And You?

Taps will sound over the nation today as the cities and villages, the aged and the youth pay tribute to World War I dead. University exercises will be held this morning at the parade ground west of the coliseum.

Altho this Armistice day finds the world in another war, those men who fought and died for the same principles we fight for today should not be forgotten. In a sense we are paying tribute not only to those who died in World War I but to all defenders of this country—those who fought at Bunker Hill, Gettysberg, San Juan, and more recently in the foxholes of Bataan, at Pearl Harbor, Wake Island and the Solomon Islands.

The commemoration of Armistice Day is somewhat inconsistent with the world at war and for that reason we should give up some time today to consider what we have fought for in the past and what we are fighting for today. Too often, in the rush of school life, we are apt to forget that while we are here in school, men are actually giving lives so that schools may exist as we believe they should exist.

The university has declared a two hour recess from classes so that students may take the opportunity to remember the war dead. Every student should feel it an obligation to attend the services today and share in the ceremony.

Students who eke or do other unimportant errands during the two hours this morning, should feel a little guilty that they did not take a few minutes to remember the meaning of the day. Those students who will not attend the ceremony this morning are those students who take every opportunity offered by democracy but who never give any serious thought to its continuance or well being.

The Raver

(In collaboration with Edgar Allan Poe.)

Once upon a midnight dreary,
While I pondered weak and weary,
I heard a tapping, someone gently rapping,
At my chamber door—
Only this and nothing more.

My complexion started paling
As I heard the lonesome wailing;
The wail of sin, or even Error Flynn,
Sounding through my floor—
Only this and nothing more.

Slowly then I passed the staircase,
Hearing sounds that made my hair raise;
I was fearful, fearful lest I get an earful
Of my fate which lay in store—
Only this and nothing more.

Then I saw a body gasping,
Gasping there and slowly wrapping;
I heard it moaning, someone loudly groaning,
Splashing blood upon the floor—
Only this and nothing more.

While this body THEY were trouncing,
Down the stairs a head came bouncing;
It jumped the gap, and landed in my lap:

NYA and Colleges . . .

WASHINGTON. (ACP). Contrary to some opinion, college students can still get considerable aid from the National Youth Administration.

The NYA appropriation for this school year was cut from 11 to 7 million dollars—but the amount available to each student remains the same as it was before congress trimmed the agency's sails.

However, no aid is forthcoming for students who aren't enrolled in courses which aid successful prosecution of the war. Courses which so qualify are designated by college administrative officials.

A minimum of $10 per month and maximum of $25 may be earned by an NYA student, altho the Washington office of NYA is putting up a battle in congress for a maximum of $35-$40 a month. The idea is that now, if ever, competent students should be given every opportunity to develop skills desperately needed in war time.

Negro students in some colleges cannot obtain NYA help. But, happily, these students can apply directly to Washington for aid from NYA's special Negro fund, no credit to the colleges which make such procedure necessary.

Money No Object . . .

Old economic garb no longer fits the shape of things. As the war so glaringly demonstrates, money is beside the point when it comes to mobilizing the real wealth of a country to fight a war. Take the case of the gold miners who were recently removed from their jobs by the WPB to be placed in zinc, copper and other mines.

And take that abused phrase, "but what about the public debt?" We have come to recognize that "public debt" is not necessarily a "bad" phrase. For a public debt is not only a debt (bad word) but an investment (good word). And a big national debt isn't something we owe outsiders; it's in the family, a part of a government which is the people themselves.

From the trend of thinking among Washington economists, it's a good bet that during the war and the post-war period, the national budget will be used as a balance wheel for the nation. When times are good, the debt will be whittled down thru taxation; when they are bad, taxes will be reduced and money taken from the treasury to get us out of our doldrums. Which is nothing unusual. It's only that we've taken it so hard in the past.

According to these same Washington economists, we may expect a period of one or two years immediately after the war when inflation pressure will be terrific. As one of them put it, "We'll be swimming in a tremendous lot of cash," i. e. the money we're laying by now.

To arrest this expected boom, the government will hold down buying power, thru taxation and by withholding some of the war bonds we're buying so furiously now.

Because people will have a lot of money to spend in the post-war period, there will be a big boom in heavy industry. It has been estimated, for example, that there will be an immediate market for 9 million automobiles, which manufacturers have said they can turn out inside a year.

Education Elsewhere . . .

Hungarians are "alarmed" over a rumor that the nazis are about to teutonize their schools.

(And well they might be.)

A nationwide bayonet exercise, sponsored by the Japanese Students Athletic association, was held on the isle of the rising sun recently. Premier Tojo contributed a trophy to "encourage the spirit of students under wartime conditions."

Believe me, I was filled with horr'r—
Only this and nothing more.

Hoping death would pass this buy by,
I rushed from the House of Phi Psi;
I started slipping, something slimy dripping:
Blood and brains and gore—
Only this and nothing more.

So I fled that midnight dreary,
Eyeballs gone and body weary;
I dodged those guys with long blue knives,
And swam away from Death's black shore—
Only this and nothing more.

Present Arms!

Another UN graduate joins the army "Eyes of the Air" this week as LT. MARVIN C. RUDOLPH, a product of the university art department, won his wings at Brooks Field, Texas. . . He is officially known as an aerial observer in Uncle Sam's air forces. . . Graduating from an intensified course which completely fits him for air or land duty, Lt. Rudolph has rejoined his tactical unit. . .

An aerial observer receives training in photography, radio, navigating, reporting, map-reading, ground fighting and air work. . . In addition he must know artillery and ground troop tactics, combat intelligence and visual observation. . . While in school, he was a member of Delta Phi Delta fraternity.

Leonard Muskin, a tackle on Nebraska's Rose Bowl aggregation, has received his gold bars, symbolic of a second lieutenant's rating in the air corps. . . He was graduated from Corpus Christi and from there was sent to Florida to take training in one of the original suicide squadrons of fly torpedo boats. . . These are the ones that dive upon enemy ships, releasing torpedoes to do their bit. . . Muskin was a Zeta Beta Tau before he received his degree in January, 1942.

Election time rolls around on the campus and almost synonymously comes word of LT. W. K. "BUZZ" DALTON who used to have his eye on politics last year is. He is now at Camp Beale, Calif. with the headquarters regiment of the 13th Armored Division, activated in September. He just returned from two months of maneuvers near Indio, Calif. with the 5th Armored Division. . . While at the university, he was a member of Acacia.

Keeping track of the Phi Psis in the service would be a hard job but with the aid of Dick Harnsberger, we found out a lot of forwarding addresses. . . BILL WEAVER, class of 1935, is a second lieutenant in Ireland and he "likes it fine." . . At Ford Hood are a group of the Phi Psi brethren helping to live up to a tank destroyer school. . . Among them are JIM SELZER, '42, a second lieutenant who sends word very regularly back to one of the local sororities; STAN SOUTHWICK, 1940 and first lieutenant; BOB JOHNSON, also a first lieutenant and MAC DOWELL. . . BOB MILLER is now a first lieutenant out at Camp Hood in California. . . CARL HARNBERGER is taking pre-flight training at Randolph Field, Texas and AL BUSCH, class of 1942, is taking care of the finances at the WAAC headquarters in Des Moines.

Seven schools in the Gulf Coast army air forces training center, headquarters at Randolph Field, graduated large classes this week of fighter and bomber pilots. . . The university forces in the war were strengthened when the following accepted their wings. . . They are LTS. MONTEE R. BAKER of Lincoln, class of '40 who received training at Kelly Field; JOHN G. CRAM, Omaha, class of 1936 from Moore Field; ARTHUR C. EAKER, Broken Bow, 1942 also from Moore; GEORGE V. GOODING, 1940 from Lincoln, from Foster; RICHARD P. MARSHALL, Lincoln, who attended the university in 1941-42 from Lubbock Field; PAUL M. MEYER, Arlington, Va. '33-34, from Brooks Field; CHARLES L. MILLER, Omaha, '38-39 from Moore; CLYDE H. TAYLOR, Jr., Lexington, '39-41 from Lubbock; and JEAN K. TOOL, Denver, Colo. who was graduated with a B. F. A. in 1941 who received his wings at Brooks Field.
