

Bok Talks at UN Commencement

Curtis Bok, president judge in the court of common pleas in Philadelphia, will deliver the university commencement address, May 24.

The baccalaureate sermon will be given by Bishop William G. Martin, head of the Omaha area of the Methodist church. Baccalaureate services will be Sunday afternoon, May 23. Both services will be held in the coliseum.

Bok is the son of the late Edward Bok, for many years editor of the "Ladies Home Journal." His wife is the former Nellie Lee Bolt of Falls City, who received her master of arts degree from the university in 1922.

R. J. Pool, chairman of the university senate committee on commencement, said the speakers have not yet announced their subjects.

Unaffiliates File for Tassels By Wednesday

Unaffiliated women who wish to file for Tassels must have their applications in by noon Wednesday, April 14. Ag college students should file in Dean Burr's office listing their scholastic average, hours in the university, and their present activities. City campus girls may file in Miss Piper's office in Ellen Smith hall.

To be considered for Tassel membership, applicants must have an 80 average, be carrying 12 hours in good standing, and must have attained sophomore standing by next fall.

All girls are expected to come to the Tassel rush tea as the new members will be chosen to fill barb women-at-large vacancies at this time. The tea will be held on Saturday afternoon, April 17, from 2 to 4 o'clock at the Alpha Phi house.

Chicago Art Group Gives Fellowships

Goodman Memorial Theater of the Art Institute of Chicago offers for the first time five fellowships and five scholarships for the 1943 autumn session of its school of drama.

Applicants for the fellowships, each providing a stipend of $700 and tuition, must be candidates for the master of fine arts degree and must have specialized in either acting, directing, or technical practice.

Only One for Women.

One fellowship is open to a woman, preferably interested in the technical aspects of construction or lighting. The other four fellowships are reserved for men only.

Likewise open only to men are five new scholarships of $300 each (See FELLOWSHIPS, Page 2.)

Miss Morley Talks on War In England

Louise Morley, daughter of Christopher Morley, who has just returned from a trip to the British Isles, will speak on "Young Britons at War" at the Student Union, Sunday, April 19, at 8:00 p. m., under the auspices of the Office of War Information.

Through her travel and contacts she became familiar with the work of the governments in exile, the Land Army, womens' auxiliaries, the boys' and girls' clubs. Participates in Youth Congress.

A Bryn Mawr graduate of 1940, Miss Morley made her first trip to Europe in 1936 when she participated in the World Youth Congress at Geneva.

She spent a year as a student in England in 1938-39. Since graduation she has been employed as a conference secretary of the International Student Service.

Tells War Condition.

Her objective is to communicate to American students the efforts of Britain's young people to attune themselves to war conditions and to war work.

Their entire leisure time is spent in training to increase their potential contribution, in supervised recreation and in learning civic responsibility by study and by active work in home defense. RyarsciennM.Haworkspent

When the members of Wilson Hal signed up for their share of war work they decided to do something different—and they did. The girls are now recruiting for the navy. They are contacting through personal letters alumnae of the university in an effort to interest them in enlistment in the WAVES. Those graduates who are interested are asked to notify the Lincoln office. All the actual enlistments are handled by the navy.

Members of Wilson hall, women's co-operative house, are doing their war work by recruiting women among university alumnae for service in the WAVES.

When the Lincoln navy office asked for help in recruiting, they received a unanimous consent from members of the co-op house who began writing letters in longhand to alumni. The letters outline the qualifications and opportunities offered by the navy auxiliary.

Navy Does Work.

Alumnae are asked to notify the Lincoln office if they are interested, and all actual enlistments are taken through the navy recruiting office.

Most of the girls in Wilson hall do not come between the ages of enlistment for the WAVES and count this project as something they can do in the line of national defense. Each girl is responsible for a certain number of letters, some of which are already on the way.

Naturalness Keynotes Quarantined Dorms

... No Males, But Plenty of Mail

BY JEAN GLOTFELTY.

"I'm only a bird in a gilded cage," was the theme song of 283 girls quarantined in the Dorm last week when some of their fellow boarders picked up scarlet fever. Luckier campus pals on the outside caught occasional glimpses of shiny noses pressed longingly against the window panes and felt sorry for the confined co-eds.

But when the cat's away, the mice will play. The absolute absence of men (except Joe the Cop, who can stand anything now) left the gals free to be natural. And nature really had a heyday.

Campus "glamma-gals" roamed the halls of Carrie Belle minus make-up, with straight hair and pajama tails flapping behind them. Dirty sweat shirts, jeans, and disreputable moccasins came out from under the bed. No bus boys made the accepted dress for dinner consists of shorts, housecoat, or less.

Looking For Something.

Mail, male, the never-ending quest for food, and "gab sessions" were the main diversion. No one studied (needless to say). Everyone wrote letters which couldn't be mailed and bemoaned the fact that man morale from Maine to California would hit an unprecedented slump.

Those prejudiced males who think women can't get along together were proved very wrong.
