AWS Passes 10:30 Sophomore Ruling

...For Week Nights

With the release of first semester grades, sophomore women will receive upperclass privileges if they have no delinquencies, according to an announcement by Janet Curley, president of AWS.

To be tried for the first time, the new ruling will permit sophomores to take 10:30 nights thruout the week. House-mothers will be sent names of those who have been checked, and are eligible for the ruling. Until such notice has been received, sophomores will continue under the customary regulation.

Must Leave Names.

All sophomore women must establish their standing by leaving names in the AWS box at the southeast corner of the court in Ellen Smith hall. Ag college coeds may leave their names at the AWS table in the Home Ec building.

Filing of names must be completed by 5:30 p. m. March 12, as names will not be checked again until after the second six weeks period. Organized houses may turn in a single list of all sophomore women.

Name Cast For Next UN Production

... Andrews Stars

University theater started production of the fourth university play, "What Every Woman Knows," with announcement of the new cast Tuesday.

The casting of Dave Andrews as John Shand brings another new-comer to the stage. This character is a poor scholar who receives money from a Scottish family to carry on his much desired education. The money is not a gift but a bargain in which he must agree to marry the young girl of the family, Maggie, in five years if she wishes it.

Maggie Wylie is played by Bette Heine, who gave her first performance as Miss Kirby in "Thunder Rock." Maggie is the youngest member of the Wylie family, adored by her brothers and shunned by "prospective husbands." She is not pretty but has a wistful personality.

David and James Wylie, the two brothers, are played by Bob Black and Bob Hdye, respectively. These two are confirmed bachelors, who all their lives have been afraid of nothing but women.

Alick Wylie, the father, is played by Don Ricky. Don was seen in "Thunder Rock" as the Chinese mechanic who said only one word in English, "Okay!" Alick has a mighty respect for education, as something he has missed. He may be found trying to read the Contemporary Review and muttering over its pages, "No use, no use, no."

Henry Lee takes the role of Mr. Venables, a courtly old diplomat.

Humorous and Congenial Is F.P.A., Reporter Finds

BY GHITA HILL.

Franklin P. Adams, American journalist, wit, and poet appeared here last night on the junior league Town Hall program.

He is one of the permanent "board of experts" of the radio program "Information, Please."

He consented to an interview Tuesday, hardly able to keep his eyes open after a rush trip from New York. Faithful to his radio show, he appeared on "Information, Please" Monday night, took a midnight plane from New York, arrived at Lincoln 10:10 Tuesday morning. Slumped in a chair, he muttered, "Now, I'm going to bed."

Helpful to Students.

"I like all kinds of questions. I discourage questions on my lecture tour, however, because people are shy. Everyone knows them in the town and they are afraid I'll make suckers of them—I wouldn't dream of it. When I go to college towns, students want me to do their homework. They ask me questions they are going to have in a test the next day."

He enjoys lecturing but he claims, "I don't know anything about it. I can't bear to hear anybody talk in public, tho. I always think about something else."

Columnist of Long Renown.

Because of his column "Conning Tower," "F.P.A." is considered the godfather of most of the contemporary newspaper columns. "Conning Tower" appeared until two years ago in the New York Tribune.

During the first World war he served as captain in the U. S. intelligence service in France, and ran a column in the A.E.F.'s "Stars and Stripes."

... Dismiss 11:30 Classes

Activity Groups Organize Rally

Former Senator George W. Norris will address an all-student convocation tomorrow at 11:40 a. m. in the coliseum. With dismissal of all 11:30 classes, students will join a rally going directly to the convocation.

Sponsored by the War Council, the convocation is designed as a university-student sendoff to honor the ERC men who are leaving for the armed forces in the immediate future, according to Pat Chamberlin, president of the War Council.

All ERC men are asked to be there. A special section will be reserved for these men.

The convocation has been made possible thru the co-operation of the administration and the student activities groups of the campus, principally the Nebraska Student Foundation, the Dily Nebraskan, and the Innocents' Society.

Classes Dismissed.

As agreed by Chancellor C. S. Boucher and Dean T. J. Thompson all 11:30 Thursday morning classes will be dismissed on the city campus to allow students to attend the convocation.

Dean W. W. Burr will be contacted today and asked to close 11:30 classes on ag campus to allow ag students to participate in the ERC "goodbye."

In the event that ag students are excused from their classes at that hour, an attempt will be made to charter special buses to convey those attending to the coliseum in (See CONVO, page 4)

UNStudents Buy $2,160 Stamp Total

With selective service and the ERC draining men from the campuses all over the nation, the government is turning its big bond and stamp selling guns on the coeds and men left behind, to enable them to contribute their share towards the effort.

For the last two weeks Nebraska's students have responded generously towards the War Council's stamp selling efforts. Greatly accelerated by the help of the Tassel organization, the total sales to date has reached $2,160, with the last two week's sales netting more than the rest together.

If this cooperative spirit can be maintained by the students of the university, Nebraska will show well with other colleges of the country. Advocating reduction of coke expenditures, reducing the trimmings of the college parties, and dispensing (See TOTAL, Page 4)

Announce Winners ... Warren Hutchinson Wins Ag Dairy Judging Contest ... At Annual Banquet

Warren Hutchinson surpassed his opponents by 44 points to win the annual dairy judging contest, according to the announcements made at a dairy banquet last night. Hutchinson totaled 1,121 points and Dick Fleming, second place winner, gained 1,077, and Bob Koehler placed third with a score of 1,050.

Hutchinson is a senior in the college of agriculture and has been active in judging contests during his college career. According to G. Trimmer, faculty sponsor of the contest, "the contest on a whole was won by the best judges, and there were no dark horses who came thru the race."

Four Divisions.

The contest was divided into four different divisions as to the breeds of cattle. These divisions were Jerseys, Holsteins, Guernsey, and Ayrshires. Winners of the Jersey class were Warren Hutchinson, first; Duané Munter, second; and Gale Erywine, third.

Placing first in the Guernsey division was Bob Koehler, while Warren Hutchinson and Dick Fleming placed second and third respectively.

In the Ayrshire class there was a tie for first place between Warren Hutchinson and Bob Gerloff, while third place was won by Dick Fleming.

Award Winners.

The top three place winners in the entire contest will receive medals while the remainder will receive ribbons. The contest this year was somewhat smaller than former years but this is because of the decrease in enrollment.

The results of the Dairy products judging contest, which was held Tuesday were also announced last night. Winner of the contest was George Weedman of North Platte, Paul Hoffman and Dewaine Erickson placed second and third respectively.

This contest was also divided (See JUDGING), page 2)
