Comment . . .

Last issue of the Nebraskan before the staff starts plugging away on their finals for that sorrowful of all sorrowful weeks—exam time. . . Last chance to remind you to hear Henry Scott (our mistake, he's on this Sunday not last) . . . to wish more people had seen the amusing French movie Wednesday . . . to write a comment column.

How much national politics actually concern college students is an open question, but for those old enough to vote it is definitely their business to view the issues. . . Domestic and foreign questions sometimes vie for honors in the presidential campaign . . . this time no one denies that the war is of top importance, and international relations head that division. Diplomacy—experienced statesmanship—is necessary for the next four years. Both Roosevelt and some other Democrats probably wish it weren't bad policy to change horses in the middle of the stream, but Republican contenders Willkie and Dewey hardly make a shadow on the international waters. And who is to say they've enough better to offer on the home front? . . . Solving labor problems won't become any easier. . .

The kind of people we like to write about: Sober Margaret "Min" Beede and business-minded Roberta Burgess, who put out the Rags for Servicemen this semester with scarcely a hitch. . . When people didn't show up to work they did the addressing and wrapping themselves. . . Little fanfare or publicity, just conscientious effort. This campus needs more like 'em.

Swan songs of bygone editors usually include what is wrong with the campus, or the faculty, or the administration . . . that is, what ye ed thinks is wrong. . . After four years on the Husker campus one finds lots of things to be changed, but there are an equal number to remember and keep the same . . . like Dr. Ruth Odell's cheerful English classes; the green grass on the old campus in the spring; the Union grill at four o'clock in the afternoon; the engineers with their slide rules and constant labs; the Social Sciences hall, hub of the campus. . . And for changes we'd mention higher salaries for profs; more participation in extracurricular activities to gain experience rather than honor; a revived enthusiasm for grades and knowledge; less interest in individual politics and more in student welfare in general by some who are supposed to help those going to school. . .

For advice we stick our nose out and say: "War Council, you're improving, keep on with service instead of self-advancement; . . . Student Council, don't you have anything better to do than inquire into the War Council's treasury? . . . Cornhusker staff, keep the book on time as you plan to do, even if it takes extra work. . . Mortar Board, you have a good chance to pick your successors as you advocated doing, by the results of work junior women put in. . . Nebraskan staff coming up, keep up the competition among reporters—they're the best group in years. . . To everybody, follow your resolution next semester to study all the time and not just during finals. . .

Join to Participate . .

Last Tuesday the university joined the nation-wide 4th war loan drive through the war council setting a $2,000 war stamp sales goal. Joining a drive is one thing, but participation in a campaign is another thing. Look at these results!

Tuesday the war stamp booths were opened with determination and deep purpose on the part of the student representatives who manned the selling posts. The results—$42.05 from the entire student body.

Wednesday Tassels took over the sales job as their regular war stamp day, but with the 4th war loan drive as their major selling point. Sales that day jumped to $229.75 with the smaller ag campus contributing over half of the total, $140.40.

Yesterday student representatives again took over the booths with these results: $100 of the total $132.90 was purchased by one male student, a rather unfair proportion.

This condensation of sales shows lack of sharing in a nation-wide campaign. One student does more than his share in proportion to the other contributions; one campus, the one with fewer students, tops its sales records of several weeks standing, and one campus body, with a goal of only $2,000, has reached the $404.72 mark, certainly not a good start.

During final week no war stamp sales campaigns will be conducted, but following the exams a house to house drive will be staged. Today is the last day for war stamp sales at the four booths on city and ag campuses.

Remember—when you join a campaign, participate in it.

Attention, University of Nebraska students:

We, the members of the campus War Council, are not absconding with the Student War Council's treasury! And we are a little indignant that the Student Council, presumably representing the students as a whole, seem to believe that we are not to be trusted with handling the campus war treasury.

Because that is what the War Council treasury is—the UN War Chest, donated entirely by UN students for purposes to further the war effort on the campus suggested by students through the medium of their War Council.

But since the Student Council, supreme governing agency of all activities, has instigated an investigation (as asked by their first quorum in weeks at their January 12 meeting), we want to clear up any misunderstanding which may have been caused. Perhaps we should have published the yearly proposed budget, but so far as we know no other organization has been obliged to do so. Anyway, here are our main expenditures since the War Council has had a treasury, our present expenses and plans.

The treasury was established last year from proceeds from the first War Show, "Red, Hot, and Blue". Net proceeds were $239.36. Before this show the war council had gotten along by a combination of crawling on its knees in a suppliant attitude before the other organizations' treasurers. In fact, last year, we borrowed $150 from John K. Selleck's office to provide the necessary bank for war stamp sales.

Fifty dollars of the new treasury was immediately voted to the War Scholarship Fund, and also the agreement was reached with the Student Foundation, sponsoring organization of the Fund, that any money left in the War Council treasury after its demise at the end of the war would go to this Fund. For this reason, we would like to build up as large a reserve as possible.

Last year, the bi-monthly publication of the mimeographed Rag Tags for servicemen, news-letter forerunner of the present Servicemen's Edition of the Nebraskan, was a big item in the budget. Through the year $61.72 was spent in postage for Rag Tags only.

Later last year the council voted to spend $50 to establish a separate war stamp reserve on the Ag campus to be kept in the Finance office. These three expenditures total $161.72, leaving $77.64. A total of $31.72 was spent that year on incidentals including postcards, postage, dance tickets and ticket sales, phone bills to Senator Norris, paper, and posters.

So at the end of the first year of the War Council treasury, the balance carried over to the present year was $46.54. OK, Mr. Henderson?

From the summer war council dance receipts, a Union stamp bank merger with our bank, and bringing the $50 for Ag stamp booth back into the treasury at the beginning of this semester, the treasury stood at $125.54.

It was voted to re-establish a bank of $75 out at Ag. The bank was raised because sales were booming at Ag. Of course this money still remains in our treasury, but is, in a way of speaking, invested, and can be put to no use by us for expenses. Recently the war council gave $25 to the AUF drive. These figures total $100, so we have $25.54.

The "Hallowe'en" dance, after all expenses were paid netted us $26.63, while incidental expenses up to the present total $5.95, leaving a balance in the treasury as of today, January 21, 1944, of $32.58.

The new-this-year Ag war council netted $32.25 on their Kalico-Khaki ball, $10 of which they contributed as a separate body to the AUF drive. The Ag and City war councils have the same account in the activity office, but keep separate records.

To help pay expenses for the forthcoming "Shoo, Shoo, Blues" war show, Ag is willing to lend City their money, which gives us a total of $65.83 for show expenses.

The show committee expects an expense of approximately $125 for the production. So you can see, if the tickets don't go like hot cakes, we will not be traveling in the red, but stuck in it!

Crossing their fingers for a clear profit from "Shoo, Shoo, Blues," the war council hopes to be able to pay back WAA the $200 loaned for the war stamp bank this year, and get the bank within our treasury, so we won't continually have to ask other organizations to finance the sales. These other organizations have certainly been wonderful about helping, however, and the whole campus owes them a debt of gratitude.

If there are any further questions or suggestions as to the spending of the War Council treasury, any student is invited to attend our meetings at 5 p. m. every Tuesday in 315 of the Union, or contact any representative of the council.

Thanks for listening, if you got this far,

Pat Chamberlin,
President of the Student War Council.

Examination Schedule

Laboratory class meeting for several continuous hours on one or two days shall meet for examinations as follows: Classes meeting on Monday and Tuesday shall be examined on the date scheduled for the first hour of their laboratory meeting; Wednesday or Thursday classes on the second hour of their meeting; Friday or Saturday classes on the third hour.

Unit examinations have been scheduled for all sections in the following subjects: (1) Business Organization 3 and 4; (2) Chemistry 1 and 3; (3) Civil Engineering 1; (4) Education 36 and 63; (5) English 1, 2, 3, 4, 11, 27; (6) French 11 and 13; (7) Home Economics 41 and 42; (8) Mathematics 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 41, 101, 103, 104; (9) Mechanical Engineering 1; (10) Psychology 70; (11) Spanish 51 and 53. If students have regularly scheduled examinations conflicting with the above specially arranged schedule, arrangements to take such specially scheduled examinations at another time should be made with the department concerned on or before January 17. For example: If a student is scheduled for an examination which conflicts with a specially scheduled examination in French, arrangements should be made with the French department to take such examination at another time.
