

Bond Sales Total $19,500

Unit Purchases Paced by Co. C

With a mighty surge during the last two weeks, Nebraska's ASTP units drove their Fourth War Bond Drive total to a new high of $19,568.15, as of Jan. 31. Company C in Love Library took the lead in individual unit purchases with $5,484.90 to its credit.

In spite of the tremendous response to the request that "every man buy a bond," the ASTP has yet to reach its quota of $25,000. It is hoped, however, that this goal will be exceeded before the current drive ends on Feb. 29.

Closely following Company C's example, B Company came thru with sales amounting to $4,950. The unit's officers bought $4,399.75 worth of bonds, while Company A contributed $1,557.25. The trainees in the Field House purchased $1,387.50 in bonds, with units' cadre men adding $1,218.75 to the total. The STARS bought $300 worth, and the Army's civilian employees contributed $270 to the drive.

On pay day this week each company held a bond drawing.

21 Win Bonds.

Lucky winners of $25 war bonds in Company A were Bernard Fallon, Emil Karasek and Robert Schrock. Company B winners, drawn by Mrs. Putney, included Dan Allen, Jerome Havlis, Joseph Magnatta and Abraham Meyers. Company C's clerk, Mrs. Frank, chose Guido Alexander (who also won last month), Earl Lampshire, Wilbur Mumford, George Peers, Arthur Richards and William Wenholz as winners, while Kenneth Otis receives $10 in war stamps.

Raiders Meet 'C' Men Again Saturday Eve

Riding on the crest of an eight game winning streak, the Lincoln Air Base Raiders will invade the city campus again this Saturday night to tackle C Company, current leaders in the Army round robin tourney. "Goose" Tatum and his mates trimmed the Blue team in their first meeting, 71 to 42.

The "C" men will be out for revenge Saturday evening—the game is scheduled for 6:30 in the

GI Entertainers Star In War Show

When the curtain goes up on UN's colossal War Show next Friday night, a galaxy of star performers from the ranks of campus GIs as well as beautiful coed talent will offer their specialties in the war council's musical extravaganza. It will be the first time in Nebraska's history that soldiers have hit the boards in UN theatricals, and from rehearsal previews the soldier acts promise plenty of entertainment.

Tickets to the three performances, next Friday, Saturday and Sunday, are on sale at the Union office. The 35 cent admission was finally picked to enable every trainee on the campus to see the show. The opening performance is strictly for soldiers and their dates, but only 800 seats are available. GIs are being granted special permission to miss Friday night study hall in order to attend the gala all-soldier opening.

Guiding the cavorting comedians, dancers and singers thru the first act will be Emcee Stan Green, who hails from Union College, N. Y., where he wrote, Coliseum. The starting whistle will find Cliff Lind, who has shown a lot of drive in the last few contests, and is currently leading the Intramural league scoring, at center for the AST quintet. Teaming at forward will be tricky Milt Dobrer, former CCNY ace, and last year's Nebraska veteran, John Bottorf. Burly Al Burstein, stand-out on defense, and play-maker, will line up with scrappy Chuck Burdette at the guard posts.

directed and acted for several musical shows. He played the lead in the college production of "Three Men on a Horse," appeared in "Outward Bound" and other plays. Green also brings a wealth of summer experience to his role as master of ceremonies.

A hot GI trio will supply the downbeat for the first half of the show. It boasts Jerry Broder on the sax, Carl Fronzak playing the bass and Don Smith at the piano. Broder had his own band in Baltimore, and since his entrance in the army has organized jam outfits in Atlantic City and at his Grinnell, Ia., STAR unit. A/S Fronzak formerly played with Bob Chester. Don Smith, who calls himself "a long haired musician with short hair," earned a B.M. at the Overland Conservatory in Ohio, but he's still a demon on boogie and jive. Smith also provides all the accompaniments for the show's special acts.

Stynes Takes Cohan Role.

To add a touch of nostalgia to the 1918 scene, warbling Roger O'Reilly, an Irish tenor, will sing several old favorites. O'Reilly is said to have had plentiful barroom experience while at Notre Dame. Rollicking thru a George M. Cohan routine of songs and patter will be Joe Stynes, who had the part of Cohan in the famous original production of "Yankee Doodle Dandy" at Catholic U. (Wash.). Stynes gave an exhibition of his talents last fall at a German students' party by mimicking anthropological phenomena.

GIs Pick Cornhusker Queens at Union Hop

Trainees will help for the first time in choosing 12 beauties from the 35 candidates for the Cornhusker beauty queens, who will be presented and voted upon at the Army dance in the Union tomorrow night.

Jo Kinsey will introduce each contestant by number only at 10 o'clock. The candidate will promenade across the stage in much the same manner as in the Atlantic City Beauty Contest. The queens will be judged on beauty, poise and carriage. The candidates represent each organized house on the campus in proportion to the number of Cornhusker subscriptions sold within the house.

Six Appear in Cornhusker.
Six of the Nebraska pulchritude will be presented in the Cornhusker as 1944 beauty queens of the university. Professor E. W. Lantz will supervise the counting of votes.

Joyce Stave and Lois Brainard will represent Alpha Chi Omega; Laurine Hansen and Mary Armour, Alpha Xi Delta; Rose Phillips and Lois Metcalf, Chi Omega.

Margaret Hagan and Jeanette Matcha represent Alpha Omicron Pi; Esther Binchard and Janice Campbell, Alpha Phi; Fanchon Jones and Carol Jean McGrew, Delta Delta Delta; Helen Johnson and Bonnie Huirichs, Delta Gamma; Joy Laune and Frances Farnsworth, Gamma Phi Beta; Virginia Maister and Marjorie Heyn, Kappa Alpha Theta; Irene Hanson, Mary Ann Lotink, and Midge Manning, Kappa Kappa Gamma.

Patricia Welsh and Jeanne Dougan represent Pi Beta Phi; Lorraine Abramson and Bettie Grossman, Sigma Delta Tau; Elva Richmond, Sigma Kappa; Peggy Larson, Towne Club; Margaret Kuehl and Iris Baxter, Love Hall; Beatrice Manville, Lois Nelson, Phyllis Greer, and Rogene Peterson, residence halls; and Phyllis Johnson, BABW.

All candidates will meet at 1 o'clock Saturday in the Union.
