

Huskers Show Superior Scoring In Dropping Iowa State, 39-31

S. Held Has Point Edge Over Foes

Elson and Young Provide Defensive Show; Huskers Tie for Third in Big Six

BY BOB MILLER.

University Coliseum, Feb. 7.—Ability to get a lead and keep it was the deciding factor as Nebraska's underrated cagers handed invading Iowa State basketball a 39-31 lacing to gain a tie for third place in conference standings.

The Huskers captured the lead two and a half minutes after the contest's start and never relinquished it during the remainder. The halftime score was 19-15 in favor of the host club.

Personal Fueding.

Defensive play highlighted the encounter since it brought together Sid Held and Al Budolfson, high scoring Cyclone sensation. During the first half, Budolfson was assigned to guard Held and he did such an effective job that he limited the Nebraskan to four points but in doing so he collected three fouls for himself.

In the second canto the Iowa star was assigned elsewhere and Held went to town, scoring 12 points to annex scoring honors. John Thompson, Husker forward, duplicated Budolfson's feat using the Iowan in the same role. While Thompson was guarding him, Budolfson netted but four points.

Slow Scoring Game.

Aside from these personal side-lights, the tilt was a slow one along the scoring lines. Held started the scoring with his conversion following a foul by Budolfson. He ended the point-gathering, also, by taking advantage of Carol Schneider's foul.

Kenny Elson, sophomore substitute, started his first game at the forward position and his first half net swishing added to his inspired interceptionist role enabled the Huskers to maintain their initial lead.

Starting the second period off in blistering style, the Huskers doubled their advantage in seven minutes and from that point on they could not be headed. Budolfson and Held started matching baskets at this point to raise the score, making no change in the leader's role.

Due to his last half rally, Held led the scoring column with 14 points followed closely by his rival, Budolfson, with 12. Kenny Elson ranked next with 9 points.

Huskers Move Up.

The win over the Cyclones places the Nebraska squad in a tie with the Iowa team for third place honors. Kansas and Oklahoma still head the conference list.

Nebraska is scheduled to entertain the Sooners next Saturday evening in a tilt that should decide whether or not the Huskers will land a first division post.

Turnabout.

Last weekend the same Cyclone team trimmed the Huskers on the Ames court with Budolfson setting the pace with 21 points. Max Young's guarding and Elson's intercepting talents were pleasing to the sparse crowd that attended.

Iowa Matmen Take Meet, 24-6

Newt Copple, 145 pounds and Herb Jackman, heavyweight, were the only Husker point winners as Nebraska matmen fell before a superior group of manpower, Iowa U. The final score was 24-6.

The Iowans won three of the eight events by falls and the remainder that they won were of the decision nature. Besides Copple's exhibition of technique on the mats, Jackman's match was the most popular.

The largest crowd ever to witness a Husker mat team in action were satisfied with the show that they received.
