★ ★ ★ 'Tapped' Last Nite

Thirteen retiring Innocents marched forth in all the splendor of their red robes last night to halt before Virginia McCulla, Alpha Phi, lead her to the stage, and present her to Prom-goers as Prom Girl of 1943.

Chosen by door vote from a field of nineteen candidates, Miss McCulla is a sophomore in the university and a member of Tassels, girls' pep club. She is also a Cornhusker beauty queen candidate.

Tap Successors.

Immediately preceding the presentation thirteen junior men were tapped as successors to the outgoing senior Innocents in a tradition-breaking ceremony. It was the first time in their 40 years on the campus that the Innocents have not chosen members on Ivy Day.

But, despite its usual hour-long predecessors, the tapping took only a brief 25 minutes.

Double Feature.

Starting at 8:30, a small crowd of dancers gathered to witness the double feature of the prom. They expected to hear Lloyd Hunter and his Negro orchestra, but due to an unexpected breakdown in Minnesota, his band failed to arrive in time and Hank Mattison and his orchestra substituted.

Mortar Boards Present Flag To Honor Students in Service

The first official service flag was presented to the university Saturday by the Mortar Boards, women's senior honorary. To be hung in the Student Union, the flag was presented by Dorothy Weirich, president of the society, and two other members, preceding the basketball game.

During the presentation to Chancellor C. S. Boucher and Col. J. P. Murphy, the band played the Star Spangled Banner preceding the Nebraska-Kansas basketball game.

The large silk flag will be hung permanently on the panel above the fireplace in the Student Union lounge. The flag has three large stars upon it—one gold, one silver, one blue, symbolizing the boys who have gone from this university into the service, those who have lost their lives, and those who have been wounded.

Along with the presentation of the flag a book and stand will be presented. These will be placed at the left of the flag and in the book is written the names, service records, and addresses of all those boys now in service from the university. The book will be kept up to date by the Mortar Boards.

Money for the flag came from the proceeds from the Mortar Board party last fall.
