Mortar Boards Plan Black Masque Ball for December 12

Unaffected by war except in informal dress, the annual Mortar Board party is scheduled this year for Saturday night, Dec. 12, in the coliseum, Dorothy Weirich, women's honorary president, general chairman in charge of arrangements, announced yesterday.

As soon as negotiations are completed and contracts signed, Mortar Boards will announce the band. Until then, Marjorie Bruning, publicity chairman, assures students that the band is "really solid."

As in former years, girls will make dates for the affair, furnish transportation, and pay all expenses, including something that will pass as a corsage. At other parties, neon lights, various colored wigs, horseshoes, and underwear on the outside have been considered adequate corsages.

During the evening the six "most eligible bachelors" will be formally presented to the campus. These

Council Votes On Foundation Fund Proposal

Student Governing Body Approves Constitution At Meeting Last Night

Hurrying—in fifteen minutes—through more legitimate business than is usually even considered in an hour, the Student Council, meeting last night, approved the constitution of a new organization, discussed a council vacancy, and voted unanimously to back the Student Foundation post-war scholarship fund.

Approve Fund.

Approval of the scholarship fund followed a discussion of the Foundation's plan by John Jay Douglass, Foundation president.

Present set-up calls for a contribution of 10 percent of the annual profits of each organization on the campus, with other solicitation plans considered.

Contribute Corsages.

One means of starting the fund, Douglass suggested, would be for the 600 women attending the Military Ball to contribute their war corsages by placing them in boxes at the coliseum. This would add $300 to the fund, all of which will be invested in war bonds and stamps.

The council approved the constitution of the "Cercle Francais," a French language organization, and discussed briefly a replacement for Ben McCashland, pharmacy representative in the council. George Abbott was named chairman of the forums committee.

War Stamp Ball Corsages Now Available

War stamps will be on sale today, the regular Thursday war stamp sale day. Booths will be located in Soah, MA, the Union, and on ag campus as in the past weeks.

Military ball corsages may be received in exchange for the coupons from 9 to 5 o'clock today and tomorrow in either the Union lobby or Ag hall.

Due to the many late requests received for war stamp corsages after the sales were closed, the War Council has obtained the co-operation of Hovland-Swanson's and Miller & Paine's stores who have agreed to furnish additional corsages. Anyone wishing a stamp corsage should visit either of these stores, Lois Christie, chairman of the drive, announced yesterday. The original corsages were made by the Rosewell Floral company.

six men are chosen at the fall election by votes of the entire student body from a field of 14 BMO C's, including Gene Bradley, Bob Bramson, Lyle Chotena, Ki Eisenhart, Dick Gessaman, Ted Greene, Preston Hals, Randall, Pratt, Bill Robinson, Bob Schlater, Dean Skokan, Paul Toren, Jim Weesner, and Hank Bathman.

Tickets for the affair go on sale Monday, Dec. 7. Admission price is $1.25, and tickets may be obtained from any Mortar Board member or Tassel.

Davis to Feature Singer Gloria Van

Between the hot licks of Johnny "Scat" Davis at the Military Ball Friday, party-goers will hear the singing of Miss Gloria Van who will be giving all for what she considers her lucky state.

Besides the Van-Davis combination, music fiends will have a chance to see Captain Glenn Miller, the leader of the band of

Dr. J. P. Tollman Talks to Nu-Meds On Technology

Nu-meds were addressed last night by Dr. J. P. Tollman, assistant dean of the Nebraska medical school, who talked on technicians and their part in the war.

Preceding the speech was a banquet in parlors A and B of the Union. Dr. Tollman, a prominent pathologist, is head of technology at the University hospital.

For Fall Term . . . Palladian Literary Society Reveals Nineteen Pledges

. . . According to Marlette

Nineteen pledges of the Palladian Literary society were announced yesterday by President Ralph Marlette.

Students pledged this fall include Mary Helen Alexis, Janet Hutchinson, Howard Westgate, Joyce Harper, Ruth Hush, Richard Read, Genevieve Mullin, Don Kroger, Pat Douglas, Mildred Engstrom, Eileen Steinbrecker, Art Forrester and Ralph Leubbs.

Those pledged last spring are Dale Brehm, Jean Brehm, Ronald Longley, Herb Norman, Mabel Osenbaugh, and Glen Johnston.

Includes Coeds, Men.

Both men and women make up the society, a social group of stu-

bands until recently, now in the army specialist corps. He will lead the UN band in some fine if not swiny arrangements.

Scat Versatile.

Even with the Glenn Miller competition Davis has a long record of his own which shows up well. He usually feels right at home at college dances, having appeared in over a half dozen college motion pictures.

In Fred Waring's band when it made its debut in Hollywood, Davis was acclaimed a star and remained in Hollywood to make pictures. He soon decided that his place was in a band, so he gathered together a group of young swingsters and formed a band. Thus far in the war many bands have felt the axe, but Davis and Co. and not been greatly affected.

Students who are selling tickets to the ball and desire to get in free for selling ten tickets must turn in the money to their company commanders Friday afternoon.

No Gasoline, No Cars, No Nothing!!

. . . Just Walking

"Me dogs is achin' after only two days of dis rationin'. I ain't used to dis walkin' stuff." Thus spoke Peter Keflinsky, well-known man about the campus, in reply to questioning concerning gas rationing.

Students of the university certainly will do more walking now that cars are limited to four gallons of gas per week. Sally Swish, popular campus coed, fretted that "fellows won't take me out to dances as often anymore." Your questioner upon investigation found that Miss Swish has had a total of two dates, both "blind,"—literally and figuratively—thus far in the school year.

 - Eventide
 - Day In, Day Out.
 - Carioca
 - Dark Eyes
 - Marchita
 - Beyond the Blue Horizon
- Other selection
- (Vote for one in each group)

Voting for tunes to be played on Fred Waring's Pleasure Time broadcast, Dec. 11, will close tomorrow. Ballot blanks are found in page two of today's Daily.

The deadline for the turning in of ballots to the Union checkstand is tomorrow evening. The tunes with the most votes will be played by Fred Waring in a special "University of Nebraska Victory Tunes" program.

Sponsoring the program are the Daily and the Waring organization. Fred Waring's two vocalists, Donna Dae and Jimmy Adkins, will sing the selected numbers.

Students have a chance to add on additional choice to the ballot, Waring warns UN students that the current favorite, "White Christmas," which is not on the poll, has been played the last five broadcasts and that listeners are likely to be tired of the piece by the Dec. 11 broadcast.

Voting began yesterday and was unusually slow. Students are urged to turn in their ballots to the Union office before the deadline.

Need More Air Warden Registrants

First Day Volunteer Enrollment Figures Indicates Slow Start

As the first day of registration enrollment for the volunteer air raid and blackout student wardens ended, figures revealed that a considerable increase in the number of volunteers would have to appear, to insure the campus adequate patrolling.

Booths for registration will continue to be maintained both in the Union main lounge on the city campus and at Ag hall on ag campus. These booths will be open from 2 until 5 p. m. today and tomorrow.

Registrants are asked by the university emergency defense committee under whose direction the course is to be given to state whether or not they would prefer to take the course on the city or ag campus.

The course itself will consist of a series of three lectures every Tuesday night until Christmas. Upon completion of the course (See REGISTRANTS, Page 2.)

ROTC Heads Cancel December 5 Session Of Commando Class

The ROTC commando class will not meet this coming Saturday morning because of the ball activities scheduled for the preceding evening.

Class will be resumed the following Saturday, Dec. 12, at which time all senior cadet officers will be required to attend. Roll will be taken, and a record will be kept of all cadets marked absent.

Pan Hellenic Holds Dinner At Ellen Smith

A dinner for the Pan Hellenic representatives, including one representative from each alumni chapter in the city, and two from each active chapter on the campus, was held Wednesday at 6:30 in Ellen Smith hall.

Jane Robertson, the Province secretary of Delta Gamma sorority, was the guest speaker. Special guests for the dinner were Mrs. C. S. Boucher, Dean Verna Boyles, and Miss Luvicy Hill, faculty advisor for Pan Hellenic.

The committee in charge of arrangements for the dinner was headed by Mary Thorley, Alpha Chi Omega, assisted by Jean Baker, Pi Beta Phi, and Mary Jane Rettenmeyer, Sigma Kappa. Flora Scott, Delta Gamma, was in charge of the program.

Mrs. C. M. Loomis was the alumni representative assisting the arrangement committee. Sydney Ann Gardner, Kappa Alpha Theta, presided.
