750 Shoes!!

New Shoes Now Jaboo States Rationing Board

Three-hundred and seventy-five pairs of shoes among 33 girls—and in one sorority house! According to yesterday's shoe-by-shoe survey, does it look like bare-footed university girls will be waiting in line for their rationed shoes?

With an average of ten and some tenths pairs of shoes to each pair of feet, the women shouldn't be too hard up. The chief problem now appears to be the choice that girls will have to make. Shall it be pumps, oxfords, flats, sandals, high-heels, low-heels, white, black, blue, brown, etc.?

This first government order on clothing was announced Sunday, causing the many who "were just going to buy a pair" to groan loudly. Girls interviewed on this campus buy an average of five new pairs of shoes each year, as compared with the three-per-year stipulation of the War Production Board.

The more conservative half of the college, or, the men, are apparently rather unconcerned with the news that has caused such a flurry among the women. The survey shows that they own a mere three and a half pair of shoes, and feel quite extravagant if they purchase two pairs a year. Their indifferent attitude toward the rationing is probably due to the idea in the back of their minds that they will be sporting government issue footwear in the "near future."

Students Still In Dark As to Engineer Plan

University Authorities Prepare to Carry Out New Manpower Program

Officials at the University of Nebraska still had received no direct word Monday concerning the army engineering unit to be established at the university for college men.

The announcement was made Saturday by the manpower commission in Washington that the University of Nebraska had been approved as one of 281 institutions in the nation to conduct training programs for college men, who will be uniformed, housed and fed by the army.

Chancellor Boucher said he expected to receive official notification of the choice of the university as an army training unit at any time. He declared that university authorities had already made plans to use the engineering college to utmost capacity.

Date Not Known.

University authorities still had no inkling as to how soon the training units will be put into operation. They are prepared to carry out plans for the unit when official word does arrive.

Col. James P. Murphy, commandant of the university R.O.T.C., explained that some 150 advanced R.O.T.C. students were inducted (See PLAN, Page 4.)

Editor Announces Three Assistants For Law Review

Editorial assistants for "The Nebraska Law Review" were announced Friday by Prof. Lester B. Orfield, editor. They are Herbert E. Longren, Sioux City, Ia.; Harold D. Swan, Lincoln; and Earl E. Morgan, North Platte.

The Law Journal is edited periodically by the college of law at the University of Nebraska. The new assistants are the three top ranking students in the freshman law class.

Vote on Prom Girl at Door

Furnishing music for Monday nights Prom trotters will be Lloyd Hunter and his all Negro band. Lloyd will bring along besides himself, a seventeen piece orchestra in addition to girl vocalist, according to the announcement by Bob Schlater, publicity chairman. Hunter's band is familiar to the campus as he has played for numerous parties in past years.

The Innocents announced yesterday the names of the nineteen girls who will be candidates for Prom Girl. There is one from every sorority house on the campus, from the dorm, and unaffiliated town girls. Balloting will take place at the door.

The Innocents, who have charge of all the arrangements for the Prom have placed on more or less war basis. It will be informal and the band for the first time in many years will be a local one in accordance with a university ruling.

Several traditions of long standing have fallen with this years Prom. First among those is that it is being held on Monday night instead of one the week-end and in February instead of March, when it has been held ever since its origination.

It will be a 12:30 night for women. Tickets may be obtained from any Innocent or members of Corn Cobs for $1.10 per couple.

Rifles Hold Meeting At 5:30 Tonight

Local Company Begins New Semester With Tryouts For Vacancies

The Nebraska company of Pershing Rifles officially begins its second semester's activities with this evening's meeting at Nebraska hall, announced Cadet Capt. Francis Cox, commander of the company.

Starting the new term with the recruiting of new men to fill vacancies left with the ending of last semester, the executive staff together with the club sponsors have planned a full schedule to carry the club thruout the semester. Formal initiation, the awarding of medals to the top three cadets, practice in coramando tactics, close order drill, and instruction on heavy weapons are a few of the major things to be taken up, cited Cox.

New Tryouts.

"Starting with tonight's meeting we will hold tryouts for all cadets interested in becoming Pershing Riflemen, and will continue to do so until all vacancies are filled," stated cadet 1st Lieut. Edward P. Doyle, executive officer. Because of the reduced enrollment among men students, due to the uncertainty of present conditions, about twenty-five vacancies have been left in the company. ## Teachers Meet In Sosh Thurs.

All new candidates for teaching positions for the school year of 1943-1944 will meet with Mr. R. D. Moritz, director of teacher placement on Thursday, February 11. The meeting will be held in the auditorium of Social Science Hall at 4:30 p. m.

Students having classes at this hour will be excused to attend. This meeting is not a repetition of the one held in December and should be attended by all new candidates.

Well... Who dunnit?

Six fiction books, all of them recent popular editions, and one biography have been reported missing from the Student Union Book Nook.

The six fiction editions include "Look to the Mountain," by Le Grand Cannon; "All This, and Heaven Too," by Rachel Field; "Marriage is a Private Affair," by Judith Kelly; "Mr. and Mrs. Cugat," by Isabel Scott Rorich; "The Sun is My Undoing," by Marguerite Steen; and "Supercargo," by Earl Whiteborne.

"Family Crisis," by Shelock Bronson Gass is the one biography which is missing from the Book Nook library.

Students are asked to return these books as soon as possible.

Library Exhibit Features Lincoln

A new exhibit now in the third-floor showcase of UN library features as its theme books about Abraham Lincoln. Also included in the exhibit is a painting by Violet Oakley which shows Lincoln with the Union army at Gettysburg in November, 1863.

Nationwide 4H Mobilization Week Feb. 6-14

February 14th is nationwide "4-H Mobilization Week." The purpose of Mobilization week is to boost the 4-H clubs and give them credit for the outstanding work they are doing to help our war and food production. Many of the 4-H clubbers are now producing livestock on a large scale, and the girls are learning new and efficient methods of cooking and sewing, all of this gadding greatly to our war production.

Mr. Tom Leadley, editor of the Nebraska Farmer, will express his ideas on Thursday as will W. H. Brokaw of the agricultural extension department on Friday.

'Old Grey Mare', Square Dancing Returns To UN,

Square dancing, along with the old gray mare, has come back into its own at the university. With a "swing your partner, round we go" students are invited to dance to the old time music of a piano and fiddle at the Activities Building at Ag College tonight. Ralph Copenhagen will call the square dances for anyone interested in having a little fun in the "good old days" number.

Uni. Theatre Announces Final Cast 'Thunder Rock'

"Thunder Rock," the University Theater's third major production of the year, after final tryouts last week emerged with promise of both new and old faces to be seen on the stage of Temple Theater on February 17, 18, and 19.

Among the new faces will be that of Henry Lee, known for his work on UNEB and in the Classical Series of the University Theater, who will play the part of Dr. Stephan Kurtz, the Viennese physician, whose early work on anesthetics is interrupted when he is driven to America by old world oppression.

Another of the strange group who were drowned in 1849 but who re-live again in the present for the purposes of the play, is another newcomer to University Theater Productions, Bette Heine. She will play the role of Miss Kirby, one of the earliest suffragettes.

Marjorie "Torchy" Christensen will play the role of the doctor's rebellious daughter, Melanie, and Priscilla Moseley will play the doctor's wife, Anne Marie.

Soidevilla Turns Pathetic.

Romulo Soidevilla, with a long list of comedy hit performances to his credit before University Theater audiences, will undertake a new type of role, the pathetic Cockney workingman, Mr. Briggs.

The old Sea-faring Captain Joshua Stuart will be played by Palmer Williams, who has appeared in smaller roles in both of the past two University Theater productions.

Bill Todd, who made his first University appearance as Mortimer in Arsenic and Old Lace, will play another role of a newspaper man, this time the reporter who tends the lighthouse and the man around whom the story of the play revolves. Streeter, the aviator who joins the Volunteer Flyers in China, is played by Larry Taylor, who also has appeared in two previous productions this year.

One Line Part Open.

Bob Black, University Theater veteran, undertakes the role of Inspector Flanning; Hank Buthman will play Nonny, a Light Service Helper. The Chinese mechanic who knows only one word of English, "okay," will be played by Don Ricky. Tryouts are still open for the role of Cassidy, whose contribution to the play is a single, at the end of the third act, "How are you."
