How About Santa?-- Is He or Is He Ain't

BY MICKEY JARRELL.

Many students, sad as it may seem, have professed their disbelief in Santa Claus. A few, however, have retained the old spirit and willingly assert their certainty that there is such a character.

Many versions of the "Why I believe in Santa" question were uncovered during a stroll through the Corn Crib.

Phyllis Garrison said that she believed in Santa Claus because "I have to believe in some man." B. J. Latta, Theta pledge, coyly announced that "it gives me a cute tickle feeling while I'm bouncing along in the snow to know that there is a Santa."

In expressing the other belief Jim Stoddard, former student and Beta, now with the AST in Wisconsin, said, "I'm extremely disillusioned in Santa because of the lack of bourbon in Lincoln." Gordon Ehlers doesn't believe in Santa because "the Thetas say there isn't any."

Jim Nicola, ATO, was beaming when he said that there was a Santa Claus because "he's finally come through with snow for the Georgia Tech boys." Gene Wilkins, of the AST asked "Who's Santa Claus?"

Another with the negative opinion was Jane McClary, Delta Gamma, who says that if there were a Santa Claus he would let the AST men go home for Christmas. And then there's Bernard Ulrich who says, "I don't believe in him because he isn't giving me what I want."

School of Music Receives Donation Of 350 Records

Three hundred and fifty Victor records, valued at more than $500, were recently given to the school of music by Mr. and Mrs. Fred B. Humphrey of Lincoln, Dr. A. E. Westbrook, director of the school of music announced.

"The records, nearly all of which are red seal records, have had excellent care and are almost like new," he said. The collection includes many records of such singers as Alma Gluck, John McCormick, Emma Eames, Caruso, and Schumann-Heink. It is expected that the records will prove valuable to the music students in their study, Dr. Westbrook said.

'Sweaters, or Confusing Isn't It, Fellows!'

BY ELEANOR KNOLL.

They just don't make no sense, these women. First they take Lana Turner, who, in a sweater, looks a little—feminine, as an idol; and now they wear those manly sweaters which cry out like Bing Crosby's shirts.

They wear loud wine and silver plaids and in their hair they daintily arrange a white, beckoning gardenia. They wear V-neck sweaters one afternoon and the pale pinks the next. Ooooh women?

If they would cut their hair to a manly bob when they wear those manly, footballish, "go-get-'em" sweaters, or wear the "come-hither but stay your distance" blues with their long tresses, maybe the confusion would lift. But instead of the deer roam the red plains of the heavy wools and fascinators fascinate from their flowing tresses, all on the same bewildering and seemingly bewildered damsel.

Maybe these women have heard Emerson's "A foolish consistency is the hobgoblin of little minds." But one wonders?

YWCA Group Sells Christmas Cards in Union

Original silk screen print Christmas cards are now on sale in the Union to raise money for Estes Co-op, YWCA group. This group uses the funds from the cards to send university coeds to the YWCA sponsored summer co-op in Colorado each year.

Delta Phi Delta, honorary art organization, is making the cards in numerous designs, with angels, lambs and other Christmas designs. The silk screening process, used to make the cards, is a very technical operation and the cards can only be sold so inexpensively, at two for 5 cents, because the art honorary is making them.

Students may inspect samples of the cards in the Union and order them to their own specifications. The cards are made so that purchasers may write a short note on them, and they may be mailed for 1½ cents.
