Innocents . . . Preston Hays, Ren Bukacek and Max Laughlin in one corner. Larry Huwaldt, not pictured, is also on team.

Anything can happen and probably will when the Mortar Boards and Innocents get together against each other in the UNEB-Union sponsored quiz show, "Hit or Miss," tonight.

In one corner holding up the red banner of the Innocents will be Preston Hays, Max Laughlin, Larry Huwaldt, and Ren Bukacek, as brainy and brawny group as has ever graced the Union ballroom. In the other corner are Mortar Boards Alice Louise Becker, Betty Newman, Sue Shaw, and Helen Kelly Hopkins to keep the black masque flying. Helen Kieselbach will fire the queries at the men and Romulo Soldevilla will test the mental capacities of the women.

The show, co-sponsored by the Union and UNEB, will begin with introductions and preliminaries at 7:45 p. m. and the contest will begin at 8 o'clock sharp. The action will take place in the ballroom of the Union and Gene Bradley, Randall Pratt, Bill McBride, and Henry Lee will do the announcing and administer the consequences to the unlucky loser.

The Innocents will compete with the Mortar Boards for winning points or humorous consequences. Each contestant will receive a flat 50 box of cigarettes or a box of candy.

Army, Navy Plans At Uni Postponed

Chancellor C. S. Boucher of the University of Nebraska received word this week-end indicating that the proposed plan for using universities and colleges in the army and navy training program will not be put into effect for several weeks.

The great majority of college men, in all likelihood, may enroll not only for the second semester of college work, but actually may remain in school long enough to secure partial or full credit for the entire semester's work, Boucher declared.

Report from Washington.

"Indications have come from Washington," the Chancellor said Friday noon, "that the training programs will not be in operation for some weeks."

The army and navy program as announced in December calls for utilization of from 200 to 300 colleges and universities for specialized training of men to be assigned by the armed forces. In conjunction with this program the army reservists are expected to be called to active duty.

To date the University of Nebraska has not been advised as to what services it might be called upon to provide, and university student reservists have had no notification as to when they may be called to duty.

Officials Study Post-War Plan For Education

Ask Servicemen to Finish College Training After War

(Special to the Daily from the OWI)
 The committee charged with returning students to their colleges and universities after the war will meet for the first time January 18. The group of army officers and educators was appointed by President Roosevelt on November 19—two days after he signed the teen-age draft bill—to assure students who are called into the armed services a chance to finish their training after the war.

At that time the president set up the Armed Forces Committee on Education, headed by Brig. Gen. Frederick H. Osborn, director of the Special Services Division, Services of Supply. In his letter establishing the little-publicized

Sgt. 'Joe' Regler, Campus Cop, Students' Counselor-Resigns

BY BILL PALMER

Sergeant "Joe" Regler, campus policeman, friend and counselor to college students for more than 15 years, is resigning effective Feb. 1.

Regler has accepted a position as a cruiser car officer with the Lincoln police force. During his years as campus cop, the sergeant has been shot at, recovered missing sarongs, engineered liquor raids and worked for traffic lights and traffic safety.

Only Saturday morning Regler obtained a confession from a student suspected of ransacking a dean's office Friday night. The student related that he climbed over the transom of the office in order to change an examination grade. The student's background is being checked, as much valuable information was contained in the office, the sergeant said. Regler, who has the power to arrest and jail those committing misdemeanors, turned the student over to Dean T. J. Thompson.

Discovers Libeler

A surreptitiously published "scandal sheet" caused the university administration anxiety in 1932 because of its libelous remarks concerning the faculty and the administration. Early attempts to track down the writers of this publication failing, the administration called in a Pinkerton detective to solve the case.

While the professional detective was on the campus, Regler saw one of the leading students on the campus operating a university mimeograph one night. After the student had left Regler discovered a fresh copy of the publication in the office waste basket. Brought before the dean for questioning, the student denied having any part in the publication. He also declared that the university had a police force and that the mystery would be solved if the cam-

AWS Finishes New War Advisory Clinic

... On Coed Service

AWS war clinic ended its program Saturday. Women students who registered for next semester were advised as to the courses they should pursue which would ultimately lead them to assume more vital roles in the war effort.

AWS representatives conferred with Dean Verna H. Boyles, who gave them recommendations for women students and their plans for college training for war roles. They also consulted Ensign Carolyn Davis of the WAVES and Lt. Gwendolyn Harvey of the WAAC, who explained the various specialized fields of opportunity in their respective organizations.

Need Is Great.

The great need of women to replace men was recently explained by manpower representatives in a war department bulletin which stated that an additional two and one-half million women would be needed to take the positions of men in vital positions during 1943.

Girls attending the clinic were advised to take mathematics, chemistry, physics, etc., to fit them to full war industry jobs, to become members of women's auxiliary units, or help with community service projects.

Advises Only.

The AWS clinic operate in advisory and information-bearing capacity only. They suggest courses best suited to train women in whatever war work they may want to pursue. They give information as to the physical requirements for the armed services.

The AWS work is still in its formative stage. The organization hopes to help plan college courses for women students who are freshmen and sophomores, as well as for upperclassmen. Plans already are being made for summer school studies.
