

Huskies All Set For Title Joust

Zikmund Returns To Service As Backfield "Spot" Runner

Another chapter in an athletic rivalry which dates back to the spat and handle-bar mustache regime will be reeled off on the Memorial stadium greensward Saturday when Missouri challenges the Huskers for the Big Six title.

Mentor Don Faurot of the Tigers confidentially expects his proteges to sweep past the Huskers without even using his ace, Bob Steuber. But the Huskers and boss, Glenn Presnell, just as confidentially expect to stymie the Tiger march and grasp the Big Six title.

Don't Need Steuber.

An Associated Press dispatch from the Tiger fort indicates Miz-zou's confidence. "Bob Steuber and Fred Bouldin, whose absence would damage Missouri's chances considerably in its game with Nebraska this week end, worked out lightly Wednesday... Coach Don Faurot hopes he won't have to use Steuber."

Pre-game rumblings from Tiger headquarters reveal that the injury siege there isn't as bad as indicated. Top two Tiger lines, tops in the Big Six, remain intact.

Except for reserve halfback Tut McKee and Art Wilson, a sub tackle, the Huskers are set for battle. McKee and Wilson fell before the scholastic axe. Cripples Al Zikmund, Dale Bradley, Jerry Kathol, and Gene Wilkins were in suit yesterday. Zikmund will be used as a spot runner Saturday, replacing Marv Athey when the enemy line starts to bog. Zik's speed played havoc with a tiring Jayhawk line during the late Husker drive Saturday.

Running First.

Mentor Glenn Presnell commented that his charges would use a varied attack. If Roy Long and Howard Debus fail to penetrate the Tiger defense with passes, the ground game will go into motion. A crowd of 20,000 will view the battle if weather conditions are favorable.

Armistice Day ceremonies will feature the between-half show. Presnell's final pre-game press statement was similar to Faurot's: "It looks like we can match Missouri's tale of woe. About half of our first team missed the first two days of practice and some of them won't be ready until Thursday or Friday."

Hard Work Gives Gopher First Nod

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 2.—There's one on every team—a fellow who rarely misses a practice, works hard and makes his job look so easy that he is just taken for granted. And then when the press clippings are passed out, he's the forgotten man.

Two years ago, that man may have been guard Bill Kusisto, or last year, modest Gene Flick. And already this season, the Gopher football team has its quiet heroes. For example, there is husky John Billman, Minnesota guard, who played a 60 minute game against Michigan.

Billman first came out for varsity football at Minnesota in 1939. He was a tackle in his sophomore year and played considerable ball, being on the second team. The following year, 1940, the Gopher coaching staff decided that 200 pound John would make a good guard.

Switched Around.

So Billman was being drilled for a first team guard spot in his junior year and was expected to be one of the mainstays in the Gopher line. Then, just before the season opened, he suffered a bad ankle injury which kept him out of the Minnesota lineup for the entire year.

It was a bad break for John at the time but turned out to be a blessing for Dr. George Hauser and the 1942 Gopher football team. The injury gave Billman another year of competition and when Butch Levy, Helge Pukema, Bob Smith and Gordon Paschka graduated last year, Dr. Hauser knew that he still had Billman returning for another season.

John took over on the first eleven just as he was expected to do. He has come through with a top-notch performance in every one of the Gophers' first five games and, knock on wood, he hasn't a scratch on him.

An icy north breeze slips through an opening in yon window and skims two erasers, a note pad, a notice from John Selleck, and Carton Broderick off the sports desk. Retrieving the note pad and Selleck's notation, we leave Carton pouting in the wastebasket and continue the column.

Notice of elongating the Scarlet grid season two days is the motive behind the Selleck note. Instead of closing against Kansas State as calendared on Thanksgiving day, the Huskers will now officially draw the curtain on the following Saturday, Nov. 28. On our note pad we have several bearish scribbles which border on the immediate future.

Of prime eminence over Big Six terrain this week is the pending Miz-zou-Nebraska struggle. To the victor will go the spoils of the league grid chase.

Every Husker grid fan from Carton Broderick to his third cousin at Tuxedo Junction raises the same question: Will the Huskers finally hit full stride? Answer to the statewide enigma can only be solved by following the game. Those fans who follow the sad injury tales floating from Columbia may expect the Presnell club to trounce the "crippled" invaders.

We've sorted through press dispatches from the Tiger stronghold which bemoan the loss of Bull Reece, the bruising fullback, and Bob Steuber, the All-American halfback speedster. Huge tears must have drained from the correspondent's eyes as he told at length of the hospitalized Faurot boys.

Master Steuber (effective Monday) was supposedly suffering from a complex case of a Charley horse in one leg, a bruised knee, an injured left arm and a bad right shoulder. We envisioned the great Mr. Steuber feeding in a hospital bed from a plate held by a pretty nurse. Then came the awakening.

Figures released yesterday by the national grid congress again place Jayhawker Ray Evans ahead of the aerial derby.

Rampant Ray completed 12 of 17 flips through the Husker anti-aircraft defense to up his seasonal total to 71 completions in 149 attempts. All-American Frankie Sinkwich, the Georgia fireball, ranks second with 56 hits in 107 tosses.

Bachelor Club Tied For Barb Intramural Top

Paced by Keith Rice, the Bachelor club downed the Cornhusker Co-op nine last night to tie with the co-op team for the title. Beaten once previously, the Bachelors added the first defeat to the Sornhusker Co-op ledger last night with a 7-0 victory.

Rice set up pins for the winning touchdown in the third quarter when he ran the kickoff back to midfield. Several Rice tosses to Green carried to the Bachelor 20-yard line. There Rice danced back and tossed a perfect strike to Green for the touchdown.

Bristol's tosses to Langdon provided a late Cornhusker rally which threatened to squeeze the Bachelor's lead. A sleeper toss from Bristol to Langdon carried deep into Cornhusker territory just as the final gun went off.

Standout Co-op performer, Joe Noble, was on the sidelines throughout the fray with a back injury. Rolfes and Rice paced the winners. Davis was the losing team's top performer.
