How They Played the Game

"It isn't that you won or lost, but how you played the game." That's an old sentiment that you've seen on posters in grade school and high school and that you've heard Tom Daly use on his WOW sports broadcast. It may be old, but it's still a good one. Right now it's a good one to apply to the University of Nebraska's football team which ended its season with a win over Oklahoma here Saturday. Last year the team was lucky enough to be invited to the Rose Bowl. This year the team had what most people would term an unsuccessful season with only four victories out of nine games. But we don't think it was an unsuccessful season because every game the Huskers played they played with the very best sportsmanship and even though it hurt to lose they played well. So we congratulate the team on a fine season and say: "It isn't that they won or lost, but how they played the game."

Agriculture." The contest, which is held every year it is sponsored by the American Society of Agronomy. Cash awards of $50 were given to Dan Atkinson and Charles Gardner and $25 to Dale Weibel.

The crops judging team was also honored at the banquet. Nebraska placed second in the judging contest. Members of the three man team were Fred Patterson, Gene Mundorff and Warren Sahs. Merritt Plantz and Carl Epp were members of the squad but did not judge. The team was coached by Glenn Klingman, instructor, of agronomy. The team was second in grain grading, second in identification, and third in placing samples. The Chicago contest was the second the Nebraskans had participated in within the last few days, having won first place in the annual intercollegiate contest held at Kansas City last week.

Doyle Free, member of the Nebraska poultry judging team was fourth in individual judging in the show in Chicago.

Free's all-around judging won him $25. Richard Earl also of Nebraska placed third in production judging and was awarded a medal and $10.

Carl Ervin was the high scorer among the Nebraskan team members in the livestock judging contest held by placing 11th in all classes. The team placed 11th among the 28 teams competing. The team was sixth in judging hogs and sixth in sheep.

Kay Says College Campuses Home Of Music Groups

MINNEAPOLIS, Minnesota.—(ACP)—College campuses are the birthplace of more outstanding musical organizations than any other institution in the United States, according to Herbie Kay, orchestra leader.

Kay speaks from experience, because he got his start at Northwestern university.

He is accredited with discovery of such now-prominent stars as Dorothy Lamour, his former wife, Shirley Ross and Jeanne Carroll.

President William H. Cowley of Hamilton college predicts the United States will be fighting in war by January 1.

National Farm-op Organizes Monday

A chapter of the national Farm-Op was organized Tuesday night on the ag campus. An executive committee was formed and plans for a four months program were made. Dave Sander of the ag Y council which is sponsoring the organization was in charge of Monday night's meeting.
