

Schooner Subscription Drive Hits Full Swing

Behind the all-campus subscription drive for the Prairie Schooner, university literary publication are: (Left to right) Helen Hemphill, Dr. Wimberly, founder and editor of the Schooner, Miss Emily Schosberger, founder of the University Press, Mary Louise Babst, president of Theta Sigma Phi, Marge Mengshol, and Mary Ellen Sim.

In full swing this week is the Prairie Schooner subscription drive, being sponsored by members of Theta Sigma Phi, national journalism sorority, and the Tassels.

Within the various houses enthusiasm has been boosted by the award of a Prairie Schooner anthology to each house having 30 or more subscriptions.

The anthology, the Prairie Schooner Caravan, is a 350 page bound collection of the outstanding articles that have appeared in the Schooner during its 17 year existence.

Attains National Fame.

While the Schooner is strictly amateur in the sense that it pays nothing for manuscripts accepted, the magazine has been an introductory medium for the writings of numerous persons who subsequently attained national recognition as writers.

Among the well known writers whose works appear in the "Caravan" are Mari Sandoz, William March, Jesse Stuart, Warren Beck, Eudora Welty, August Derleth, Meridel Le Sueur, Weldon Kees, and Albert Halper.

Dorothy Canfield Fisher, the noted author and former Lincoln resident, whose interest in the

Choruses Hold Final Practices For 'Messiah'

University Choral Union is holding final rehearsals this week for Handel's oratorio, "The Messiah," which will be presented Sunday, Dec. 12, at 3 p. m. in the coliseum by the school of fine arts.

Four choruses which total 400 persons are under the direction of Dr. Arthur E. Westbrook. Members of the choruses include the ag college chorus under the direction of Mrs. Tullis; the Lincoln male chorus, under Donald Glattly, and University Singers and Chorus under the direction of Dr. Westbrook.

Miles Dresskell, director of the orchestra, will assist in the performance, with Myron Roberts at the organ and Earnest Harrison at the piano.

This marks the 48th presentation of "The Messiah," which is the only work in musical literature that has remained in continuous popular favor for such a long time.

Junior Division Students Confer With Advisors

Junior division students are requested to confer with their advisors next week, Dec. 13-18, inclusive. During these conferences the class schedules for the second semester will be prepared. Each student should see his advisor at once in order to arrange for the conference hour next week.

quarterly has been great, volunteered to write the introduction for the Caravan. Mrs. Fisher discusses literary values of some of the individual articles and offers in passing some views on the current literary scene.

The book's dust jacket design is by Miss Kady Faulkner of the university art staff.

Charm School Sponsors Style Show Tuesday

"Dream clothes in a college girl's wardrobe" will be the theme of charm school's Christmas review, to be held Dec. 14 in Ellen Smith at 7 p. m.

One girl from each sorority house will model clothes in the style show, which will illustrate the ideal coed wardrobe.

Mrs. Hugh Atkinson, head buyer at Miller & Paine, will speak on war trends in fashions. Her talk will concern the latest styles in America and what clothes are becoming obsolete under the influence of the war.

This party will be the first program under the direction of the newly appointed directors of charm school, Jean Guenzel and Mary Bonebright.

Angel Reyes, Violinist, Gives Third Concert

Angel Reyes, famous violinist, accompanied by the Lincoln symphony, gave the third of the current series of concerts last night in the St. Paul's Methodist church.

The concert opened with a "Tocata" by Frescobaldi and closed with Beethoven's Fifth Symphony. Outstanding part of the performance was Reyes playing with the Lincoln symphony the brilliant concerto of Mendelssohn.

Reyes, who is a cultural attache to the Cuban embassy in Washington, began his career when he was graduated from the Paris Conservatory with first honors. This honor led to a long series of concerts in Europe after which he won new honors in both Cuba and America. His American debut was made in 1940 in Carnegie-Hall that established him amongst the foremost violinists.

The Daily
Nebraskan

Vol. 85, No. 68

Friday, December 10, 1943

Six girls were awarded Panhellenic scholarships of $25 each at the Panhellenic dinner last night at Ellen Smith Hall.

The following girls chosen for their university scholarship, received the awards: Carol Chapman, Gamma Phi Beta; Charlotte Filter, Alpha Xi Delta; Bonnie Hinrichs, Delta Gamma; Madeline Holtzschler, Delta Delta Delta; Betty King, Alpha Chi Omega and Jeanette Mae Smith, Pi Beta Phi.

Mrs. Moore Speaks.

Before a group of 50 sorority women, Mrs. James Moore, national treasurer of Kappa Alpha Theta explained how to train college women for leadership.

Mrs. Moore stressed the leadership of a group. "This is the proving ground for our life," she said. "We live in groups all our lives as we seek others with our own interests. Thus we live in a sorority, the small group. Then there is the Panhellenic—all sororities in one group—combining the interests of all greek organizations. Later we expand to the community group in which we spend our lives and practice what we have learned in our smaller, basic groups."

That women should see the importance of remaining in school and getting an education was emphasized by Mrs. Moore. "There is a shortage of women in the trained brackets, and also it takes stamina and courage for women to stay and finish when there is the outside pressure for more

AWS Shows 2 Wave Movies At Navy Mixer

Two movies on the WAVES will be shown at the navy mixer, sponsored by AWS in the Union ballroom Wednesday, Dec. 15, at 4:30. Ensign Lois Swabel will give a short talk on the "Officers Training Program," and Yeoman Second Class Virginia Ash will speak on the "Enlisted Corps."

"Women in Blue" is the title of the first movie, which describes the WAVES' training program. The second, "Eyes of the Navy," is a picture of men on duty and on the jobs on land that the girls fill, such as parachute rigging and control tower operating.

This program is another in the series of vocational talks sponsored by AWS under the chairmanship of Mary Lou Holtz. Everyone is welcome, and seniors especially are invited to come.

Annual 'Covers' Situation—Before Christmas Only

Will you take your Cornhusker with or without a cover? Dec. 22 is the deadline to buy your yearbook and be assured that it will have one. Because of a shortage of material, David J. Malloy, binder for the Cornhusker, cannot guarantee covers for yearbooks ordered after Dec. 22. Different covers will be used after that date.

The smartly designed tan covers show the silhouette of a soldier and is the most expensive front the Cornhusker has ever had. Yearbooks can be ordered from Tassels or at the Cornhusker office in the Union basement.

Dean Clark Directs Omaha Postwar Plan

Dr. John D. Clark, dean of bizad college, will direct a basic economic survey of Omaha as a part of that city's postwar planning it was announced by the Omaha chamber of commerce Tuesday.

Dr. Clark conferred with some members of the executive committee of the Omaha chamber of commerce postwar planning committee last Tuesday, suggesting that the study should be historical. The history of Omaha industries will be investigated to ascertain whether they are gaining or declining. The goal will be to find out exactly where they stand.

Limited Study.

The study will be limited, he said, so that it can be completed in a reasonable time—perhaps three or four months. Dr. Clark hopes to assemble a staff for the project from the faculties of the University of Nebraska, Creighton and the University of Omaha. Statisticians and other specialists may be borrowed from some Omaha.
