

Huskers Meet Sooners on Norman Field

Rival Nines Slated to Clash In Important Big Six Tilts

One game of their three games outstate invasion out of the way, the Husker baseball team moves to Norman today for the all important two game series with the league leading Sooners.

The team met the Oklahoma Aggies at Stillwater last night under the arcs for the first time any Nebraska team has performed upon an artificially lighted diamond.

Today, the Husker nine, 15 men strong, move into the Norman area to meet the Sooner hosts today and tomorrow afternoon on the Oklahoma diamond. The games will be important from the Big Six angle since the Huskers have not won in conference play thus far.

Sooners Can Tit.

The Oklahoma team has good offensive hitting power and that coupled with the effective pitching jobs already turned in by the Sooner pitching staff so far this season. The Sooners have met the Iowa State Cyclones twice this week on the Ames field and twice dropped them by a 12-3 count the first time and a 4-1, the second.

In the second game, the winners showed their ability to hit in a pinch as they found themselves behind. They opened up in the third inning on their scoring barrage which saw them crossing the plate four times before they finished.

The pitching of Dee Sanders plus effective fielding turned the tide from the veteran Willard Mylenbusch of the Iowa State team.

The first game was another pitcher's triumph as Hal Cumberland took the mound for the Oklahomans and allowed but two hits in the eight innings in which he hurled.

In the two games, Stephenson, star Sooner center fielder, scored four runs to lead both the batting and scoring parade.

Cumberland is Tops.

Cumberland made the best pitching appearance so far this season. His ability to stand up under fire has made him the most dependable hurler on the staff.

Nebraska will depend upon Ernie Swanson for most of the work either today or tomorrow with the other mound duties going to Carl Leach or Bob Garrey with Dwight Lambert and Floyd Stark filling in as relief.

Shortstop is in Doubt.

The shortstop situation made acute by the ineligibility of George Gribble, hustling Greenwood sophomore, has made another shift in the lineup.

Dean Jackson, Lincoln catcher, has been moved to the short position to fill in where Buck Gableman has given up for better scholastic marks. Julius Woita will be slated to take on the receiving job.

Wolff is Surprise.

Surprise left-at-home was Frank Wolff, Blair sophomore who has been clicking nicely in the outfield. Wolff in earlier tilts was playing errorless ball and was hitting nicely.

Bob Cooper will take his place with Bob Heinzelman and Jake Sedlack in the right and left fields respectively.

In the infield on first base will be Allen Artman, Kearney first year performer. He was ineligible for the trip to Minnesota and Iowa State but came into his own in the Missouri contest last Friday when he handled put outs and assists with equal errorless ease and in addition boomed out a homer with nobody on base.

At second will be veteran Bernie LeMaster with Jackson at short and Pat Boyle on third base. Clark Rice was carried as a utility outfielder.

The Huskers will return on Sunday.

Mizzou Meets Husker Track Team in Dual

Ed Weir Takes 14 Men To Trials on Columbia Cinder on Saturday

Husker cinder mentor Ed Weir waved the wand yesterday and selected fourteen tracksters to jaunt to Missouri and match strides with the Tiger team Saturday.

Final competition prior to the Big Six sweepstakes, the Mizzou dual is expected to give Coach Weir a clearer insight to what his proteges can do. A heavily-manned Army team nosed out the Huskers by one point at West Point Saturday in the last start.

Two Stay Home.

Quartermiler Bob Bowles and sprinter Don Morris will forego the trip to attend to scholastic duties. Weir said both athletes were eligible but couldn't afford to neglect their books.

Missouri is expected to give the Huskers one of their toughest runs in the Big Six race.

Michigan U. Tests Student Interest In New Program

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (ACP). Six hundred Michigan high schools and 100 from outside the state are being surveyed by the University of Michigan to find out how many of this year's high school seniors plan to enter colleges and universities this June in accelerated programs like that announced by Michigan.

A letter to high school principals describes the university's three term plan and asks for information on number of high school students to be graduated this spring, how many will go on to college, how many will enter the university's new summer term, and what studies students intend to pursue.

Each term of the university's new program will be equal to a full semester, and students entering this June will be able to be graduated with the bachelor's degree in February, 1945.

Information obtained from the survey will be available to other educational institutions.
