

Huskers Face Sparse Indoor Track Season

Nebraska's graduation-riddled spikesters will crack open the 1943 season at Columbia on Feb. 13 and will face Kansas State here Feb. 20, according to Big Six schedules released.

"Our material is pretty skimpy but we are going all out with what we have," said Headman Ed Weir, glancing over his cinder prodigies, last Saturday.

Few Vets.

"We have a few veterans and a few other boys who should get us some points, but I won't know what to expect until after the second semester begins," declared Weir.

Top sprint candidates are Al Brown and Bob Bowles, pressed by a speedy newcomer, Dick Petring, but Weir hopes to round these into a more formidable crop by luring gridders Zikmund and Cooper into the fold.

Brown and Bowles lead the pack of quartermen and either may have to take a shot at half miler competition.

Nebraska appears potent in the shot put where hefty Vic Schleich, Ki Eisenhart and Howie Debus hold the fort. All three are veteran weightmen and will double in the discus. Debus will be around again in the pole vault when he chopped off a chunk of points last year and will be backed by another bamboo man in Don James, Evanston, Ill., sophomore.

The Big Six annual conference indoor meet is slated for Kansas City on Feb. 27, which eliminates the possibility of freshmen breaking into action in the indoor meets.

COMING "REUNION IN FRANCE"

In The Sports Whirl

With Bob Miller

Oh, Well . . .

I guess the Huskers are back where they can do more damage among their Big Six mates . . . Don't ever put the Huskers in the favored role on a basketball floor because when they occupy that position they usually turn up on the short end of the count . . . Yes, I'm talking about the Huskers when they are attired in their cage scanties . . . Just consider that 50 to 38 debacle performed capably by the Iowa State Cyclones on Ames Maples Monday night.

Press Notices . . .

The Scarlet crew was favored to trounce the Cyclones . . . Here is what one sports scribe said before game time Monday, "The Huskers currently are the surprise team of the Big Six loop. Against Iowa State tonight, Nebraska has an excellent chance to keep its string intact. The Cyclones are not only under par but Rollin Kuebler, high scoring ace, will be out of the contest. It would be some kind of a high for Nebraska to play its first three games on the road and come up with a like number of victories" . . . Well, they can look forward to that "high."

As Underdogs . . .

That was the situation when the Scarlet cagers were favored to win hands down . . . But in all fairness, look at them when they aren't in the top spot and are the underdogs . . . They nearly took Indiana into camp losing only by a single tally and the Hoosiers are one of the top teams in the nation . . . Now that they are not in the favored spot once more, they can rare back and turn in upsets of which they are capable . . . At least that is the way it looks from our vantage point: When they are favored, they fall short—when they are not, don't sell them short.

Scoring Parade . . .

Johnny Thompson continues to be the Huskers nomination for high scorer as he turned in eight more tallies to add to his 22 and to give him a 10 point average for three conference tilts . . . Bob Heinzelman led the Scarlet scoring with 10 points and he will soon be in the upper bracket of Big Six scorers . . . Kansas U. will mix with K-State in Manhattan tonight so there goes all pre-season dope for when those two teams get together anything can happen.

A Preview . . .

Coach Don Faurot and his football staff at the University of Missouri have been given two-month contracts at same salary they drew last year . . . "Pending the decision of the armed services on the use of the university, we have continued the old staff on last year's basis for two months ending March 1," was the official statement accompanying the move . . . It may be a preview of things to come.

NOW!! An Adventure aflame with Gallantry . . . A picture ablaze with excitement . . .
