

Party Line

BY JUDGE MASON.

In utter discouragement as to the quantity of news available for today's column we feel it necessary to prepare you for an additional White Space (perhaps the competition will inspire Elmer Sprague.)

It would be very kind of some of the coeds, and other ed's, to stir up some drastic action to serve as material. Picnics will do!!

Sling Mud.

The Sigma Nus, also suffering from lack of excitement, invaded Kappa territory yesterday to stir up a fight. Not fazed in the least by the diminishing supply of snow the boys substituted mud balls. The Kappas retaliated beautifully, leaving the battlefield slightly besplattered, but successful.

After a long discouraging search we have found one pin hanging to maintain the reputation of Party Line; DG Betty Jo Nye and DU Bob Trenchard. On the subject of pin hangings, Alpha Sig Bob Hyde received a scare upon being informed that his pin was "somewhere in the Gamma Phi house." It seems that a foxy brother gained possession of it before an hour dance and turned it over to a Gamma Phi pledge. It is now safely back in Bob's custody. (No explanation was given as to his means of retrieving the pin.)

Slips Betwixt.

A fraternity brother was given the slip when ATO John Jay Douglass secured a date with Alpha Phi Ginny McCulla for next Saturday night. Afore-mentioned fraternity brother, not to be outdone, was party to a long distance call from Stevens college Tuesday night. Chances are he will be seen in Columbia, Mo., this week end.

To get back to John Jay Douglass, we wonder who will be chosen Honorary Colonel for the women's ROTC.

Violent contradictions were made when a hint appeared in a previous edition that Farmhouse Dale Wolf was going to hang his pin on Clarice Marshall. Nothing happened—but we're still waiting.

One hint leads to another, which makes us wonder why we are constantly being sent bulletins on "how to detect rumors." Blissfully ignoring said bulletins, we disclose the fact that Marsha Kraft, Kappa will head for home this weekend where she will meet a p...

UN Debators To Compete At Kansas U. Meet Missouri Valley League

Four varsity members of the university debate squad, Romulo Soldevilla and Dr. Leroy T. Lasse, instructor of debate, left this morning for the University of Kansas where they will compete in the annual Missouri Valley Forensic League meet.

The debators include Frank Mattoon and Bill Rist, who will form the affirmative team, and Anne Wellensiek and Jean Kinnie, who will make up the negative team. They will debate on the topic: Resolved, That congress should enact legislation providing for conscription of men and women for industry, agriculture and armed services. Soldevilla will enter the oratorical and extemporaneous divisions of the meet.

For the first time in the 40 year history of the meet, women will be allowed to participate in its activities. The eligibility was open to women two weeks ago when the ERC was called into active duty.

Ordinarily this debate conference includes the following schools: Texas University, Louisiana State college, University of Omaha, University of Arkansas, University of Missouri, Kansas University, Kansas State college, Wichita college, University of South Dakota, Iowa State college, Creighton university and the University of Nebraska.

The UN debate squad originally numbered ten men and eight women at the beginning of this year, but after the ERC men left, only two of the men, Frank Ma-toon and Bill Rist who are both in advanced ROTC, are left on the varsity debate squad. These two men won the Missouri Valley oratorical championship and second place in extemporaneous speaking, respectively, in last year's Missouri Valley meet.

The topic for this conference has already been discussed by these varsity debators at Blair and Wahoo early this year.
