Navy V-5 Proposes Husker Air Division

Formation of a Cornhusker squadron of the navy air corps will be possible if enough men apply when pictures showing the nature of V-5, the naval aviation program, are presented to students in social sciences auditorium Monday, April 27, from 5 to 6 p. m.

The two pictures, "Eyes of the Navy" and "Sailors with Wings" will be shown to the group, after which talks will explain in detail the program of naval aviation. The following day, Lieut. V. F. Hal-burton will be at Nebraska hall all day to interview and examine candidates for the course.

If sufficient interest among the student body is shown a "Cornhusker squadron" will be organized next fall for physical and preliminary flight training. College juniors and seniors, after enlistment in Class V-5, it was learned, may be deferred from call to active duty until completion of their current college year, if they so request. Thereafter they will be assigned to active training duty in the earliest class in which they can be accommodated.

Reason for this new course is because the navy department desires men for flight training as aviation cadets, leading to appointment as commissioned officers in the United States naval reserve. The period of training requires normally about 12 months at a naval flight training center, after which the successful student is commissioned as ensign, naval reserve, and sent on active duty in the aeronautic organization of the U. S. navy.

Dumond Speaks On Cooperation

... At Convocation Today

Present and future possibility of co-operation between the United States and England will be the subject of a convocation address by Dr. Dwight Dumond, professor of history at the University of Michigan. The convocation, sponsored by the convocations committee, is to be held today at 11 a. m. in the Union ballroom.

Entitled "The United Nations: Unity in Diversity," Dr. Dumond's lecture will discuss the present relations between the two great democracies brought about by the war, and will also explore the theories of closer unity between them than ever before when peace is finally declared. He will also describe the strange medley of races and institutions which stand in the way of such a unity.

Writes Recent Histories.

Author of "Roosevelt to Roosevelt," a recent historical comment based on the Rooseveltian era, he has also written several volumes on the secession movement and the origins of the Civil War, of which period he is one of the nation's most eminent authorities. In 1938 and again the next year Dr. Dumond delivered the Commonwealth lecture in London speaking on the causes of the Civil War.

A graduate of Baldwin Wallace college in Ohio, he received his (See DUMOND, page 2)

Barbs Attend Co-op Spring Formal Tonight

Woest Will Introduce Council, House Officers During Intermission

Introduction of officers of the Council and presidents of the co-ops will take place during intermission of the first annual Inter-Co-op Council spring formal tonight in the Union ballroom at which co-op men and their dates will dance to the music of Hank Mattison and his orchestra.

Bob Woest of Cornhusker Co-op will be master of ceremonies and will introduce the various officials.

Because there is no barb winter formal this year, the Inter-Co-op formal will be the biggest party of the year planned exclusively for unaffiliated students.

Sponsoring of this formal is the most important activity of the Inter-Co-op Council since it was organized last fall to promote co-operation between the co-ops and stimulate interest in the co-op movement on the UN campus.

Neis Nordland of Pioneer Co-op is president of the Inter-Co-op Council which includes two co-ops from ag campus, Ag College Boarding club and Baldwin hall, and two from the city campus, Cornhusker and Pioneer Co-ops.
