

The CLOTHES LINE

FROM CHICAGO

Don James, ATO, has imported a date for the coronation of the campus queen of queens...the "N" club dance featuring Tony Pastor and his orchestra. The date is Saturday, May 16. Tickets are $1.50.

MARGE STEWART,

Alpha Chi, and Ed Butler, ATO, apparently are the couple some ancient scribe was writing about when he penned the immortal "In the spring . . . etc." Last spring, his ATO pin first adorned her blouse. Came fall, and with the green leaves, the maltese cross disappeared. Recently, as buds burst and birds sang, it happened again. This week-end Pen Woods calls. Cupid is alert, but we suspect those Conny Casuals she found in Simon's shoe department prompted her "yes" to the outdoor invitation. Marge chose the moccasin style at $4.95, but many other play shoes, priced from $1.95 to $5.95, are shown. Queen of queens candidate, Theta Harriet Costello's regal eye came to rest upon spectators with black body and white toe and heel, but her glance returned again—and again—to the colorful play shoes. For lounging, campus or country moods she saw Conny casual pumps, in red, white and brown, with open back and toe and soft, flexible leather soles. Her glance lingered over the Huaraches, at $1.99 . . . they may be tinted any color. In red and wheat shades, the new rug sack, rope sole arrivals appeared tops in cool, cushioned comfort. A scarcity of shoes is forecast, but Simon's now have a wide variety with prices to quell budget jitters.

OFF TO

the Marines Saturday are two Sigma Nus, one Phi Psi and a Beta. Paul Svoboda and Joe Walla are the former pair. Bert Smith is the Phi Psi enlistee, while Dean Miller is the Beta candidate. Each leaves many a sultra love affair in his wake.

SMART GIRLS

will have no trouble with finals or that rainy weather "I can't do a thing with my hair" worry if they take advantage of the spring special offered by Ben Your Hair Dresser. The regular $6.50 Joli machineless permanent is now $4.85. . . and it includes the new brush curl set. Pick up the phone and dial 2-2116 for an appointment. Margaret Kenner, Theta, knows this number. No wonder she in turn receives numerous calls from John Saford, Beta. Rena Forsythe, also a Theta, is another coed who follows the campus tradition of depending upon Ben to pin up those locks.

FIRST IN YOUR HEART

is your Mother. And though you've forgotten or put it off for the more immediate sugar or school registration, you can still remember Mother Sunday with a corsage, bouquet or plant wired or delivered anywhere from Danielson Floral company, 1306 N street. First in Her heart are flowers. Danielson's have them.

PAUL SVOBODA'S

little sister, Betty, may miss Jimmie Luceford as her Journal boyfriend has to nurse a cold typewriter tonight. The scribbler by name is Mick Bierbower, the brother of that former Believe It or Not Girls Sports Editor of the Daily a few terms back. Her name is June.

PICNIC SEASON

is on and on the well dressed picnicker are blue denim slacks from . . . you guessed it . . . Simon's new slack shop. Manned entirely by coeds, modeling different types of slacks, shorts, skirts and jackets, each featuring blue denim, the corner made its debut this week.

Emphasizing the turn to the military, Joyce Jirton, Delta Gamma, looks set to go in slacks of cavalry twill priced at $10.95. (Note the tapering legs and lack of cuffs as demanded by national defense style experts.) And for well groomed coeds the razor crease is an all important detail. Of contrasting dark color is her Simon Rothley blouse at $2.95. Proudly showing a pair of snappy blue denim slacks, at the economical price of $2.50, Joyce seems to be about to make a sale.

Attentive smiles from left to right are Eudice Ginsberg, Sigma Delta Tau, who is wearing slacks of that popular gabardine material, water resistant and tough enough for the most vigorous picnic wrestle. She tops it with a gaucho blouse, patterned in Mexican sombreros and fastened with tan straw buttons. The blouse is yours for $3.95 . . . the slacks $6.95.

You will smile with pleasure when you feel the soft French flannel of the brown slacks which Mary Bird, Alpha Phi, is wearing. These are priced at $5.95, and her red opera blouse is only $3.95. Theta Peggy Lemon is next in pastel plaid slacks, in French flannel, $5.95. Her brown and white polka dot silk shirt is $2.95. Sister Ann Beard models a natural colored sharkskin Celbreeze slack suit, complete with jacket, $5.95.

A PERT FACE

and wavy, dark brown hair are set off by a Gail pompadour porkpie, Pat Catlin, Kappa, found when she visited Gold's Headliner Row this week. The last word in casual clothes when worn with the familiar campus cardigan and white turn down collar as in the accompanying photo, and is but dashing when worn with her smooth date outfits and silk hose. And the palpitating pastels . . . one will go with everything, or you can buy a different color to go with each ensemble. Color selection includes beige, rose, yellow, white, pink, sunniblue and aqua.

Just step off the elevator on the third floor as Pat did, walk over to the college-staffed booth, coeds will wait on you, and Gold's will have it for you.

And speaking of hats, you will find that the national trend on style-conscious campuses is definitely toward hats. Not especially the wide picture brims of yesterday, but the modern Nebraska coed longs for a practical edition of that same flattering topper. And as an additional safeguard against the sweeping Nebraska winds, an invisible hat pin secures the hat to your head.

BUZZ'S GAL

Marge Bruning won't be cramming for finals this week-end. Not with those jaunty Mexi-Cooler play shoes from Hovland-Swanson's. She's anticipating picnicking at Pen Woods with Buzz Dalton, Aecia pin mate. It's the last respite for play before exams and her footwear is a fundamental for fun. Selling from $4.45 to $7.95, Hovland-Swanson has a gala selection of sandals by Joyce. Among them are the Cardigan, Gillyflower, Poker Flat, Capistrano and Bonanza styles. They're wedgies, as gay as your banter, as jaunty as your walk, and as comfy as your bare feet. In a light beige shade, the Mexi-Cooler is Huarache patterned with wide leather thongs interwoven to fitting a cool, comfortable challenge to the hot summer sun. The Bonanza features studs along the soles and heels. Bags to match are available from 2.95 to 4.95. Select yours at Hovland-Swanson.

DEAR MOM

There isn't really any way we can tell you how much we love you, but we thought around and made a stab and kinda figured you'd understand. Of course we went to Hovland's, the fashion center of Lincoln. We will just tell you a few of the things we saw because we always had so much fun guessing what was in packages.

First there were super spring scents of all your favorite perfumes and colognes in such delicate cut glass bottles. And over at the jewelry counter they were showing a whole new line of Eisenberg jewelry just received. There was a sparkling rhinestone bracelet which would match your brooch beautifully. And the purses, Mother, were so roomy and at the peak of fashion. They come in all different kinds of materials and colors. . . and are fashioned by your favorite designer, Lewis. And the fourth thing I thought about giving you was one of those soft, sheer blouses, done by Joan Kenley. Can you guess what it is.

P. S. And Mom, it didn't cost much.

LOVELY AS LIFE

will be graduating Ruth McMillan, Theta, when she applies for positions this spring with application prints from Millers studio. She may use her yearbook negative and receive two prints for the price of one. School boards and personnel managers will look again at these photos.

GETTING WARMER

is l'affaire twist Pi Phi Mary Jean Warburton and Kappa Sigma's new prexy, Louie Woole Lehr. They're taking in the Arrow hayride Saturday and a dinner at Lehr's domicile on Sunday.

AND WHAT

is there to this fact that a Kappa and a Theta head got together and put two and two side by side and objected to the "line" of one Phi Gam? Norrie's last name could be Anderson.
