'Stamp Thursday' . . .

Students on this campus will have an opportunity to add their bit to the war effort again tomorrow when the Student War Council begins its first "Stamp Thursday". The project has been carefully planned and the results of the first day should be interesting.

Some men and women on this campus have purchased stamps quite regularly in the Union but the percentage of the complete student body doing such purchasing has been very low. With this program, the War Council is giving every student the chance to buy a ten cent stamp once a week. This will not cut into any one individual's budget but will amount to quite a large sum if every student will participate.

Each week the percentage of students buying stamps will be published and an attempt will be made to have a larger group buying the next week until the complete student body is purchasing a stamp.

Different groups on the campus have volunteered manpower to run the booths during the day. The War Council has gone to a great deal of trouble to buy the stamps to be purchased. Full co-operation in the drive is asked of every student.

In reality this program is not a drive but a carefully devised savings program for the persons involved. Instead of buying two cokes a week or some other small item, students will be placing this amount into savings. It means a stable investment as well as a patriotic duty.

The success of the first Thursday will be determined by actual student interest. Groups should talk it up in their houses and among their friends. If the War Council can give us a program as tangible as this one, we should put it over with a huge success.

"Stamp Thursday" should be a red letter day on every student's calendar and this campus should be buying stamps 100% in a few weeks.

Collegiate Digest Announces Annual Photography Contest

. . . April 1 Deadline

Collegiate Digest, weekly pictorial sheet which runs in many college dailies, including the Daily Nebraskan, is sponsoring again this year its annual salon contest. The winners pictures will be printed in the first May issue of the digest.

The contest is open to all students and faculty members interested in amateur photography. Contestants are urged to submit their entries as early as possible to give the editor ample time to consider them. The deadline is April 1, 1943.

Here are the rules for the contest:

1. All material must be sent not later than April 1, to: Salon Editor, Collegiate Digest Section 323 Fawkes Bldg., Minneapolis, Min.
2. Send technical data about each photo submitted. Give college year or faculty standing of the photographer. Information about the subject of the photo will be helpful. Any size of photo is acceptable. But pictures larger than 3 by 5 inches are preferred.
3. Enter your photo in one of the following divisions: (a) still life; (b) scenes; (c) action and candid photos; (d) portraits; (e) "college life."
4. For the best photo a special prize of $25 will be awarded. First place winners in each division will receive a cash award of $5; second and third place winner, $3 and $2.
5. There is no entry fee, and each individual may submit as many photos as he wishes. Photos will be returned if adequate postage accompanies entries.

Dear Editor:

Why can't we have a "juke" box in the Union that students can dance to?

A large proportion of the colleges in this country have places where students can dance anytime they want, providing of course that someone in the crowd has a nickel. Wesleyan, yes, even Wesleyan now has a place where students can dance between classes. If there is a valid reason why we cannot have a place to dance when we want to I would appreciate an answer through this column. I have discussed this with perhaps half a hundred students and they all agreed with me wholeheartedly.

I also am wondering why the Union couldn't have music box dances on weekends the night that a band doesn't play. The picture shows downtown are charging exorbitant rates that the average student can ill afford to pay. It is practically impossible to get into the better shows on Saturday night, and because of the rubber shortage it is unpatriotic to drive twelve miles to seek entertainment.

Our Union has the facilities to take care of this entertainment situation. Why are they not being used.

Ward Brunson.

(Editor's note: Sounds like a good idea. Take the idea up with Union officials. I'm sure they will at least give your plan consideration.)

Dear Editor:

I have long believed in placing credit where credit is due. I was, therefore, disgusted upon seeing the "Rag" taking all of the credit for arousing the enthusiasm of the student body last Friday night. I realize that the "Rag" was a spark in setting the fire, but had it not been for the efforts of Stan Lowe and his Brown Palace Co-op colleagues, that fire would have smoldered and died. Jack Hogan and his band of faithful cheer-leaders, were also instrumental in the initiation of the big rally. We did not, however, notice any of the Daily Nebraskan editors in the "nucleus" which formed in front of the Student Union at 7:15 P. M.

The "nucleus" consisted of the following co-op houses: Brown Palace, Pioneer, Cornhusker, Howard Hall, Wilson Hall, and Rosa Bouton Hall.

The Brown Palace boys have been turning out practically 100% at each rally and when the Daily indicated that there would be no

THE CARE AND HANDLING OF BLIND DATES.

Freshmen, have you ever been worried about what you should do when with a blind date? As a freshman, I ran up against this problem, but was sort of green and didn't exactly know what the score was. I didn't know whether I should be a gentleman, or act like a Sig Nu. Now, three years later, I'm still sort of green and don't know exactly what the score is.

In order to understand the correct techniques in the care and handling of blind dates, possibly we had better ask the dates themselves: "How do YOU like to be handled?"

Pat Catlin, Kappa: From a distance.
Kit Carson, Theta: They either have to be nice, or a Sig Alph.

Kay Detweiler, D. G.: They must have personality, poise, retreads, and not want to go steady.

Jack Higgins: Huh?
Beanie Allen, Alpha Phi: If it's with a Beta, make sure that it's a well-lighted house party.

Helen Kelly, Pi Beta Phi: Well, I like to have fun on the FIRST date.

Janice Goldsmith, Alpha Chi: Depends on what the guy looks like.

Pirates were extremely lucky because they didn't have to worry about blind dates.

rally we were sure that something had to be done. Our social chairman, Stan Lowe, spent nearly all afternoon organizing this rally.

The "Rag" stated that the student body was dead. Yes, and with the exception of a few students, the body was still dead up to 7:00 P. M. Then with the ringing of the traditional Victory Bell, a co-op organized band, the cheers of our Pep Squad, and the cries and pleadings of the "nucleus," the dead came to life. Reviving students, poured from their houses to produce the largest rally of the year.

Sincerely,
Dale L. Butler.

(Editor's note: We too believe in placing credit where credit is due. According to our story, the rally was held and it turned out successfully. This is the first knowledge I have had of the person or group of persons who actually started the rally. The members of the co-op houses and cheer leaders should be commended highly on their efforts.)

Principle Activity . . .

75 Teachers College Coeds 'Cadet' at Schools in Lincoln

. . . Elementary in Bancroft

"Cadeting" in Bancroft and in the various public schools throughout the city is the principal activity of 75 coeds attending Teachers college this semester.

The opportunity to participate in all types of room and building activities is offered to these girls. In what might be called a period of internship, students are assigned to teach nursery school, kindergarten or grades from the first to the sixth. Next semester they will be given experience in districts of different types.

Bancroft school serves as the laboratory for the girls in the elementary education department. It is a public school under the supervision of Supt. M. C. Lefler of Lincoln. Approximately 150 children are enrolled in this school.

Experimental Learning.

This "cadeting" offers the students an opportunity for experimental learning in the following visits, and taking part in community activities such as P.T.A. and community festivals.

The college girls in this particular field find the work with the children most fascinating. Each youngster is different and very interesting. It is a real challenge to study the needs of each and meet them.
