The wind blew, the snow flew, and in walked Gaskell bearing turbulent tales from the far corners of a cold choked campus. Gaskell was having a poor day, need we tell you that we too have a poor day? Read 'em and weep Chillun.'

The Farm House boys tossed Gaskell some chatter on the big tussle out at their adobe Monday eve. The deal was a free-for-all over which room should have cherished possession of the traditional school bell that is as old as the chapter itself. The bell rests today in the Bull room due to the athletic prowess of old Innocent Harold Bacon who, clad in pajamas, chased a fleeing pledge around the block to capture the prize of war. Shiver me timbers!

Some Stuff.

Then there's PBK Timothy Higgins who came to roost in the grill the other day to discuss in an ultra scholarly manner the rubber shortage and its effects on the girdle market... Beta Bobby Munson will be deserting the old Marty Palmer environment this weekend for the fertile and interesting field that is KKG Eloise Rogers... We'll go out on a limb and predict that "Dad" Bob Flory out at the Kappa Sig hut gives cigars to brothers this coming Monday eve... Dee Gee prexy Jodie Beltzer is his constant companion, you know...

Innocent DU Wilkins

Mark well, ye gorehounds, the "I got it good, and that ain't bad" relationship between Innocent DU Hugh Wilkins and Patricia Henry. For the sake of convenience we'll call this a steady deal and then begin to wonder when the hunk of jewelry will be hung... Don't try to get a coke in the Union before 3 in the afternoon cause it just can't be done. Priorities and all that sort of thing you know... Alpha Xi Fern Bergen and Foo Gamma Claude Wright did that trite thing with the sweets and tobacco Monday eve... This session is done.

Union Offers Prizes to Best Bridge Players

Is your defense stamp book full? Have you room for $1.50 in stamps? This is the prize offered by the Student Union to the winning couple in the bi-monthly Saturday bridge tournaments.

The second in the series will be held at 2 p. m. Saturday, Feb. 21, in parlors A and B of the Union. No admission fee is charged, and students may register at the Union check stand until Friday night of this week for Saturday's games.

Many Graduates Of Dental School Return This Week

During this last week end, several dental college graduates have visited the university.

Last Saturday Dr. Karl W. Bruce, Denver, Colo., stopped for a few hours while on his way to Rochester, Minn. where he will study oral surgery at the Mayo Clinic on a fellowship.

On Monday, Dr. Ralph Ludwick, a 1940 graduate, visited the college. He is now a lieutenant in the navy and has been stationed on the battleship Massachusetts.

On his way to Omaha to apply for naval service, Dr. Wray Russell, Beaver Crossing, Neb., a 1932 graduate, stopped at the dental college.

Word has been received at the dental college that Dr. Loren Anderson, a 1940 graduate, has just completed a year's internship at the Forsyth Dental institution at Boston and is now on his way to Australia with the army.

Laid in 1820, the cornerstone of Bentley hall, Allegheny college, contains a piece of Plymouth Rock, marble from Dido's Temple, mortar from the Tomb of Vergil and brick from the Tower of Babel.

Beginners Learn Ballroom Tactics In Union Series

"Nebraska students learn to dance easily," stated Mrs. John Champe, instructor of the Union class in ballroom dancing, as she encouraged beginners who seriously want to learn the fundamentals of social dancing and ballroom manners to take the series of six free lessons offered by the Student Union.

The class will be held every Thursday in the Union ballroom from 5 to 6 p. m., starting this Thursday.

With Thrills, Chills . . . Swashbuckling Fairbanks Sr. Features Union Flicker Show . . . Sunday Evening

Audiences will again thrill to swashbuckling Douglas Fairbanks, Sr., as he portrays the immortal role he made famous, Robin Hood, in a revival of the picture of the same name to be shown at the Union flicker show Sunday, Feb. 22, at 8 p. m. in the Union ballroom.

The picture was given its premier in November, 1922, at the peak of the actor's popularity, and immediately caught the imagination of the world. The memory of the flying figure of the hero still remains so vivid to the theatergoer that this adventurer type of role is assigned to Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., by popular demand.

Done in the usual style of Union flicker shows, this will be a two hour session complete with popcorn, peanuts, and pianist Ross Gibson. Identification cards are requested.

Uni Requests Two Added War Courses

Two additional training courses in fundamentals of radio and production planning have been requested by the university, and if authorized by the U. S. office of education, the radio course will start March 2 for 16 weeks and the production planning course March 3 for 15 weeks. Both will be held in the evening.

The radio course is recommended by the National Association of Broadcasters to meet the need for an unlimited number of radio technicians in war work. Men and women are eligible who have had high school education with one year of algebra, physics and geometry. This first training will probably be followed by a more advanced course.

The course in production planning will enroll students who have completed two years of college curriculum or have had equivalent industrial experience.

Further information and application forms may be obtained from Prof. W. L. DeBaufre, director of university defense training, Bancroft school building.

Theater Play Opens . . .

cleverly lays a trap for the person he suspects of committing a dastardly crime.

In the events which follow, all of the previously mentioned characters, plus a nun from the priory near the marshes, Sister Theresa, put the finishing touches on the climax of "Ladies in Retirement."

Murder Pantomime.

Figuring prominently in the plot are such things as an old fireplace, with the bake-oven bricked up, a murder-pantomime in the moon-lit living room and—but that's all for now—the curtain goes up at 8 o'clock sharp on the Temple stage for "Ladies in Retirement" tonight.

The play will run for three nights, with the final performance scheduled for Friday night. Tickets are on sale in the Temple box office.

Members of the cast in the production include Phyllis Welch, Lenora; Marie Anderson, Ellen; Josephine Weaver, Emily; Joyce Burke, Louisa; Martha Ann Bengston, Sister Theresa; Maribel Hitchcock, Lucy, and Max Whittaker, Albert.

"Ladies in Retirement" is supervised by Paul Eogen, director of the theater with Romulo Soldevilla as student director. Costumes are designed and constructed by Miss Katherine Schwake, instructor in the art department, and Delford Brummer is in charge of sets.

Alpha Phi Coed Choices Omitted

Candidates from the Alpha Phi house for Typical Nebraska Coed to be presented in the Coed Follies, March 17, were omitted from the list published Tuesday. They are Mary Stephenson and Dorothy Huffman.

Sigma Chi Starts New Student Defense Scheme

Members of Sigma Chi have introduced a new way of making patriotism practical on this campus. Four weeks ago, they adopted a new "penny a day" scheme. Every day each fellow deposits his penny in the bank on the mantel in the house.

When the bank is full, as it frequently is, the money is used to buy national defense bonds. This "penny a day" idea is a new example of student participation in the civilian defense efforts.

Andrews to Talk To AIEE Tonight

Members of AIEE will here Merle Andrews engineering senior, speak on "Engineering Education" at a meeting in university voice studio, Temple basement, at 7:30 p. m. tonight.

After the talk, inspection and demonstration of the voice recording equipment in the studio will be shown by Edward Edison, in charge of equipment.
