White Space (Continued)

By Elmer Sprague

(Editor's note: Elmer Sprague, who spent unlimited hours of leisure last year writing for the Daily and dabbling in campus politics, has returned on furlough from a STAR unit at Camp Maxey, Texas. Herewith we offer a sample of his column, White Space.)

For the past two days, we have been enjoying those little fits of sentimentality that a soldier home on furlough is privileged to have. If we permitted ourselves to become really maudlin, we could recite great lists of things that have changed and things that retain a certain air of sameness, and finally devote all of our furlough time to crying salt tears in our beer. But as it is we just let ourselves be pleasantly bewildered about the confusing business of being home and being in the army at the same time.

We have noticed that the people who used to move slowly, now run quickly; and the people who used to move swiftly, now walk lackadaisically. People who still have time for such frivolity live more carelessly and at a faster tempo. They love more casually, and forget more easily. Such things as drinking coffee slowly, smiling at girls, and talking with friends seem a little out of context, but nonetheless enjoyable, because they are stolen pleasures. But, as we have said before, the things we have been doing for these last few days seem slightly familiar but yet a little strange.

In the Union lounge yesterday we looked into a mirror and saw our old friend Elmer Sprague. He looked odd in khaki, and seemed to be ill at ease, but yet glad to be home. We thought he ought to belong on the campus, but yet he seemed rather out of place. He felt the same way too, and this feeling troubled him. We left him, sitting in a dark corner, and muttering to himself: "The more things change the more they remain the same."

Society

BY MICKEY JARRELL.

This last week end before vacation should prove interesting if nothing else, for Tuesday will be "Rolling Home Day" for the masses of outstate lads and lasses.

Fun for sure will be in the Pi Phi house tomorrow night when the pledges are giving a beeg formal party. Butch Hemphill will be there with Delt Warren Van Norman, Virginia Campen and Sig Ep Harold McNeely, Kathy Legge and Leonard Dunker, DU; Barbara Sturges with Bill Jennings of the Air Base, Jinx Dougan with Navy Dent, Lowell Anderson; Betty Lysinger and Sig Chi Harland Houtchens, and Jeanne Cowles with Bob Foster, Kappa Sig.

Doing some stumping tonight will be June Korb, Kappa pledge, and ATO Bob Brown, which all leads up to an ATO gathering of some sort that will be going on at the house.

Just Old Flame.

Joie Huntzinger, Alpha Chi pledge, quickly took a run down to Omaha Tuesday to see "Artie." He seems to be some sort of an old, old flame from Kemper.

The combination of Alpha Phi Jan Campbell and ATO Jim Nicola still is thriving. For five weeks Monday Mary Dale Prince, KKG, and Bill Rotten, Phi Psi, have been going steady. In these days that is a record of some kind or another.

Romance Snags.

It seems that the Ruth Korb-Ted Kenfield affair has hit a snag for Ted, who is leaving very soon.

dates with KAT "Dopey" Sonne-land this week. Also from the Theta house comes the news that Butch Winter returned the Beta pin of Brick Murray last week end while he was here on furlough.

At the Sig Ep costume party tomorrow night will be Dorch Douglas, KKG, with Dave Barber, Alpha Phi Esther Blanchard with

"Operator" Operates.

The ATO junior operator, Jerry Jacupki, left this week for California. For a little boy he has pretty big ideas. Something about a diamond for a sun tanned woman out there. She is the girl he dated last year at Midland and he says, "An old flame never dies." Strong words, son.

Various small news items have been floating down 16th street from Dorm Way. Joanie McCague will make the weekly trek to Omaha Saturday to see V-12 Bob Henneke. There may be a diamond to cinch this deal soon.

Then there is Alpha Chi Jackie Scott, who is going to the ATO party with "Junior" Bohn tonight and somewhere with Beta Paul Bonnell tomorrow. Peggy Sprow Menachan, former dorm girl, was in town Tuesday on her way home to Beatrice. Her husband, Lt. Mike Menachan, has left for overseas.
