

Singers Plan Yule Festival

Annual Program In Union Dec. 7

The Union stage will be wearing Christmas attire Sunday Dec. 7, for the university singers' third annual Christmas program at 2 and 4 p. m. The singers will sit between two lighted Christmas trees on benches draped in green. On the backdrop will shine a star of Bethlehem and on each side of the singers there will be many lighted candles. The singers will wear red robes and will each carry a lighted candle.

Directed by Dr. Arthur Westbrook, the groups will sing unusual carols from many countries of the world. Copies of all the songs on the program will be distributed to the audience. There will be no admission charge for the program but reserved tickets will be distributed to assure seats to about 800 people. Beginning Thursday students may obtain tickets at the Union office or a ag hall.

According to Union social director Pat Lahr, every year the program has been presented to a capacity audience. "Tickets in former years have been completely distributed by the Thursday better get them early," she advises.

Henzlik Calls For Teachers Exam Filings

Final date for filing applications for national teachers examinations is Saturday, Dean F. E. Henzlik, of teachers college announced Tuesday. Applications may be filed with Ralph Bedell in teachers college.

All teachers interested in the exam should do so at this time, according to the announcement. The test, sponsored by the American Council of Education, will not be given again for a year. Exam dates scheduled are Jan. 2 and 3.

Included in addition to the special school subjects are examinations on English, general culture, contemporary affairs and education. School systems all over the country including the Nebraska towns of Alliance, Gothenburg, Grand Island, Lincoln, Loup City, Nelson and Omaha use these exams in the employment of teachers.

All teachers with a minimum of a bachelor's degree are eligible for the tests.

Barb Group Inspects New Constitution

Next Tuesday evening at 7 p. m. the general assembly of barbs will meet in room 307 of the Union to consider the constitution written for the reorganized group by Dorothy Jean Bryan.

Temporary committee heads will be considered for endorsement by the general meeting, and those heads will report plans and progress of their work. Bob Rieshick will report on the district system, and Louise Woerner will report on the social program for the next three months.

Four officers of the organization who are working on the constitution are Bill Dafoe, president; Lester Wilterdink, vice president; Norma Watkins, secretary; and Dave Marvin, treasurer. They were elected at a general barb meeting a few weeks ago.

Huskers, Oklahoma To Meet

By Bob Miller.

Intent is the word that ably describes the mental attitude in the Cornhusker camp this week as preparations for the final battle of the year with the Sooners of Oklahoma progresses with fervor.

Yes, the Huskers are intent on whipping the Sooners and any word about the Sooners that is passed on in the dressing room is being eaten up by coaches and players alike. Word from the Oklahoma institution indicated that their proteges are just as desirous of cleaning the Huskers as the Huskers are of making them eat dirt.

Vike Is Captain.

Vike Francis has been named game captain for the game and after his showing on the second squad last week, the Viscount was shifted to his former first team assignment at fullback. It will be Vike's last game for the Scarlet horde and he plans to do everything up in brown.

The Huskers are slated to be the underdogs in this contest due to the superior scoring power that (See HUSKERS, page 6)

Ag Judging Team Wins Grain Contest

Nebraska crops judging team placed first at Kansas City in a crops judging contest held Monday. Fred Patterson was high man in the contest and Gene Mundorff placed second, both men are from Nebraska. Merritt Plantz was the other member of the team.

The team will go to Chicago from Kansas City to judge at the International Livestock show. Warren Sals will be added to the team at Chicago.

Band Uses 'Good Luck' As Theme

"Good luck" will be the central theme of the band's last football game performance of the year when it marches onto the field at the half of the Oklahoma game Saturday afternoon. The Oklahoma band will probably also present some music at that time.

The marching unit will lead off by forming a horse shoe in the center of the field. Leaving hats on the ground, the band will then form a four leaf clover within the horseshoe outline. In this formation, a trumpet trio composed of Bob Krejci, Bob Westfall and Art Anderson will play a concert number.

Since about 40 of the band members will be home for Thanksgiving vacation, the circus performance originally planned for the Saturday game has been abandoned.

Talk on Latin America Heads Annual Dinner

The Home Economics association held its annual Ellen H. Richards dinner in honor of its founder last night in the Union ballroom. Main feature of the program was a talk on South America by Miss Allen, principal of Belmont grade school. She illustrated her lecture with moving pictures which she took on her trip thru South America this summer.

UN Students May Become Civilian Pilots Without Advanced Math, Science Study . . . Applications Open Now

You don't have to be another Albert Einstein or even a mathematic major student to successfully handle the Civilian Pilot Training program being given now at the university, according to Prof. J. W. Haney, chairman of the mechanical engineering department.

"A number of the students on our campus are of the impression that in order to handle the Civilian Pilot Training ground school subjects it is necessary for them to be registered in the engineering college or majoring in mathematics or science. This is not the case," Professor Haney remarked. "A large percentage of the students who have successfully passed the ground school courses have not had mathematics, chemistry or physics beyond what they had in high school."

Outlining the requirements necessary to enter the course Professor Haney said, "The minimum scholastic requirements for the first or primary course for a regular enrolled student is satisfactory completion of 27 semester credit hours in any college or division of the university at the time of the beginning of the program. If the applicant is not registered in the university, he must have completed a minimum of 63 se-master credit hours in order to qualify for the primary program."

Twenty-four Class Hours.

"The subject material carried in the primary program ground school consists of 24 class hours of civil air regulations and general servicing of airplanes," Professor Haney said in explaining the training program. "There are also 24 class hours in meteorology, and 24 class hours in elementary aerial navigation. In addition to the ground school courses the trainee gets a minimum of 35 hours of flight instruction. Upon satisfactorily completing the ground and flight instruction the student is awarded a private pilot license.

For the first time since the CPT has been in operation at the university, students registered in the primary course will receive on the completion of the ground school work three credit hours.

The primary course in CPT will be given next semester and all interested in the course should see Professor Haney in his office located in mechanical engineering building. Professor Haney is receiving applications for the course now.

Farms Need Integration Of Practice, Education

. . . Asserts Boucher

Speaking before a meeting of the Pasture-Forage-Livestock group in Omaha Tuesday evening, Chancellor C. S. Boucher declared that agriculture today is indeed a profession which cannot be practiced successfully by untutored novices.

"Praising the Pasture-Forage-Livestock program as "an excellent example of the integration that should exist between a professional educational program and the practice of that profession," the chancellor avered that there is no profession in which it is more necessary for a practitioner to keep abreast of the latest scientific advances.

"It is the business of those in charge of any professional educational program in any university to keep constantly in close communion with the practicing profession," said the chancellor. "Whenever educators in a field of professional education become too much engrossed with theoretical academic considerations and lose touch with the profession as practiced, the educational program ceases to be useful and may be a hindrance to the wholesome advancement of the profession."

Ag Articulation Best.

"In no field, however, do we have better articulation between education and practice than in

YWCA Invites Many Coeds To Hanging of Greens Dinner . . . In Ellen Smith Dec. 2

Inviting many active women students, the YWCA will hold its annual hanging of the Greens dinner next Tuesday, Dec. 2 following which Ellen Smith hall will be decorated with greens shipped from Estes park, and a large Christmas tree will be trimmed.

Reservations should be made at Ellen Smith before Thanksgiving vacation if possible, Francis Keefer, YWCA president announced. Price of the dinner is 35 cents.

Board members of several campus groups are invited to the affair, including the Women's Athletic association, Associated Women Students, Barb Activities Board for Women and Coed Counselor cabinets.

Freshmen committee leaders and freshmen cabinet members of the YWCA are also invited, as are all members of the Vesper Choir, Tassels and Mortar Boards.

Dinner Begins at Six.

The dinner will begin at 6 o'clock Tuesday night, and the hanging of the Greens will follow immediately. Dinner guests put up the greens while the Vesper Choir sings carols from Ellen Smith balcony. This traditional dinner has come to be regarded as one of the most beautiful ceremonies on the campus.

During the early summer of each year delegates from the mid-west attend a conference at Estes park. Because this Estes conference has come to have a very dear place in the heart of every member of the YWCA, a tradition has grown on this campus in the annual dinner for which pine, fir and spruce boughs are shipped for the occasion each year.
