Restore Bliss on Ag

The letter written by a home ee student in a recent Daily Nebraskan has caused plenty of commotion around this office.

For several days, several coeds dropped in to inform us that the letter was absolutely correct, that they were going to write letters too.

Now ag campus has traditionally been a site of pastoral bliss. Their parties and projects, tho simpler than those planned on the city campus, are more often successful.

It is, therefore, quite disturbing to note the great discontent on the part of the home ee students since the ruling has been announced.

The reason for the complaints is obvious: The girls cannot miss or come tardy to classes without losing credit on their grade record.

The reason for the rule seems to be as obvious: Many home ee students complete their semester requirement before the semester ends, and having no more to do, no longer attend classes.

Perhaps, the answer to the problem is give the gals more work, but they would probably object to that.

The bliss of ag should not be disturbed.

Dear Editor: This is to Mr. Jim Peterson. While you are weeping, Miss Chamberlin is spending her time arranging convocations for the ERC men that are leaving.

Maybe the situation will become so bad that we will be favored to follow Hitler's strategy. Maybe the women of this nation will be drafted to fight in the front lines.

If you don't think that there is "agony to staying at home" I suggest that you visit a few homes in Lincoln such as the Fensler's, the Sweeny's, the Joyce's and hundreds of others that wait for word from their sons.

"Remember there is faith behind you, there is love behind you, friendship, and the bright silver of courage."

V...- Mail Clippings

FIRST LT. GERALD DAVIS was back in town on a short leave this week. He is with the Amphibian Command, at Camp Gordon Johnston, Florida.

DONALD L. HERZOG has been promoted to the rank of corporal at Will Rogers Field, Oklahoma. He is on duty as clerk and typist in the chemical section of a headquarters squadron.

DONALD R. ROSS is in specialized training at Big Spring, Texas, where he is training for an appointment as an officer in the Army Air Forces and for his wings as a bombardier.

A V-mail letter from former Delt LLOYD LONDON gives a UN gob's eye view of Abbott Hall, Midshipman's Naval Training Station, Northwestern University, Chicago, Ill.:

Reached Chicago a week ago and they've really been putting us thru the paces. We're apprentice seamen for a month, midshipmen for three months, and then—Ensigns! I hope.

ing able to fight for these "thinking women" it would be much better for you to stay at home and try to take their place. I don't think that you are capable of doing that.

I am sure that Miss Chamberlin hit the nail on the head. It certainly is not easy to say goodbye to those men leaving for the service. It is not easy for me and it must be much harder for the women as they recognize that for the majority of them they will have to do their fighting in war work here at home.

At any rate, the problem shouldn't be so serious that it cannot be solved to the satisfaction of both students and faculty members. The bliss of ag should not be disturbed.

White Space

For today's treat we are publishing possible future excerpts from the diary of First Lieutenant Robert Adams, campus director of the women's ROTC.

Dear Diary: I am a nervous wreck. Today, I met my women's ROTC class and had to wait for 49 minutes before I could stop the talking long enough to edge in a word, and then I could only say, "Come back next Thursday at the same time."

Dear Diary: Today I finally got all the coedets into a straight line, and was ready to give the command, "Forward, March." Just as I started to speak, a bunch of gym-suited girls from the physical education department dribbled volley balls down the field and broke up the line.

Dear Diary: Today was the day of the big parade-tea in Ellen Smith hall. The precision of the drill was perfect. At the command, "Present, Arms," every coed-et raised her tea cup, and at the command, "Order, Arms," every coed-et managed to gulp down all her tea and return the cup to the saucer.

World-Herald Joins Us . . .

Floyd Olds, sports editor of the Omaha World-Herald, officially joined our "Missouri versus Huskers" bandwagon Friday with a complete column on the subject.

"Some of the boys on the Daily Nebraskan staff have started agitation for a Missouri-Nebraska football game as a climax to the spring training program.

"The one big barrier, he feels, is that the Missouri squad is several weeks ahead of the Huskers in spring practice. Actually, the Nebraskans haven't been able to drill outdoors as yet, and can't tell when they will.

"The best argument for such a game is that the players want it. Most of them will be going into service before next fall, so they have little incentive for spring practice.

"A lot of fans probably would like to see a spring game, too, even if they have very few pleasant memories about the Husker season of 1942.

Mizzu Spring Game Up to Husker Board

Tigers Favor

Prospective University Missouri-Nebraska football game remained but three steps from becoming an actual reality this week-end with only Big Six approval, NU athletic board sanction, and MU board acceptance necessary to pass the gridiron legislation.

Throwing more fuel on the brisly rising fire favoring the game, Ed Menninger, reporter on the Columbia Missourian, wrote to NU sports editor, Norris Anderson: "If you could manage to secure those three important affirmations, I'm sure the other things could be taken care of collectively."

"The Lenzon topic will again feature the Lutheran Chapel service at 10:45 Sunday morning in parlors Y and Z of the Student Union. Continuing the series on "Sacrificial Love," Rev. H. Erek, University Lutheran pastor, will speak on the subject, "In Majestic Confession."

Bulletin LUTHERAN CHAPEL SERVICE. The Lenzon topic will again feature the Lutheran Chapel service at 10:45 Sunday morning in parlors Y and Z of the Student Union.

Next move thus, remained in the hands of the University of Nebraska board of athletics slated to pass on the legislation sometime in the immediate future.

Meanwhile, along the newspaper front approval of the game continued to mount. Lincoln sport editors, Walt Robbins and "Cy" Sherman, remained in firm support of the measure while the Omaha World Herald sport scribes were split in opinion.

Probably the most outstanding performer is Al White of the defending champion ZBT quintet. Earlier in the school year this diminutive exponent of the table tennis sport won himself much glory by copping most of the ping pong tournaments offered by the Student Union and other organizations.

Rated the second best paddle swinger of the tournament is dark complected Norm Veta of the SAM team. Veta has been the Cheyenne, Wyoming city ping pong champion for the last three years. His favorite shot is his "back hand around the back shot" which is used when he is sporting a comfortable lead.

This corner wishes to beg its pardon for omitting the ACBC five in the recent publication of the final barb basketball standings. The ACBC's were runner-up to the Blitz Kids with a record of six victories out of eight games played.

Bowling is slated to get underway next week. A line will cost 18c before 4:30 P. M. and 23c afterwards. These are ceiling prices.

Warmerdam in Vault Record

CHICAGO, Ill., March 20.—Schoolmaster Cory Warmerdam, vaulting under the colors of the Chapel Hill Navy Base, set a new world's pole vault record of 15 feet 8 1/2 inches here tonight to high-light the Chicago Daily News track spectacle.

Warmerdam left the star-studded field of bamboo artists far behind as he cracked his own indoor and outdoor mark.

Nebraska's Harold Hunt, ex-Big Six pole vault champion and the conference record holder, was left well back in the field. Hunt was vaulting for the first time since his entrance to the Naval Reserve school at Evanston, Ill.
