

War Scrap Replaces Annual Decorations

With one eye on the war effort and the other on homecoming, members of the Innocents' society announced today that a revolutionary idea will be used instead of homecoming decorations this year. The annual festivity falls on the Indiana game, Oct. 10.

Innocents decided last night that Nebraska will have a "Scrap Homecoming" with junk metal and rubber replacing the here-to-fore elaborate decorations. Fraternities, sororities and organized houses are urged to get in this drive as they have cooperated in decorations and make the 1942 homecoming the best to date.

The Student War Council, under the direction of Laurel Morison is cooperating with the Innocents in this drive. The committee will handle the administrative duties and collect the scrap, while Innocents will judge the efforts of the houses as in the past.

Each house will be allowed to spend five dollars for a homecoming banner. This banner may either have as its theme the war effort or the football game. Innocents will award cups on the amount of scrap collected and originality of the banner slogans to both men's and women's houses; last year Sigma Alpha Epsilon copped the men's cup with the best decoration, while Alpha Xi Delta won the cup for women.

Houses will be judged on both the amount of scrap and originality of the banner. However, the main idea is to get as much scrap metal and rubber in front of the house as possible. The scrap may be put in buckets or piles so that it can be easily removed after homecoming. All organized houses are urged to kill two birds, the axis and Indiana, with scrap instead of the proverbial stone.

Cornhuskers Cheer Scarlet and Cream At Rally Tomorrow

Husker enthusiasm will get its sendoff tomorrow night as the fans of the Scarlet and Cream gather for the first rally of the season, giving the 1942 football team a rousing sendoff for their home season.

The victory bell, manned by cheerleaders and Corn Cobs will call the students together in front of the Union at 7 p. m. From there the rally will proceed down R street to 16th, north on 16th Vine, and then to the stadium. The varsity band, in uniform, will lead the parade.

Seek First Victory.

Seeking their first victory of the season, the team will send as its representatives, Coach Pressnell, Coach Holm, and game captain, Vic Schleich, to address the rallying crowd. Jack Hogan, yell king, will lead Husker fans in Nebraska cheers and songs.

Busy for the last week on plans for this first rally of the season, Corn Cobs and Tassels, men and women's pep clubs, will make a pre-rally tour of all organized houses at dinner time tomorrow night, announced Frank White and Jean Christie, respective presidents. The Tassels will distribute "N" feathers to be worn at the rally.

Fifth Year for Bell.

This season marks the fifth consecutive year that the "victory bell" has been used to call students for rallies. It is the same bell that formerly stood atop University Hall, where it summoned students to their classes when the university was first organized. It is planned to have the varsity band lead all parades this year, announced White.

Filings Close Today in Pep Queen Race

Filings for the pep queen of the annual Homecoming dance will close this afternoon at 5 in the coliseum, according to Janet Hemphill, co-chairman of the affair.

Candidates must file in person. A large number of entries seems certain and a battle royal is expected. A novel presentation for the queen is being planned this year.

Another new idea will be originated in regard to admission tickets. Full details will be announced later this week, and tickets will go on sale immediately.

Attire for the dance which will culminate homecoming festivities will be informal. The affair is scheduled for 9 p. m. Oct. 10, in the coliseum. The band is still a mystery but Corn Cob-Tassel officials promise a novel dance in keeping with the homecoming scrap drive.

Council Eliminates Separate Drives; Plans Universal Act

Separate campus drives by each student organization have been abolished in the future because of action taken by the Student Council in its first meeting of the year held yesterday.

Replacing the old practice of confronting the students with a separate drive for each organization, only one extensive campaign will be made during the year according to the plan adopted by the council.

Each organization wishing to conduct a drive will give an estimate of the amount of money they wish to raise by such means to the Student Council. When all estimations are received the council will sponsor one universal drive and the proceeds will be divided proportionally among the participating organizations.

Student Council members gathered quietly and at their own leisure for their first meeting of the year. Before a quorum finally gathered at 5:20 p. m., Dick Harnsberger, president, appointed Bill Thornberg Student Council representative on the War Council, and Randall Pratt Council representative on the rally committee.

Various plans up for discussion before the Council at a future meeting include the abolishment of sophomore and junior class officers, a system of proportional representation in hold-over members of the Council, the requiring of all university organizations to get a monthly statement from John K. Selleck's office, and the requiring of a filing fee for all Student Council sponsored elections.

Two vacancies announced on the council are the positions of woman, independent, senior-at-large and that of union faction representative of Law college.

Assistance was pledged this year to the Council's baby, the Nebraska Student Foundation, and co-operation with the War Council.

During general discussion, Harnsberger requested committee reports, the Council budget, and the Corn Cob constitution be submitted at the next meeting, which will be held next Wednesday at 5:30 p. m.

Mobile Army Technicians Recruiting Service Unit Leaves Campus Today

Interviewing university students interested in any branch of aircraft technicians service, the army air forces' mobile recruiting unit, shown above, parked alongside the campus Tuesday and Wednesday and will appear again today. Capt. Phillip Allen, commanding the unit, brought it here from Perrin Field, Tex. Others of the unit are two staff sergeants: one an expert mechanic, the other is just 21; and two corporals. The engine atop the truck is a cutaway 440 horsepower Pratt & Whitney, which is used in basic and advanced army training planes. The army air forces song and other martial airs are played over a public address system on the truck.

According to Capt. Allen, the technicians service needs anyone who has a liking or a skill for work with tools. The service has a place for the watchmaker or the gunsmith or almost any trade between those two. Especially needed are welders, metal workers and precision workers.
