Story Changes-- School Starts

Coming back to school is an old story. Starting out the new semester on the Nebraskan happens every fall. But this year everything except the actual event "coming back to school" is different. Along with it, the paper must change to meet the needs and interest of a campus made up almost entirely of coeds and men in uniform.

We have a new policy on the staff. Nothing unusual or original, except, perhaps, on college newspapers. From now on the Nebraskan will emphasize war news on the campus—stamp and bond sales, men in training in the ASTP, Air Corps, and STAR units, individual and organizational war efforts. And, instead of social activities, we'll try to concentrate on studies, on getting the most out of school even during such trying times.

Then, too, we'll try to further our attempt of the past half-century to cover every bit of news on the campus, to write it up briefly and clearly, to give you entertaining bits of information on people and things, and to present features you'll enjoy.

Due to decreased circulation and increased printing costs, the Nebraskan will come out only three times a week for the duration, on Sunday (or Monday), Wednesday and Friday.

If you have anything you especially want us to cover, or some gripes you want to air (provided they're helpful criticisms) we want to hear from you. Every student can help make the Nebraskan a better paper.

Women Assume UN Leadership

Girls, girls, girls—it seems to be a girls' year this time. No more men to compete with them in activities. No more men to fill the largest share of seats in the classroom. Very few members of the masculine sex back in school, in civies, in fact.

Most of the men's activities have gone off the campus for the duration. Innocents have little activity scheduled. The Corn Cobs and Kosmet Klub declared themselves inactive while all their members were off to war. And the publications find themselves almost completely staffed by women.

On the other hand, coed groups may have a big year in the offing. Tassels will have to carry all the effort of keeping up schol spirit. Y. W. C. A. and Coed Counselors have something to offer all students, particularly freshmen, and the AWS Board sees that things run smoothly.

The University Theatre will find itself with a predominantly feminine cast, the band and orchestra may have to become almost completely women's organizations, and the football

V... — Mail Clippings

Pat Chamberlin, Censor

Last year V-Mail by no means lacked for news of former Nebraskans serving the armed forces, but this year keeping up with the transferrals, promotions and barrack room bull of the enormous Cornhusker army, navy and marine corps will be a long job.

To obtain its news of service men this column uses official releases sent out by the public relations departments, co-operates with the alumni office and reads all the letters it can obtain, passes along reliable word-of-mouth information, carries on a lengthy V-Mail correspondence with as many UN men as possible and leaps to interview whoever is lucky enough to pull a furlough.

To insure a complete coverage of the fellows you are most interested to hear about, however, V-Mail needs your help and your letters and, in short, pleads to have any news or gossip about Private Tom, Corporal Dick and Lieutenant Harry. Just come along down to the Daily offices in the Union, or write in to the column. Since this year the paper will be sent to many camps about the country, this plea applies to service men and women as well as those on the campus who are students. So bring on the boy friend, the girl friend, the pin mate, the acquaintance, everybody! The typewriter is just sittin' here waiting.

To get off to the right start this year, let's follow the Nebraska ROTC in a general way since they left these parts last June. ROTC junior men, infantry, are at Camp Roberts, Calif., and the engineers are at Camp Abbott, Ore. Senior men went from here to a five week refresher course at Fort Riley, Kas., and from there as openings were created at various officer candidate schools, the infantry landed at Fort Benning, Ga.; the field artillery at Fort Sill, Okl., and the engineers at Fort Belvoir, Va.

Navy and marine reserves were called toward the middle of summer, and are more scattered about the country, with a large group of navy V-7 at Columbia university, New York, and at the naval training station at Chicago. A group of Nebraska marines are stationed at Great Lakes, Ill.

Eight second year advanced ROTC students were returned from Fort Riley to re-enter school in September and receive their degrees at the end of this semester. These eight are now stationed at the Don L. Love Library. They are: MARVIN ATHEY, CHARLES DUDA, LEWIS LEHR, PAUL MURFIN, PAUL REHMAR, ERNEST SMETHERS, HAROLD WILLIAMS and JACK HAZEN.

team, only a ghost of its former self, will have to be supported mainly by girls.

This throws a lot of responsibility on women. They must see that Nebraska U keeps up its standard. They must see that studies are not neglected, that the boys in the service receive encouraging news from the school they wish they were attending, that individual war effort is increased and taken seriously.

But the women have known for a long time that they'd have to assume this load, and they should be ready. No one can pretend that things are the same as in the years before. No one will try to. All we can do is made the best of what the campus offers this semester, and all do our part.

Boucher Talks To Frosh At Opening Convocation

Chancellor C. S. Boucher emphasized the importance of civilian education during wartime at the opening convocation for freshmen students Thursday morning, Sept. 16.

"Altho 138 staff members are now in the service, the faculty will not lessen its efforts in maintaining the high standards of Nebraska university," stated Chancellor Boucher.

The meeting, presided over by Dr. G. W. Rosenlof, director of the admissions, was designed to acquaint students with the freshmen schedule, registration and preliminary examinations. The deans and directors of the various departments were introduced and Dr. N. A. Bengston spoke of the advantages of the junior division as a guide to entering students.

Uni Orchestra, Band Audition New Members

Tryouts for the University of Nebraska ROTC band and Symphony orchestra will be held three days this week. Women, as well as university men, are encouraged to try out for the band.

Auditions for both organizations will be held on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Sept. 20, 21 and 22, from 10 o'clock to 12 in the morning and from 1 to 3 in the afternoon at the School of Music. Old members are asked to report also.

The band will make its first appearance at Freshmen convocation on Thursday, Sept. 23, and will perform at the first home football game, Oct. 9.

Students are urged to buy all the bonds they can above their regular purchases to help in the third war loan now being undertaken by the treasury department. Back the Attack!

In August we traveled 90,000,000 passenger miles—an all-time high! Some passengers were crowded, which we regret. But we would rather be crowded than to leave one essential traveler behind.

Now that the peak is passed, travel may be less crowded. If your trip is essential—it's wise to see your agent well in advance. Travel light and be on time. Thus can you continue to depend on buses.
