

Union Adds 40 Volumes To Collection in Book Nook

Some 40 new books are now reposing on the Student Union Book Nook shelves representing 1943 purchases from the J. C. Seacrest fund. These best sellers in fiction and non-fiction of the past year were the choice of the arts committee of the Student Union board of managers.

Students will find a wide range in choice from Nebraska's own Mari Sandoz' "Crazy Horse," Bess Streeter Aldrich's "The Lieutenant's Lady," to Ilki Chase's satiristic autobiography "Past Imperfect," and Lloyd Douglas' latest novel, "The Robe."

War Realizations.

Commentaries on the war scene are available in Cecil Brown's "Suez to Singapore," Quentin Reynolds' "Only the Stars Are Neutral," and in the Paquard's survey on Italy's "Balcony Empire." John Steinbeck's new offering on the lives of bombardiers, "Bombs Away," is listed in the collection along with Maxwell Anderson's newest drama on Bataan, "The Eve of St. Mark."

Mystery fans will prefer "The Uninvited," a novel on haunted lives, by Dorothy Macardle, and will rip through the spy-thriller, "Assignment in Brittany," by Helen MacInnes.

Plus Humor.

For a good laugh, there is Cartoonist James Thurber's autobiography, "My World and Welcome To It," Corporal Hargrove's Travesty on army life, "See Here Private Hargrove," and "The New Yorker War Album," a symposium of war-inspired cartoons.

For definitely serious reading, there are several autobiographies and biographies, such as Hesketh Pearson's "George Bernard Shaw," Matthew Josephson's "Victor Hugo," Douglas Freeman's Civil War Review, "Lee's Lieutenants, Van Loon's Lives," and Elliot Paul's description of the French capitol, "The Last Time I Saw Paris." Powarps may study news editor Herbert Agar's contribution, "A Time For Greatness."

For Fiction Fans.

In novels fiction lovers may choose among Bellaman's "King's Row," Chevalier's "Drivin' Woman," Davenport's "Valley of Decision, Du Mauriers "Frenchman's Creek," and several others.

Ernest Hemingway's choice of the best war stories of all times is collected in "Men at War." Erskine Caldwell from first hand experience has created a novel on Partisan war-fare in Russia, titled "All Night Long." Underground Italian revolt is depicted in "The Seed Beneath the Snow" by Ignazio Silone, and Ethel Vance has described revolt in nazi controlled France in "Reprisal."

In drama and short stories there are the "O. Henry Prize Award Short Stories," Martha Foley's collection of the "Best American Short Stories," and Burns Mantle's condensation of "The Best Plays of 1941-42." And as an addition to the music room the Gramophone Shopp's Encyclopedia of Recorded Music is available listing all recording of all the various record manufacturers.

Valuable Articles Drift Into Union Checkstand

... Even Baby Powder

Everything from two valuable draftsman sets for mechanical drawing to a can of baby powder may be found in the lost and found box at the Union checkstand.

The two drawing sets were left in the Union a few weeks ago and have not seen claimed as yet. Also on the unclaimed list are books, scarfs for both neckwear and the head, gloves and numerous other items.

Clothing.

The books are a Gregg shorthand dictionary, "the Pagent of Greece" and "L'Avare." The headkerchiefs range from flowered, plain, fringed, wool to silk.

Gloves and mittens include brown, green, white, and black in color and furry, leather and wool in fabric. At the bottom of the box may be found a check-book from the Houghton State bank, Red Oak, Iowa.

All of these items are topped off by that can of Pure Baby Powder.

Do any of these found items belong to you?
