

Kansas Points Big Six Honors

Jayhawks Top O. U., Missouri

Kansas university's flashy cagers, with wins over Missouri and Oklahoma in last week's conference play, gave Big Six basketball fans the impression that they might repeat last year's breeze to the loop championship.

Phog Allen's strictly-believing proteges paddled Missouri, 69-44, to eclipse the nine-year-old Big Six scoring record of 69 points established by Oklahoma against Kansas State. In the same game Charlie "Phog" Black dumped in 33 points to chalk up a new mark in the conference scoring column.

The Huskers and Iowa State picked on the same team, Kansas State, and started the season off with wins, while Kansas topped Olathe Naval, 60-32, and Missouri fell to Olathe, 51-42.

Huskers to Columbia.

Only two conference clashes are on the docket for next Saturday night, with the comeback Nebraska team taking on Missouri at Columbia, and Kansas State pointing their first Big Six win against Oklahoma at Norman.

Kansas meets Oklahoma A. & M.'s towering quintet at Lawrence in a blood-battle which should establish, or tear down, the Jayhawks' present enviable national reputation.

Only other games which will put loop teams on the record book feature Kansas State against Rockhurst Tuesday, and Kansas facing Camp Crowder at Kansas City Saturday.

Big Six Indoor Track Compet Date Changed

The annual Big Six indoor track meet will be held at Kansas City Feb. 27 instead of the March 6 date originally set, M. F. Ahearn, conference secretary announced late Monday.

Nebraska is the Big Six indoor defending champion, and will go to the meet without forcing any change in their original schedule.

The change was made because the Kansas City police circus is scheduled for March 6 in the municipal auditorium, Ahearn said all Big Six schools will be represented at the meet.

Huskers Set For Missou' This Week UN Cagers To Be At Full Strength

Head basketball coach, Lew Lewandowski cracked his whip hot and heavy over his Cornhusker cage proteges on the coliseum boards yesterday afternoon in the week's opening drill for Missouri tilt Saturday evening. Fire was abundant on the Husker front as the Scarlet varsity whipped thru a scrimmage against reserves. Comprising Lewandowski's first five were Thompson, Bottorff, Fitzgibbon, Heinzelman and Young. Indications were that the Nebraskans will be at full strength when they leave for Columbus, Friday.

Tigers Lose Four.

The Missouri team, to date, has won two and lost four. The Tigers have wins over Missouri Valley (32 to 31), and Fort Leonard Wood (49 to 23). In the loss column, the Columbia team has dropped twice to Olathe Naval, 45 to 35 and 51 to 42; Illinois 51 to 30; and Kansas 69 to 44.

Only comparative scores for the two teams came out of jaunts to Champaign to take on the Illini, at present burning up the records in Big Ten competition.

While the Tigers were beaten 21 points, Nebraska did only half as well, allowing Illinois to run up a 69 to 27 decision, before bouncing back to hold Indiana to a 1 point win margin, in a home game.

Only development in the Big Six circuit over the last weekend was the Kansas Jayhawks victory over Oklahoma. The victory gave Phog Allen's charges the loop lead.

Iowa State's Tankers See Loop Repeat Cyclone Champs' Coach Optimistic

The 1943 Iowa State swimming team will be about on a par with the 1942 Big Six champions, according to word from the Cyclone camp.

Coach Jack McGuire's team will probably face a skeleton schedule, with the present set-up calling for only two teams—Iowa State and Nebraska—indicating a desire to carry a full load.

Second Season.

McGuire, who is starting his second season as the Cyclone tank coach, feels that the individual brilliance of the 1942 team will be offset by more depth and better balance this season. Biggest loss from 1942 is Brian Brown who won three Big Six titles as a sophomore. Brown is now in the army.

Three major lettermen and a minor award winner will form the nucleus for the predominantly sophomore team. Capt. Thornton Wilson, sprinter, is out with a broken ankle but is expected to be back in the pool in another week and ready for competition by mid-February.

Slater Returns.

John Slater, conference breast-stroke king, and Fred Musser, sprinter, are the other major lettermen. Bill Nielson, another sprinter is a minor letter man.

Jack Byerrum, senior sprinter, is the only other candidate not a member of the sophomore class.

Cyclone Five To Miss Action Next Ten Days

AMES, Iowa, Jan. 11.—Iowa State's Rollin Kuebler will have plenty of time to get a charley horse worked out of his leg as the Cyclones remain out of cage competition for a week.

The activities of Religious Emphasis Week hold sway on the campus until Jan. 18 when the Cyclones return to action in a game here with Nebraska.

Coach Louis Menze plans to take full advantage of the ten day layoff from competition to give his squad plenty of hard work. On the basis of its showing against Kansas State Saturday the Cyclones still need more work before tackling the rest of the Big Six.

Kuebler, hampered by his injured leg against the Wildcats, should be ready to play full time against the Cornhuskers.

Deadline for Barb basketball entries was set last night by the Intramural department for February 27.

For the Faculty: Probably the best suggestion heard in a long time along the line of ways and means to get students to feed the kitty with war stamps came floating into the office yesterday. Seems one of the faculty members thinks it would be a paying proposition to charge admission, i. e., one war stamp, to an all-professor race through, over, under and around the university's obstacle course.

Sounds like a good idea. Here's my dime on the line. How about it, faculty members?

The Big Six, from all indications, is going to have one of the biggest years on record. K.U. definitely reserved a niche some place awfully, awfully near to the top of the column by shackling a would-be challenging Oklahoma team Saturday night. That 48-44 win for the Jayhawks followed their record-breaking 69-44 thumping of Missouri earlier in the week. If Nebraska's jaunt to Columbia pays off next Saturday, the Huskers should find themselves bidding for one of the top three loop spots 'ere long.

On Subsidizing: Sunday's wordage on subsidizing brought out of one reader an argument with which I have heartily agreed for some time. He writes: "Athletics form good selling-points for prospective students in schools all over the country. Colleges engage in athletic competition. Therefore, athletics should be encouraged.

"Athletes engage in athletics. Athletes go to college—therefore good athletes should be encouraged to attend those colleges desiring to find a place on the map, both educationally, and athletically."

Still another test of how much athletics mean to colleges. Approach some individual you've never seen before, some average person, and ask him to do this: ask him to list all of the colleges he's heard of because of some contribution to higher learning—the arts, science, engineering, research, and so on. Then ask him to list all the colleges he's heard of because of their participation in athletics.

Ten to one the first list will be a wee bit shorter than the second.

Speaking of Kansas: Joe Loisel, starting forward on Creighton's top-ranked basketball team, commenting on the Kansas team, gave credit to Ray Evans as "everything you could ask for in a defensive man." Loisel, visiting here yesterday, dubbed Charley Black tops "for his ability to rebound," and forward Schnellbacher for all-around offensive play:
