Dean C. H. Oldfather of the arts and sciences said "the area and language program was one of the very best that has been set up in the ASTP." He pointed out that this group has clear objectives: fluency in the language they study and a knowledge of the area.

Speaking for the college of engineering, Dean O. J. Ferguson said the work and study required offered a challenge and that he regretted it was difficult to negosummed up the convocation by advising the student-soldiers to worry only 24 hours ahead-and to confine that worrying to the next day's lessons. He praised the relations with civilian students, saying that "the university has gone all out to entertain the soldiers." In honor of the occasion the university ROTC band also played.

ASTP Valuable To Meet Army's 'Greater Needs' In some ways, the infantry soldier who has been selected for ASTP may feel he is out of things He worked like the devil for four months to learn how to fight. And then, because he has some brains he is ordered back to school.

The shift from training camp to schoolroom is an abrupt one. It hardly seems to make sense unless the probably continuing need for men of education as leaders and specialists in tomorrow's army is held in mind. The emphasis on intensive physical work to intensive mental work, the knowledge that other hundreds of thousands of men are joining their regiments or going directly overseas as replacements-these things all help to make you feel that the war is passing you by, that you will never get the chance to fight.

You had learned a lot about fighting, and you were all for using what you had learned where it would do the most good-when the schoolbell rang for you again.

Must Meet Army Needs.

Well, those who laid the plans for ASTP could only be thinking about the greater needs of the army. You can be certain that you would never be picked out of sev-eral million men and sent to school for the better part of a year unless there was a coming need of trained and educated men of your caliber already apparent. It may be a gripe to read what soldiers already fighting in the war theaters are accomplishing toward victory, while you are sitting in class. But you belong to this war every bit as much as they do, and the thing you can help most by doing is tackle your assignments with the same will with which the others are tackling the German or the Jap. You'll be getting the benefit where you are of military instruction. When the nine months are over, further training will follow for some, and every soldier in ASTP will be ready for greater war responsibilities.

War Will Last.

The war it not likely to end before you finish school, or for a long time after that. It could conceivably-if you can imagine 10 million German officers and soldiers, and the millions of Hitler's second army who hold the German people in line, suddenly quitting and letting the Allied forces thru to Berlin. Or it could if you can imagine several million fanatical Japs, who actually believe that they are every one better fighting men than any American soldier, with an unquestioning nation behind them almost as big in population as ours-if you can the such people folding up in the middle of their war.
