UN Art Show Opens

• O Lord have mercy on me

Reproduction of a drawing depicting the spirituals, by Allan Rohan Crite, now on exhibit in UN art galleries.

Brush drawings in black and white, illustrating the Negro spirituals, are an outstanding feature of the new contemporary art exhibit in the Morrill art galleries. The drawings are by Allan Rohan Crite, 28-year-old artist of Boston, Mass.

In explanation of the illustration Mr. Crite said, "I have endeavored to instill into these brush drawings that strong sense of vitality and vibrant reality one feels withing the spirituals themselves." "Steal Away to Jesus," and "Go Down Moses," are the two spirituals now on exhibition.

Mr. Crite also has on exhibition a number of water-color paintings of Boston and the locality where he lives. His water-colors have a reality and detail which makes his depicted scenes seem almost alive. He has studied for seven and a half years in the Boston Museum of Fine Arts.

His pictures will be on exhibition until November 5 in Gallery B.

Navy Dental Students Don Blue Uniforms

It's the Navy blue that has come to the Nebraska campus now! Friday afternoon orders came informing the 23 dental students attending the university dental college that they were to don their midshipman's uniforms.

These men are in the navy's V-12 specialized service unit and are considered cadets. Prior to being in uniform they retained their civilian dress, but went to school under the navy.

They will not be stationed in barracks as are the army dental students, nor do they have a commanding officer here. They will live as they did before they went into uniform and receive an allotment from the government to cover their expenses.

Surgical Dressings Total 700 in 3 Hour's Work

With only 23 girls wrapping surgical dressings Saturday morning, 700 bandages were rolled in three hours, making the average number 30½.

School Needs Cheerleaders And Yell King

Cheerleaders are needed! With Rod Shindo resigning from yell king and with only three temporary cheerleaders who know the yells, the homecoming game is in danger of lacking organized cheering this year.

All boys who are interested in leading cheers are urged to meet at the Nebraskan office at 5 p. m. Monday for tryouts. The judiciary committee of the student council will select cheerleaders and name the new yell king. Unless the boys on the campus respond to this call, Nebraska school spirit will fall by the wayside.

YW Finance Drive Ends October 20

YW finance drive ends Wednesday, Oct. 20. All upperclass women are being contacted to contribute and to pledge membership to the YWCA, according to Joyce Junge, chairman of the finance drive.

The purpose of the drive is to carry on the work of the YW here and to tie their work up with national YW. Cost of membership has been $2 in past years; this year it has been changed to $1. Girls are urged to contribute any amount they can afford; there is no set amount.

Freshman membership and finance drive will start after the first six weeks at which time the freshmen will be given a tea.

YWCA Members Entertain Army Men in Lounge

Due to the large numbers of soldiers who have been using the newly redecorated YM lounge, YWCA members will act as hostesses four evenings a week.

AST Give Consent To Union Plan; Buy 597 Books

Twelve hundred Nebraska AST students gave unanimous assent to a service men Student Union membership plan outlined by Pat Lahr, Union director, at the first mass meeting of all AST students in the stadium yesterday afternoon. The same plan will be offered the aviation students at a meeting tomorrow.

Miss Lahr as a representative of the Union Managers Board offered the men two orchestra dances a month in the coliseum, a juke box matinee dance every Saturday afternoon in the Union ballroom, an intensified Sunday entertainment program, plus inclusion of representatives from among the men to work with the board in arranging Union entertainment which would include the ASTP, all for fifty cents a month.

Solely for Army.

The coliseum dances will be solely for the army men and their

UN Theater Tickets Still Being Sold

Tassels are again selling season tickets to the University Theatre productions. They will be selling the $2.20 tickets until Monday night after which time tickets can be purchased at the Temple Theatre.

Five big features will be presented this year, the first being "Letters to Lucerne" by Fritz Roter and Allen Vincent which will be given Nov. 10, 11, 12. Other plays will be presented in December, February, March and April. The season ticket gives its holder five reserved seats. Any number of these reservations may be used for any evening of any production.

This will be predominantly a season of comedy, according to Berne W. Enslin, director of the theatre. "The selection of plays depends on the manpower situation. We are in such a state of flux, we cannot make definite plans as it makes casting difficult," he explained.

dates. Lincolnettes and other coeds will also be present at the dances to act as hostesses and partners for those men without dates.

The juke box matinee dances to be held every Saturday will be open to both civilian and military trainees, and the Sunday entertainment in the Union will be keyed to the free time given the trainees.

Miss Lahr emphasized, "Unanimous consent of all you men will be necessary before we can offer you this extensive entertainment program." The men, by a showing of hands, gave that unanimous consent.

Cornhusker Subscriptions.

Betty Hohf, editor of the Cornhusker, asked for subscriptions to the 1944 yearbook in an informal speech punctuated by much army horseplay.

In her talk Betty outlined a plan for having fifty pages of the Cornhusker devoted to the pictures and activities of the army. See AST, Page 2.

Tryouts will begin Thursday, Oct. 21, and the speeches will be six minutes in length, three minutes to be spent on constructive argument and three minutes on rebuttal.

Ag, City Students Vote For Pep Queen Wednesday

Wednesday is the day for the pep queen election, just to keep the record straight. It has so far been mentioned as being Monday and Tuesday both, but Wednesday is the right and final date, according to Lila Howell, Tassel president.

City campus students may cast their votes for the pep queen in the Union building, and ag campus students will vote in the ag Activities building. The five candidates for pep queen are all Tassels and are as follows:

Jean Guenzel, Kappa Kappa Gamma, Mary Jo Kobes, Tri Delt and Coed Counselor, Jean Larsen, Alpha Chi Omega, secretary of Tassels, Peggy Larson, unaffiliated, Towne Club member, and ag Y.W.C.A. secretary.

Ann Seacrest, Kappa Alpha Theta, member of the Coed Counselor Board.

Ident Cards.

Students who wish to vote on these candidates must have their student identification cards in order to cast a ballot.

Saturday night, the newly elected pep queen will be presented at the annual Homecoming dance. The dance will be the climax to the Homecoming weekend festivities. All organized houses on the campus under sponsorship of the War Council, will be decorated for the occasion. At the homecoming game, Nebraska vs. Kansas University, last year's pep queen, Polly Petty will be presented. She will also help in the presentation of the new queen at the dance. Trophies for best decorated organized house, one each for men and women, will be awarded at the dance.

Dance in Union Ballroom.

The Homecoming dance is the first all-university dance this year. It will be held in the Union ballroom, which Tassels are decorating. Lloyd Hunter and his orchestra from Omaha will furnish the music and tickets may be purchased from Tassels for $1.10 per couple.

Col. J. P. Murphy requested that all soldiers stationed on the campus buy tickets from their commanding officer. Since the dance will be in the Union ballroom, only a limited number of tickets can be sold to civilian students. There are 135 tickets in the hands of Tassels for civilian use, and it is recommended that civilians get their tickets as soon as possible.
