Sign Up Now For Defense Work

Defense needs you.
Lincoln needs you.
The war effort needs you. . . .

Students have been offered a chance to take part in some of the assembly line work. Maybe, if enough workers are guaranteed, Lincoln will be the site of two new defense industries. War Council is asking all coeds and men who can find four hours at any time each day to sign up for the work, to begin any time the first part of the year or after May 1.

This is an opportunity so far not open to students on the campus, and besides providing extra money for war stamps and bonds, defense work will allow them to do work that's different. Rosie the riveter is a glamorous creature nowadays. UN-students may have a chance to be a Rosie (though cleaner work is promised—the kind at which school clothes can be worn).

New war industries will help build up Lincoln as an industrial community. . . . So students, here's your chance! Anyone who isn't already working can find four hours a day to work in a defense industry.

My Stocking Girl

Dear Santa Claus:

I am getting tired of playing with paper dolls and want a real-life dolly all my own. My faith in you, dear Santa, would be much renewed if I should find a cute little blond peeping out of my Christmas stocking. She must be vivacious, aluring and demuring. She must excel at dancing as well as romancing and must be mine alone. All in all she must be one cuddlesome Christmas package—a preview of which I hope to find at the Mortar Board Christmas Ball.

Deming Speaks On Wartime Water Supplies

Treatment of industrial and domestic water supplies, a question vital o warime America, ws he subject discussed by Dr. H. G. Deming of the chemistry department in an address before the Nebraska chapter of Sigma Xi last Tuesday evening.

Dr. Deming explained the different kinds of treatment that industrial and domestic water supplies may need to remove calcium and magnesium salts, minimize deposition of scale, prevent corrosion and decrease the tendency to foam or deposit sludge on fabrics.

The society of Sigma Xi for the encouragement of research in science was founded at Cornell University in 1886 and now has chapters in practically every major college or university in the United States where science is taught.

Letterip

Dear loyal-hearted and patriotic-minded fellow coeds:

"Three hours out of each 168 to be devoted to war work" was the brain child presented last spring by the university coeds who earnestly desired to do some little bit during their college year of self indulgence, coking and smoking, to assist in the general war effort. This fall the plan again was inaugurated and received with the usual indifference the students give to any worthwhile plan that offers work but no particular glory. The coeds signed up for the various activities because they thought they had to.

One hundred girls agreed to assist in the addressing and wrapping of special Daily Nebraskans to be sent to former UN students now serving the country in the armed forces. One hundred girls volunteered to contribute a couple of hours on Thursday, Friday, or Saturday, and about half an hour every other Tuesday night to this university war work.

Of this respectable-sized group of one hundred, sixty showed up to type the addresses and supplement the file cards. Of this sixty, twenty appeared on Tuesday night to finish the job, by folding, wrapping, and preparing the papers for mailing. Plenty of girls were willing to sign up to assist, a few were even willing to begin the work, but when it came to the follow-up, to completing their share of the whole, less than one-fifth of the group were willing to cooperate.

Cooperation is a principle we have had drilled into us since before kindergarten days, but it seems we still have to learn our lesson. The lack of it in a university makes one wonder if we shall ever learn to assume our share of responsibility, to work with others to get the job done. If everyone had cooperated, it good will ever to be developed in the world.

In conclusion, he stated that it was an excellent idea to hold International Students' Day programs on campuses throughout the entire land, and suggested that a moment of silence be observed in commemoration of all students who have died in preserving the freedoms which have been theirs to enjoy.

Professor Pound Speaks at Topeka College Meetings

of this week for Topeka, Kansas where she will make two addresses. The Spoken Word' was the topic for her speech at a convocation at Washburn College yesterday morning. She will speak on "American English Today" at an evening lecture series.

Just a G.I. Seamstress?

If you're forever getting out the needle and thread, here are some tips:

When a button comes off, sew it on well the first time. A slipshod job just means you'll have to do it over again soon.

Make your next shirt an Arrow. Arrow buttons are attached with a patented stitch, which "anchors" them to a shirt.

Check your size—you may be wearing too small a shirt and therefore causing too great a strain on the buttons and seams. The Sanforized label in an Arrow shirt guarantees shrinkage no greater than 1%—no danger of an Arrow ever getting too small!
