

Sweaters

The Daily Nebraskan Presents...

Men's Spring Fashions

Pattern Politics Puts Poe In Proprietious Position

By Jean Baker.

Having patterned their political policies after the present national administration, the Phi Delts have put up Bob Poe for a second term as Nebraska's BDOC. Although the honor last year brought him more "razzing than anything else," Bob is still bearing up wonderfully and has remained true to his former clothes policies.

"I still prefer sports-wear for school, double-breasted suits to single-breasted, tux to tails and comfort to style," was Poe's all-inclusive statement as to his clothes taste.

When queried as to a comparison between the contest in '41 and the present Esquire sponsored one, Bob admitted the increased emphasis on politics in this year's voting with each candidate receiving the support of some organization. "It is probably better though," he added, "since this year everyone has the opportunity to vote."

A Flaw!

The only flaw in this year's selection in Bob's opinion is the fact that few candidates really need the clothes presented to the winner. "Disregarding other considerations, most of the fellows will soon be wearing nothing but army uniforms anyway," he concluded. "The distinction of Esquire's name is not to be ignored, however."

Emphatically stating that neatness and taste in clothes were all important, Bob deplored the apparent concentration being placed on the continual wearing of suits by the candidates. He also declared himself as decidedly against extreme and outlandish styles, placing himself in line with typical mid-western practicality in clothes.

Longer coats are the past year's main contribution to any changing style in men's wearing apparel, according to Nebraska's outstanding example of perfection.

Bob reiterated his statement made at the time of winning the

'41 contest as to his owing any clothes taste he may have to the early influence of his mother and her insistence on neatness and care. He added further that he does not believe he has changed his methods and manners any in the year he has borne the coveted title of "Best Dressed Man on Campus."

The interview was ended when the victim refused to reveal his prejudices as to Nebraska coeds' varied and sundry costumes.

Who's Nebraska's BDOC? Attend Prom and Find Out

By Helen Kelley.

This is guaranteed NOT to be a Junior-Senior paid ad. However, it IS about the BDOC and the only way to find out just who he is is to attend the Junior-Senior Prom tonight and dance to the "You Kept Me in the Dark So Long; Oh How I Wish We'd Have a Blackout" band.

Your BDOC was elected yesterday, and although it isn't proper to give hints, it is a well known fact that he had the most votes in that election which the "Rag" and Esquire sponsored.

His identity has been so carefully guarded that he probably won't know enough to go himself. In that case the Elgin pocket watch, valued at $75, will be auctioned off to help defray the cost of the dance.

Bennie Burns.

After the polls had closed yesterday and Bennie had burned all the ballots not in the pile for (?), the honest Rag staff counted the ballots and found that approximately 1,500 students voted in the most outstandingly successful contest ever held on the University of Nebraska campus.

Tonight, this very eve, a BDOC will pocket a watch, get a title, and acquire three new outfits of clothes. Some haul! He will, so to speak, profit considerably.

Not only that, two others, disappointed souls, will start clearing their walls. They will be the recipients of a year's subscription each to the fashion magazine Esquire. They are expected to start finding places for fashion pictures so they can model after those famous styles, and get to be BIG BDOC's next year.

Beat Your Head.

Well, guess there isn't much more to be said, except—if you have any love in your hearts for the Innocent widows-to-be, beat yourself in the head and have a friend dig out a buck and a half and buy you a ticket.

Else you had better buy lots of knitting needles and yarn so the lassies who are so unfortunate as to be tied up Innocently can keep busy while their "friends" wash dishes at a quarter an hour, all to pay the Innocent national debt.

(And if they give me a by line on this, I'll have to leave town with the rest of the Innocents.)

Esquire, Inc. 1942 BDOC ... to be revealed tonight

Men Wore Dodos Once, Now They Wear Weskits

The old vest is now a "dodo," but new sporty "weskits" are distinctly in the style picture, and are becoming more and more popular with collegians throughout the country.

Stores are showing flashy checked or contrasting colored "weskits" to wear with any new spring outfit.

Fashion magazines predict that the "weskits" will be worn with sports coats, loafer jackets, or any kind of coat. All that is needed is a pair of pants.

Nye in Ireland

Lieut. Walter Nye, who went to engineering college and graduated from the ROTC last June, wrote that "I love my assignment"—somewhere with the AEF in Ireland.

Lieut. Nye has two brothers in the service also.

Swing into Spring In Style—Tra-la

Hey fellows! have you been in Harvey Brothers. Boy what an outlay!!! There you will find all the fashion futures for this spring in the finished form. Style, class, comfort, color, practicability... row upon row and rack upon rack of it... a terrific stock of everything the smart collegian wants and wears at the U. of N. Your clothes-conscious cohorts are flocking in to see the spring display... suits, sport coats, slacks, accessories, shirts, sportswear... everything... and keynoting it all... style plus! Get yourself in the swing for spring... start cooking with gas... for every man can be a BDOC in his own right in a Harvey Brothers suit, selected from their super stock of spring merchandise.—Adv.

TONIGHT
Jr. - Sr. Prom
Coliseum
$1.50 incl. tax

WHAT'S NEW

at Miller's

New FROCKS

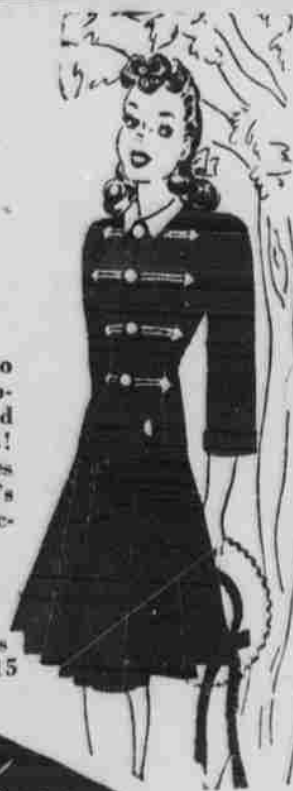

It's spring at Miller's... gay fresh accessories tell the news... pert new frocks headline the season... it's in the air... it's SPRING!

Ellen Kayes have come back to Miller's Junior Shop... more captivating than ever. They're styled plus... and the price is minus! "Arrow Head" (right) goes straight to your heart—and it's just one of our new spring collection.

Miller's Junior Shop—Second Floor

14<sup>95</sup> to $25

Sizes 9 to 15

Lisle Hose

When Fashion meets Necessity, it's news! You're liking lises now that you know how attractive they are!

New ribbed sheer lises—1.15
Plain lises—1.15 (2 for 2.20)
Mesh lises—beige or navy—1.65 (2 for 3.20)

Miller's Hosiery—First Floor

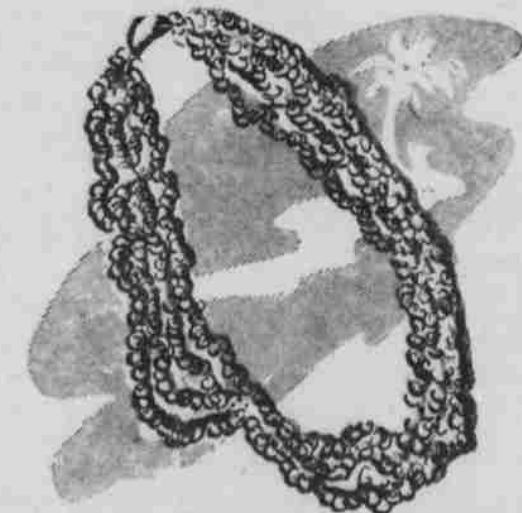

"Pikaki" Shell Jewelry

The tiny white pikaki shell from Hawaii turns glamorous—in to necklaces and matching earrings.

4-strand choker length—3.50
4-strand lei (as illustrated)—4.50
Earrings, pair—1.95

Miller's Jewelry—First Floor

Show your heart

Wear a SERVICE PIN on your lapel to tell the world your heart is in the service. Sterling Silver—$1 (plus tax)

Miller's Jewelry—First Floor

MILLER & PAINE