Daily is Phil Kantor, with Leonard Lewis and Morton Zuber as assistants. Alan Jacobs and Marjorie Bruning are managing editors. Reappointed as news editors were Marjorie May, George Abbott and June Jamieson. New news editors selected are Bob Miller and Pat Chamberlain, and Norris Anderson will act as sports editor.

David Walcott will be business manager of the Cornhusker. Assisting him are Bob Henderson, Harold Grossman and Jack Higgins. Managing editors of the year-book are Bill McBride and Betty Hofh.

Awgwan editor for the second semester is Shirley Khyn. Applications for business manager will be reopened because Sheldon Kaufman, unopposed in the filings, was forced to refuse election because of army obligations.

The new editor of the Daily is treasurer of Innocents society, and a member of Alpha Tau Omega fraternity. A previous news editor and managing editor of the Nebraskan, Schlater is also publicity chairman of Kosmet Klub, a member of Student Foundation and Student War Council. He is enrolled in the college of arts and sciences.

Union Board Names Marvin Vice-Prexy

Unanimously elected to serve as officers of the Student Union Board of managers next year at the meeting yesterday were Dr. W. H. Morton, president; Dave Marvin, first vice-president and Laurel Morrison, second vice-president.

Taking the highest student position on the board, Marvin succeeds Morton Margolin in the position of first vice-president. Miss Morrison takes Ruth Iverson's place. Other non-elected officers of the board are Ellsworth Duteau, secretary, and L. E. Gundersen, treasurer.

Student members of next year's board of managers besides the officers are John Jay Douglass, senior, Bill Thornberg, Geraldine Henderson and Marjorie May, juniors, and Ann Seacrest and Lee White, sophomores. These were appointed by the Student Council either last spring or this year.

Following the business meeting, 16 members of the board held a dinner in the faculty lounge of the Union.

Aviation Cadet Board Enlists UN Men Today

Aviation cadet examining board will meet all day today in room 201, Nebraska hall to enlist all applicants for the new aviation air force reserve.

The new reserve is intended to obtain the number of aviation cadets which must be trained every year until the war is brought to a successful conclusion, and at the same time cause the least possible disruption in the nation's educational program.

Students will enlist as privates in the Air Force Enlisted Reserve, aviation cadet candidates whose qualifications under present regulations and instruction for aviation cadet appointment have been determined after examination.

Throughout the United States 31 special air force boards, consisting of one senior and one junior air force officer each, have been appointed for the purpose of visiting 151 selected colleges and universities during the period stated in order to promote the enlistment in those communities of men between the ages of 18 to 26 in the Air Force Enlisted Reserve.

Students enlisting in the reserve will not have to drop their ROTC training, and may continue with the advanced course in collaboration with the Air Force Enlisted Reserve.

Students Get Deferment.

The purpose of the deferment period is to enable qualified candidates who desire to continue their college studies to do so, if the military situation permits. The applicant who desires deferment must be an undergraduate student in good standing, and deferment must not extend beyond eligible age limit.

The number in the Air Force Enlisted Reserve on a deferred basis for the continuation of their college education will at no time exceed a grand total of 54,000.

The board was here previously to explain the new reserve to the students, and clear up any questions concerning the reserve. A convocation was held and applications issued to all who desired entrance into the reserve. Reason for the two week interval was to allow the applicants sufficient time to procure the necessary identification data.

UN to Offer CPT Courses This Summer

Civilian Pilot Training courses will be offered here this summer, if current plans mature. Both elementary and secondary classes will be offered, on practically the same part-time plan as heretofore, and also a new full-time plan which is expected to get under way about June 15.

Details of the new program may be found on page 4 of today's paper.

Ren Bukacek Named I-F Council Head

Seybold Vice-Prexy; Van Landingham Takes Secretary's Position

Ren Bukacek was elected the new president of the Interfraternity Council in the last meeting of the year, yesterday afternoon, in the Union.

Appointed as the new interfraternity secretary was Jim Van Landingham, with Louis Seybold being elected to the vice presidency and Alan Jacobs and Clifton Bloom being elected to the executive committee.

The new president is the past secretary of the Interfraternity Council, a member of the Innocents society and president of Kappa Sigma. The new secretary (See I-F COUNCIL, Page 4.)

Counselors Hold Mass Meet Tonite

Co-ed Counselors will attend a mass meeting planned this evening at 7 in Ellen Smith.

It is essential for all members to be present at this meeting because instructions for next semester's work will be given, Ann Kinder, president, said yesterday.

The new merit system under which the girls will work next year will be explained and girls will be asked to sign up for work with freshmen during registration week.

This will be the last mass meeting of the group until next fall.

Daily Staff Gives Skit At Banquet

Over 100 Attend Theta Sigma Phi Dinner, Hear Howard Blakeslee Speak

Outlining features of science and the art of journalism, Howard Blakeslee, Associated Press and World Wide science editor, spoke last night at the first dinner sponsored by Theta Sigma Phi, journalism sorority, and the school of journalism.

Included on the program was a skit by the members of the Daily Nebraskan staff, who presented a parody on several journalists of Lincoln and Omaha papers. Norma Carpenter acted as toastmistress.

Although this is the first dinner of the kind planned by the sorority, it is hoped that it will become an annual affair. Over 100 reservations were made by members of the department of journalism and student publications.

Cadets Turn In Uniforms After Compet

ROTC cadets start process of turning in their uniforms May 15, the military department has announced.

The turning in of uniforms will be conducted alphabetically, as in former years. Cadets are asked to line up as they come in, regardless of unit. The schedule is as follows: Friday, May 15, A to M; Saturday, May 16, N to Z; and on Monday, May 18, cadets who cannot turn in on Friday or Saturday.

All cadets are warned that they should have only "government issue" articles to turn in. Commercial belts, caps, shirts, neckties will be rejected and missing items will be charged against the deposit.

Bandsmen may turn in uniforms on any date after the 15th. The turning in of band instruments must be accompanied by an "ok" on its condition by the band leader.

Critic Praises Recital of Five Music Seniors Held Before Audience of 350

By Don Dorby.

Coupling technical ability with expressive interpretation, five senior soloists in the school of music last night presented a varied recital before an audience of 350.

Given in the Union ballroom, the program featured Louise Ide, flutist; Marian Percy, pianist; Nelda Michael, contralto; Virginia McNeel, violinist; and John Knorr, organist, all accompanied by the university symphony orchestra under the direction of Emanuel Wishnow.

The whole program was good, and as to individual performances... Miss Ide in her playing of a movement from Mozart's D Major flute concerto seemed to be bothered by stage fright. But Mozart was still his joyful self in her excellent rendition.

Marian Percy was perhaps the most poised artist of the evening as the sombre, powerful music of the first movement of Grieg's A Minor piano concerto rolled feelingly and faultlessly from her fingers.

Everyone Felt It.

One would imagine that Miss Michael's heart was actually at some sweet voice because she, as well as the audience, was carried away by "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice" from Saint-Saen's "Samson and Delilah."

Boellmann's "Fantasie Dialogue," a most melodious piece, was played with calm serenity by Jean Knorr at the organ. But her calm serenity was occasionally ruffled by some difficulty with her footwork.

The orchestra, one institution upon this campus which, I must say, is not fully appreciated, played very well. One observed, however, that one or two of its members found time to make some observations other than those contained in the notes before them.

Out of the 350 people who attended it, only half of them were students, which is an interesting commentary on the student emphasis given to cultural aspects of

Queen of Queens Nominee Number Five

The great day approaches and in advance we have another life history of the fifth candidate for the N club Queen of Queens.

Lois Drake, Chi Omega beauty queen candidate, has big blue eyes, light brown hair and is noted for her b e e - yootiful legs. Her favorite color matches her eyes and makes up the bigger part of her wardrobe along with shades of brown. She dotes on spectator shoes and sport clothes, but turns her thumbs down on hats, purses and gloves as just too much trouble.

Lois Drake.

Lois is a senior in commercial arts and plans to teach after graduation. She also has slight leanings toward the nursing profession which ought to be a break for the army in these days. Despite her popularity, especially with Phi Delt prexy, Lyle King, Lois finds time to maintain an 80 average and consume approximately four cokes a day.

Past social chairman at the Chi O house, she likes nothing better than giving out with a song at any and all times. Other favorites of hers include the great sport of fishing as well as a quantity of hard and fast swimming.

Lois spends most of her summers traveling all over the country, but so far has no plans for the coming vacation. It is a cinch, however, that she won't spend much time writing letters despite her numerous friends, for corresponding is one of her pet peeves.

Lois is a queen in any man's language but only the N club boys know who will be the honored one Saturday night.
