Week program last night in the Union ball room.

"You must work for a new social order to the degree that you would give your whole life to it. Begin to act human now. Give everything you have for this effort of good will and understanding," said Hunter, one of five leaders who participated in the discussion of "How can students help win the peace?" Others who led the discussion were Dr. John Nelson, Dr. Hilda Ives, Dr. Hachiro Yuasa, and Rev. Dewitt Baldwin.

Dr. Hunter stressed emphatically that training for this new order was of vital necessity. All (See SESSIONS, page 2)

Coll-Ag Fun Nite Staged Tomorrow

The annual Coll-Agri-Fun Revue, musical and dramatic "fun nite" staged by the students of the college of agriculture, will be held tomorrow evening in the student activities building on ag campus. The revue will begin at 8 p. m.

Seven skits and four curtain acts will make up the program, and will be presented by various student organizations and individuals. According to Lloyd Hurlbut, assistant professor of agricultural engineering and chairman of the faculty Coll-Agri-Fun committee, the main purpose of the revue is to provide an outlet for dramatic and musical talent on the college campus, and most of any profit derived from the show is placed

Red Cross Pledges Two More Houses

Two more sororities, Pi Beta Phi and Alpha Phi, have joined the list of houses on the Red Cross 100 percent list. The drive, now in its fourth day, will continue until Nov. 21 when it is the hope of the student council committee that every house on the campus will have pledged each of its members to membership in the organization. As yet, no fraternities have joined 100 percent strong.

Due to crowded space Thursday's honor roll call will not appear in Friday's Daily but Sunday's paper will carry the complete list of those persons who have become Red Cross members thus far in the drive.

Library Observes U. S. Guide Week With New Display

American Guide Week being observed throughout the nation is the source of a special exhibit now on display in the UN library. A series of publications of the federal writers project have been placed in show cases and others are available from the shelves of the library.

Books in the exhibit include well-known volumes on Wyoming, New Mexico, Florida, Virginia, Washington, Georgia, Kansas and other states and territories. Subject matter is interestingly presented and photographic illustration is excellent.

Volumes of the series may be checked out by students under regular lending regulations for two-week books from the main library.

in their cars and airplanes, according to Col. C. J. Frankforter, associated professor of chemical engineering. The new supergas can now be produced in large quantities but higher compression engines are needed to properly utilize it. These engines undoubtedly will be constructed in the near future.

This "110 octane" gasoline will give appreciably more power than the lower octane fuels. It is predicted that a plane will some day be able to fly from New York to London on the same amount of gasoline it now takes to fly from Newfoundland to London.

At present, according to Colonel Frankforter, some 100 octane gasoline is being used to power the present first-line U. S. and British warplanes. He says that after examining German fighters shot down in England, it was found that only about 80 octane gasoline was being used by the Germans. Frankforter explains that the Germans are undoubtedly having some trouble producing higher than 80 octane gasoline.

UN Rallies as Classy Pitt Invades in Search of Win

Spirit Rises As Rooters 'Hot' Tonight

Blazing fire and startling noises will form the red-hot background for the "Pity Pitt" rally to be held tonight at the stadium.

The shooting of fireworks to commemorate Armistice day and to show the invading Pittsburgh Panthers that they are going to be blown up, will feature the activities at the stadium.

Altho the Husker footballers have fallen in their last three games, students, encouraged by the team's great game against Minnesota last week, will march behind the victory bell in the parade which is scheduled to begin at 7 p. m. in front of the Union.

Col. C. J. Frankforter of the chemistry department, Corn-Cob adviser and a traditional figure when Nebraska spirit is discussed will speak at the stadium. Game Captain Abel and "Link" Lyman will also speak.

Husker Band Goes Patriotic At Pitt Game

The UN band is going patriotic, taking the field during the half of the Nebraska-Pitt game Saturday, the organization's formations and music will follow a patriotic theme.

Immediately after the field is cleared, the band breaks into a huge outline of the map of the United States, plays and sings "I Am An American." To the tune of the "Field Artillery" march the group then forms a cannon, the wheel of which turns as the men march thru the formation.

Turning from its salute to the army, the band then offers "hats off," to the navy as it forms an anchor and plays "Anchors Aweigh." "Stars and Stripes Forever" furnishes the inspiration when the organization portrays the U. S. shield.

Returning to their original map formation, a Pershing Rifle unit will come on the field for a short drill. With a grand finale of "I Love a Parade" and the national anthem, "The Star Spangled Banner," the show is brought to a close.

Cornhuskers Seek Upset Saturday

By Bob Miller.

Intent on strengthening their meager win string at the expense of Nebraska's Huskers on Saturday, the Pitt Panthers, 33 men strong, set foot inside the confines of the Cornhusker state today, tarrying in Omaha for an afternoon practice.

Pitt boasts of but one win for the season, but that one was turned in over the Fordham Rams, last week in an upset victory that shocked the entire nation. At the same time the Huskers were shocking the nation with their stand against the Minnesota Gophers.

Hosts Short Too.

The host team can tell of but two victories against four losses and these two were cinch wins over Iowa State and Kansas U., making previous records about even. The edge which will be given to the Panthers by most sports writers comes from the fact that

Kosmet Klub Makes Final Plans for Show

All Kosmet Klub workers must report on ticket sales today between 3 and 5 p. m. in the Kosmet Klub office in the Union. At 5:30 p. m. today there will be work in the west stadium where scenery is being built.

In order to finish preparations for the show all skit masters and presidents of houses who are presenting skits must attend a meeting at 7 p. m. at the Sigma Alpha Epsilon house. Attendance is compulsory.

UN Returns to Missouri Valley Forensic League

... Collegiate Debate Society

By unanimous approval of the participating schools, the university was Thursday officially returned to membership in the Missouri Valley Forensic League.

Organized 20 years ago to promote speech work in mid-western universities and colleges, the association includes 12 member schools. These are Kansas university, Louisiana university, Oklahoma U., Kansas State college, Wichita U., the University of South Dakota, Texas U., Iowa State, Missouri U., Arkansas university, Creighton and the University of Nebraska.

League Holds Meet.

Big function of the league is their annual forensic meet. Member schools participate in debate, discussion, oratory and extemporaneous competition.

On March 19, 20 and 21, the University of Arkansas will be host to the 1942 tournament at Fayetteville, Ark. Nebraska will participate in the debate and discussion divisions, and will probably compete in extemporaneous and oratory also. At the tournament, honors are awarded on the basis of comparative merit to outstanding speakers and teams.

In 1932 this university dropped out of the league because of the excessive cost of membership. Now working under a revised set-up, the association invited Nebraska to rejoin.

Temple Displays Winning Designs In Architecture

Architectural designs, winners in a nation-wide design contest, are on display in the Temple until next Wednesday. The designs make up a traveling Beaux-Arts exhibit from New York.

Chosen from designs sent in by architectural students from colleges and universities all over the country, the designs consist of crematories, marble quarries, chapels and emergency hospitals. The drawings are done in water-color, tempera, or Chinese ink.
