A Chance to Listen, Think, and Discuss

An International Relations Club meeting is being held this afternoon, the first one this semester, with a former Austrian student, now in the STAR unit on ag campus, as speaker.

These lecture and discussion groups are extremely interesting and informative for all attending. Foreign relations has always been one of the most fascinating subjects. Its aspects and possibilities are unlimited, and discussion of different points of view furnish stimulus to further thought on the subject.

Post-war planning will be closely akin to our statesmen's ideas on relations between nations. And, as has been pointed out many times, college students will be the leaders of tomorrow, the people who in all likelihood will have to enforce the peace and promote friendly attitudes toward all nations and people.

The lectures of the International Relations Club are open to all students on the campus and many will wish to attend—4 o'clock this afternoon, in the faculty lounge of the Student Union.

Comment—

Lots of praise for the efficient way the school library checks out books in the reserve reading room . . . and for Jane Fenton, Lois Christie, and Dave Simonson for working doubly hard counting ballots after the election. . .

Our congratulations to Col. Murphy, now an admiral in the Nebraska navy . . . and to the teachers for having Louis Fischer speak first at their convention. . .

Bemused grins and an unflattering shake of the head because one man about campus can take only compliments, no criticism . . . because some profs still grade on the bright red apple system . . . and because some gals surreptitiously step out on their guys who are away off somewhere. . .

One dozen red roses to the Black Masque chapter, because they apologized when they found they had made a mistake, instead of trying to present excuses and make it worse . . . and also because they've revived the President's Council, which needed reviving a long time ago.

zation is to provide social activities and inter-mural sports for ag college men. The club was organized to replace the other organizations which have been discontinued for the duration. All men are urged to attend the meetings.

BULLETIN

NEWMAN CLUB. Newman Club will hold a combination hay ride and dance party Friday night at 7:30 in the Temple. After the hay ride there will be a dance in St. Theresa hall. Dr. and Mrs. Forbes and Mr. and Mrs. Gage will be chaperons. All students are invited.

Two UN Officials Attend Meetings In Eastern Cities

Two UN officials, Prof. O. J. Ferguson, dean of engineering college, and Dr. G. W. Rosenlof, tending meetings in Chicago and other eastern cities during this week.

Dean Ferguson's schedule includes: Chicago, the council and committee meetings of the society for the promotion of engineering education last Monday; the annual convention of the association of land-grant colleges and universities Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday; in Milwaukee, the annual convention of the American Interprofessional institute Friday and Saturday; and in Pittsburgh, a committee meeting of the SPEE. Dean Ferguson is chairman of this committee.

Dr. Rosenlof spent the week end in Chicago for a meeting of the executive committee of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. He is secretary of the organization.

Honorary Chem Sorority Elects New Officers

President of the Nitrogen chapter of Iota Sigma Pi, national chemistry honorary for women, for the coming year is Irma Tinglehoff, elected at the first meeting of the year. Other officers are: Lillian Wind, vice president; Nancy Spohn, secretary; and Helen Gogela, treasurer.

Letterip

Dear Editor:

The editorial of Wednesday was awaited with the greatest expectations. We are definitely sorry that it turned out (the open letter) as it did. Little needs to be said about it mainly because it was so easy to see that it was written in anger. But for one thing, it went in one ear and out the other of all Greeks who read it and stopped to think of its motives.

Many didn't stop to think and were somewhat aroused about the statements both implied and written, and most of them thought the Barbs were a sad group of characters.

The one thing of merit was the proposal about primaries. There even has been added the idea of divorcing Greek and Barb candidates altogether. Greek run against Greek and Barb against Barb with a fixed representation depending upon a party primary held before general election. This idea had immediate approval of heads of both affiliated factions. But unless a different attitude or approach is used by the unaffiliates to remedy this situation (and the Greek heads do realize the inequity) the majority of the affiliates on the campus will never accept any proposal reducing their power. And that will be regardless of how some of us feel.

The "attitude" means specifically such editorials as have been appearing recently in the rag. Probably nothing can hinder any move beneficial to the unaffiliates as such policies. For one thing, the cry of "dirty politics" must be dropped. Politics consists of getting as many votes for a candidate as possible—organization is the key to such success. Little can compensate when it is lacking. Dirty politics can describe most anything, especially such things as the Publications Board situation. Who ever heard of "holdover members" on the Pub Board? Or isn't that dirty politics?

Little can be won by mud slinging, for either party can rave all day and all night. A great deal can be accomplished by sincere and honest attempt in everything that you and the unaffiliates do to help and not hinder your present situation.

Bob Henderson.

My dear, dear Mr. Henderson:

In answer to your inspiring letter, we ask these questions:

Why didn't you stop to think, or are symptoms of wild anger also a part of your usual appearance?

Who are all these people referred to in your letter as "many"?

Once upon a time the barbs backed a system of proportional representation in their slate—which was definitely turned down by all faction members at the polls—or weren't you around then?

Who instituted the cry of "dirty politics"? Aren't the barbs members of the student body of the University of Nebraska even if they don't have any organization, and doesn't law laid down by the Student Council apply to them just as much?

What "dirty politics" do you refer to on the pub board? (And just who suggested that the cry of "dirty politics" be dropped?) We've been wondering why no election was held for sophomore and junior pub board members.

What sort of approach do you suggest for the barbs? An attitude of passive acceptance of things the way they are? And (pray tell) what kind of a policy would you have the edi-

Crawford Writes Article For Barron Magazine

Prof. Robert P. Crawford of the University of Nebraska school of journalism is the author of "Mexico's Money Flood" in Barron's magazine, Oct. 11. Crawford just returned from making a first-hand study of the Mexican situation. This is just one of a series of articles he has been writing for publication on the economics and sociological changes in North America incident to the war.

We Present . . .

Charlotte Hill

With the sword of finances hanging by a thread over her head, Charlotte Hill, business manager of the Daily Nebraskan, spends most of her time trying to make money for the "Rag." This is no small job, particularly in war time when advertisers play hard to get. But Charlotte and her staff get the ads and the Rag news staff screams with horror when she frequently brings them a make-up sheet with ads covering about 75 percent of the paper.

Charlotte, who belongs to Sigma Delta Tau sorority, is a junior this year in Arts and Science, majoring in Economics. This is her second year as a Tassel and she is also a member of Vestals of the Lamp, a Coed Counselor, and associated with the YWCA. She says she won a prize last year for selling the most University Players tickets, but hasn't sold any yet this year. (Editor's note: She's too busy filling the whole Nebraskan with advertising!)

Charlotte, a medium height, brown eyed, smiling brunette, is one girl who is going to stay in the good and out of the red, and that's for sure!

Pat Chamberlin, Censor

The navy and the marines got together in the Grill Monday when navymen and Phil Delt brothers LEE CHAPIN and BENNY KOHOUT coked with flying marine Lt. KURT KNUDSON, Phi Psi. Lee is on his way to Miami University at Oxford, Ohio, while Benny is enjoying a brief leave from Colorado Springs, Col. Kurt is on furlough from San Diego.

LARRY WENTZ, Cornhusker photo wizard and Phi Gam, is leaving within the week for Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, to take Navy V-12 training, with pictures as the main objective.

HAROLD DAUB has been promoted to the rank of a captain with post headquarters, Fort Bragg, North Carolina. He was commissioned a second lieutenant in August, 1940, from ROTC. His wife, Eleanor Hickman, UN graduate, is with him.

RONNY METZ, Sigma Chi last year, is AST-ing at the University of California, Berkeley. He is living in the Sigma Chi house there, and from all reports, California sunshine agrees with him.

JACK COWDEN, Phi Delt last year, is attending the Navy's new Annapolis Preparatory school at Bainbridge, Md. He will enter Annapolis in June.

tor of the Nebraskan accept—an insipid, dishonest, beat-around-the-bush sort of thing?

In closing, we ask, who's doing all the mud slinging?

And what about those red caps?
