Rev. Kerns Tells About True Love

BY BETTY BONEBRIGHT.
Rev. Ray Kerns, the Presbyterian Student Pastor Thursday at the Student Union gave the characteristics of temporary love, at the YW marriage group.
Kerns said love is probably temporary when the basis for the attraction are purely physical such as an attractive face or dashing uniform. None of these are permanent things.
"Love is probably temporary when the end in view is solely the gratification of desire. Love is probably temporary when happiness comes in doing things and going places, rather than being in the other person's company. If they cannot enjoy a quiet evening at home spent in nothing more than conversation, they have little permanent basis for their affection," Rev. Kerns said. Temporary love is for the moment; and has no desire to discipline itself for the future with its yet unexperienced satisfaction and worth. The characteristics of true love on the other hand contrast those of temporary love.

True Love in Contrast.

"When true love is present," Rev. Kerns went on to say, "you begin to think in terms of the first person plural instead of the first person singular, with the plural always being the same individual. When true love is present, your greatest happiness comes not in doing something but in being with someone. As contrasted to the mark of temporary love, it will really make no difference whether or not there is some place to go or something to do as long as the two people are able to be in each other's company.

"When true love is present, your whole life will be lifted to a higher level. When true love is present, again in contrast to temporary love, you will not shy away from assuming the responsibilities. When a couple begin to think in terms of a home and of children, when the girl wants the man not only to be her companion but to be the father of her children, and the man wants the girl to be not just a dancing partner but the mother of his son, there is more than just a temporary affection present between them."

AUF Receives Consideration Of Council

Ten members, not a quorum, of the student council met Wednesday in the Union at 5 p. m. to discuss the proposed All University Funds organization.

Bob Henderson led the discussion in presenting the constitution of the proposed organization to the group.

AUF is being organized to promote, organize and administrate all drives for off-campus organizations who desire to solicit funds from the student body as a group.

The organization would be composed of an advisory council, a director and four working heads who would handle soliciting, the treasury, clerical work, and publicity.

Gene Floyd, Y. M. secretary, and Barbara Arnold, Y. W. secretary, were present and entered into the discussion.

There was considerable discussion concerning what was considered "off-campus" organizations and the problem of on-campus groups which might desire help of this sort.

As there wasn't a quorum present, the discussion will be continued at the meeting of the council Wednesday, November 17.

Talks to Social Psychiatrist Service Group

Dr. Janet Forbes, psychiatrist from the State Hospital for the insane, was the speaker at the meeting of the Social Service staff of the YWCA Thursday, Nov. 11, at Ellen Smith Hall.

According to Dr. Forbes, state hospitals used to be considered places to keep persons who were not fit for society. However in the past ten or fifteen years, ideas have changed as to this and it is now being established as a place where one with an abnormal condition may receive treatments and usually be cured. Treatments are gradually being developed such as shock and insulin injections, which bring manic depressives out of their condition.

Dr. Forbes concluded by saying that for those who showed improvement parties, dances, church services and every other normal aspect of society were provided by the hospital to completely bring the patient back to normalcy. In this way over half of the patients are sent out into society to lead normal lives.

Union Week-end Schedule Includes Dance, Service

Activities scheduled for this week end at the Union include dances, a memorial service, and a musical entertainment program. There will be no open dances.

An inter-fraternity dance will be held Friday evening in the Union ballroom, music furnished via the juke box.

Saturday evening the civilian engineer students will dance to the music of Eddie Garner and his orchestra.

A memorial service for members of the faculty who has passed away during the past year will take place Sunday afternoon at 3:00. From 5 to 6 that same afternoon Peggy Shelley, Alpha Chi pledge, will entertain at a music-as-you-like-it hour. She will play request numbers and give several vocal selections. If the idea is favorably accepted, this program will become a regular Sunday afternoon feature when other shows are not scheduled.

Prof. Winnacker Writes Of UN Students in Sicily

Sicily seems to be a gathering point for former NU students, now in the armed forces, according to associate professor of European History, R. A. Winnacker, now stationed there. In a recent letter to the history department, Mr. Winnacker said that he had run across many of his former pupils. Sent to French North Africa in October, 1941, as a specialist for the Office of Strategic Services, Winnacker has been in Algier's until recently.
