts off the season all wrong for this particular punter...

Kansas State was the biggest surprise of the day... Heavily favored to crush the tiny Fort Hays

State team, the Aggies were repeatedly tossed back and came out with a 0-0 tie...

This score was a moral victory for the Fort Hays team, since they were so much of an underdog... Hobbs Adams' crew seemed to lack what it takes... Considerable improvement in scoring tactics will have to be shown if the Kansas team wants to come out of next Saturday's tilt with Northwestern with even a little prestige...

Missouri's Tigers were victims of the Big Ten representative... Ohio State took everything the Missourians had to offer and came out on top, 12-7...

for the Tigers but it fell short as the T was stopped... We wonder what will happen when T meets T in the campaigns of this fall...

With Ralph Miller playing over his head, Kansas U bowed down to superior strength back at Temple, 31-9... The score looks one-sided but the Jayhawk news bulletin yesterday charged off the loss to "one of those first game lapses"

Miller was the big noise with his completion of 13 out of 24 passes... Even with all of this in mind it still looks like the Jayhawkers took quite a hiding...

All we want to see now is how Nebraska will fare with Iowa State.

had twice been sold for feed rates. Market Wise not only nosed out the touted Whirlaway but he galloped to a new North American two mile track record. Market Wise reflected his monicker by returning $57,900 profit to his backers.

Referee "Red" Friesell, famous for his "wrong play" decision in a Cornell game last fall, suffered a broken leg while refereeing the Brooklyn-Philadelphia pro football tussle. A Brooklyn performer evidently mistook the girlish Friesell figure for the football. The game was held up for 15 minutes while the physician cared for Friesell.

Highlights of the football slate are chronicled elsewhere on this page.

Herndon Acts As UN Captain In First Game

Huskers' Feelings Higher As Team Guns for Iowa S.

With the announcement that Clarence Herndon, tackle stand-out, would captain the Huskers in their first 1941 game at Iowa State on Saturday, the gridders, feeling running high, moved into the last week of practice before the first game in high gear.

Herndon, 200 pound Grand Islander, has won two major letters at his position and was the "Iron Man" of the Rose Bowl unit playing nearly 57 minutes.

Monday afternoon several changes hit the bulletin board as the result of the scrimmage Saturday. The first team remained intact as did the second but on the third team where competition is developing a great deal, there were some changes.

At right end will be Jack Hazen and Jerry Prochaska; right tackle is Phil Borden; right guard, Bill Bryant and Jack Nelson; center, Forrest Bachman; left guard, Charley Duda and Gene Irick; left tackle, Francis Liek; left end, Ed Nyden; number one back, Dean Jackson, Kenny Simmons and Wilmer Hanson; number two, Bob Cooper; number three, Randall Salisbury, and number four, Roy Long.

Forrest Bachman has finally captured the center on the thirds and Duda has been sent to the guard position where he and Irick are on even terms.

Girls' Sport

Forty-five physical education majors were guests at a tea given by Miss Mabel Lee and the P. E. department staff, Friday afternoon in Grant Memorial. The new majors took part in the afternoon's entertainment by singing several selections. The upperclassmen presented a modern dance satire on registration. Sherbet and cookies were served.

Soccer baseball really lived up to its name last Thursday when an unidentified participant in a practice game was knocked out by a hard pitched ball. The speedy action of Ruth Mathers, who administered first aid, spared the girl from serious injury.

Organized groups who have not practiced should schedule them next week.

All girls interested in selling candy at the football games must be interviewed by the WAA council within the next two weeks. Interviews will be held from 10-11 and 3-4:30 Monday through Friday in the WAA lounge. Salesgirls are to be admitted to the games without charge and will receive a 10% commission.

Hectic Weekend Provides Thrills

Uncle Sam's athletes swiped the spotlight from the hectic defense program last week end with a varied series of newsworthy happenings.

Brooklyn's "beloved bums" took the National league pennant chase to provide sport scribes with the headline item of the week. Larry MacPhail's colorful proteges have earned the right to meet the powerhouse Yankees in a world series that bids fair to establish a new high for color and gate receipts.
