Romulo Soldevilla Heads Cast of New Theatre Play, 'Androcles and the Lion'

Romulo Soldevilla as Androcles heads the newly selected cast for the next production of the University Players, "Androcles and the Lion." The other leading character, Magiraera, will be taken by Jane Dalthorp.

In the part of the romantic lead is Darrell Peters, and Marjorie Christianson will help him over the tender moments. Robert Black will have the title part of the lion, but he will have no lines.

Originally written as a satire on Christianity, this play has now become a satire upon dictators and abolition of men of free thought due to the present world conditions. It introduces a new type of drama to the University Theatre, that of the classical comedy.

George Bernard Shaw, the author, is one of the greatest English playwrights of all times, and he has liberally sprinkled this play with typical "shavian" humor and comedy.

The cast supporting the leading actors include:

Bernard Schwartz	.....	Lentulus
Robert Hyde	.....	Jerrovius
Richard Putney	.....	Emperor
Ronald Metz	.....	Centurion
Ray Grimes	.....	Editor
Dale Burleigh	.....	Spintho
Bill McBride	.....	Metallus
Don Riekey	.....	Call boy
Harold Margulies	.....	The ox driver
Roy Sheaff	.....	Retaurius
Leonard Luttberg	.....	Keeper
Max Whittaker	.....	Soldier
Christians Jean Racene, Rosemary Owen, Joe Davis, Roberta Nash, Priscilla Mosley.

On Ag Campus . . . Duly, Russel Finish Five Years of Subtillage Study

By Dale Wolf.
Experimentation is the main purpose of the ag college.

One of the most important studies which has been carried on by the agronomy department is the work of F. L. Duly and J. C. Russel. They have now completed five years of study of a new method of tillage whereby land can be prepared for a crop and brought to harvest without destruction of the residues of the previous crop. This method is called "subtillage" or "subsurface tillage."

A number of new implements and attachments have appeared on the market, in response to the demonstrations of the success of this method. The method continues to show marked effectiveness in the control of erosion and runoff. It is reasonable to expect that

Coed Award Filings Due On Saturday

Filing for the Mortar Board scholarships for freshman women should be in before Saturday noon at the office of the dean of women in Ellen Smith hall.

Freshman women with an average of 85 their first semester and carrying at least 12 hours this second semester with no delinquencies at the six weeks are eligible for the scholarships.

The scholarships are worth $75 each, the money being raised at the Black Masque ball, given annually by the women's senior honorary.

Defense Head Meets Campus Leaders Here

Mrs. Wladislava S. Frost, regional defense coordinator, met with members of organizations working on defense projects on this campus at a luncheon in the Union yesterday.

What the well-dressed man will wear this spring seems a rather insignificant question during a period of war. But as long as there are men to wear trousers—not khaki ones—there will be fashions and styles.

So this is the Daily Nebraskan fashion edition. Through the advertising and the news columns, the Nebraskan has attempted to show what clothes will be shown for spring and also to report the effects of the war on style trends.

On thing is sure: The war has exerted some influences already on men's fashions, and it is sure to cause more changes from now on.

The military influence has been very much in evidence this winter with the rising popularity among students, for example, of the short length fleece coat worn by members of the empire's defenders. Then, there have been so many civilians wearing shoes patterned after those worn by American army officers.

The spring stock of local stores is at about normal, but how much of the summer clothes, already ordered that will be delivered is still in question.

Most far reaching effect of the war on clothes is anticipated in the fall line which will feel the full blow of government priorities of materials. In the autumn will undoubtedly come "V-for-victory" suits with no vests, no pleats—but more of that in accompanying articles.

Regardless of fashions, styles, clothes, a whole nation is agreed on one point: The best dressed man in the country, on any campus, is the man wearing the uniform of the armed services.

Prom Tonight Promises Varied Entertainment

Uni Defense Group Asks For More Aid Clubs to Elect Representatives

Feeling that perhaps more representation should be allowed the campus on the university Defense Committee, that group yesterday announced that any student organization which wishes to be represented should elect a representative and send him to a meeting next Thursday afternoon at 5 p. m. in the commuters club room of the Union.

Organizations that elect representatives should notify Nancy Haycock as soon as elections are (See DEFENSE, page 2)

Be there early!
Be there at nine o'clock with a date without a corsage. Tonight's the night the campus has been awaiting. For tonight's the night that Jimmie Joy plays the Junior-Senior Prom at the coliseum.

Innocents have promised a better-than-good party with a surprise presentation of the 1942 Prom Girl, the BDOC and the twelve beauty queen finalists, in one of the most novel arrangements of the year.

The man who plays two clarinets at once, Jimmie Joy, will provide "sweet swing" for the dancers. Joy comes direct from Chicago's Trianon ballroom and has been a headline performer at the Bal Tarabin in San Francisco, Hotel Steven's of Chicago and the Steel Pier at Atlantic City. Featuring his piping hot clarinet, Joy and his band were a hit on Fitch's Bandwagon and have played for hundreds of collegiate parties.

Formal and military attire will dot the dance floor tonight, and the new university plan of banning corsages will be followed.

Tickets may be secured until noon today at the following places: Union grill and office, Uni. Drug, Ben Simon's and Magee's. Corn Cobs are also handling sales. Election for the Prom girl will be held at the door, and selection will be made from five candidates: Maribel Hitchcock, Kappa Alpha Theta; Jo Duree, Chi Omega; Ann Craft, Kappa Kappa Gamma; Alice Louise Becker, Alpha Phi, and Margery Stewart, Alpha Chi Omega.

Be there early!

Nominations for Miller Awards Close March 16

Three $750 Donald Walter Miller scholarship awards will be given for the 1942-43 academic year, it was announced yesterday, and nominations for these scholarships must be turned in to the scholarship committee by March 16.

Open to upperclassmen in all colleges, these scholarships will be given to the three persons selected from nominations made by the deans and directors of the undergraduate, graduate and professional colleges and schools of the university.

From these nominations the committee will select those to be recommended to the chancellor and the board of regents for appointments.

Students who are to be recommended "shall be students of (See MILLER, page 10)

Survey Shows U. S. Students Think Allies Will Win War Nationally . . . At Nebraska . . .

By Sam Holmes Jr., Associate Editor
Student Opinion Surveys of America

AUSTIN, Texas, March 5—While a plurality of college students believes that there is a possibility of the United Nations losing the war to the Axis, the latest Student Opinion Surveys of America poll shows that almost as many believe the Axis will "probably" be defeated, and nearly as many think the Allies definitely will win.

"Which one of these statements comes closest to expressing your attitude about the present war?" a nation-wide cross section of college students was asked in a poll taken co-operatively by college editors from Maine to California. A panel of four answers was then presented to the interviewees. The statements, (See NATIONALITY, page 4)

By Marsa Lee Civin

"The United States will win the war" according to the majority of students questioned on the nation's number one subject. However, most of those questioned did not believe the United Nations were doing all possible to win the war. Most students felt the internal situation in the United States was bad.

Harold Hopkins, Kappa Sigma: "Sure, we have to win the war. I think England has reached the peak of her production, but that we haven't begun to produce all we are capable."

"Sure, We'll Win"

Ruth Sherburn: "Sure, we'll win. I believe people in this part of the country are doing all they possibly can. We definitely should buy more bonds."
