

Tigers Nudge Scarlet, 36 to 32

Missourians Nip Nebraska In Overtime

In a tight overtime battle, Missouri's Tigers nipped the Huskers 36-32 at the coliseum Saturday night.

With the score knotted at 29-29 all at the end of the regulation playing time, the game went into a five minute overtime period, the Huskers having first blood on Morrie Galter's two charity tosses with but forty seconds of the overtime gone. While Buzz Hollins free throw was all the Huskers could garner Collins, Arbeitman, and Pippin hit for the Tigers in quick succession to cinch the contest for Missouri at 36-32.

The Scarlet had come from a 13-16 deficit at half-time to take a 29-28 lead with a minute and forty-five seconds to play, but Collins tallied a free-throw with forty seconds left to tie the game at 29 all.

The Huskers were weakened by the loss of Al Artman and Tom Dworak via personal fouls. Artman fouled out midway in the second half, and Dworak drew his fourth personal with less than a minute to play.

Second Guessing with Harold W. Andersen

Agitation continues for a cage contest between the Lincoln Air Base Raiders and an All-Star team composed of the top players from the various Army intramural clubs on the campus.

The suggestion seems to have the hearty approval of all trainees, who feel it is only fair that the Raiders, who represent the pick of the entire permanent personnel of the Air Base, be opposed by the best team that can possibly be assembled from all the campus Army units. The Raiders, one of the top teams in this section of the country, have been consistently romping over the best clubs that each individual unit can offer, but they would have a rough time disposing of an all-star team composed of such stand-outs at Dobrer, Lind, and Bottorf of Company C, Scheer and Fuller of Company E, and Harris of the Air Corps.

This department sincerely hopes that the proper authorities in the campus military department and at the Air Base take this proposal under serious consideration. The game looks like a natural, and fans would flock to see the two star-laden teams play.

Alva Bradley, president of the Cleveland Indians, stirred up quite a commotion last week with his gloomy assertion that he would rather see the baseball suspend than resort to a "low form of comedy" because of the man-power shortage.

Owners and presidents of other major league clubs jumped to the defense and declared that baseball definitely can continue this season without any "low comedy." Some of Bradley's more outspoken critics even hinted that baseball can continue "without the Indians."

Looking at the situation from a purely impartial point of view, it seems safe to say that major league ball will have a really rough time surviving the coming season. Clubs may not be forced to resort to "low comedy," but it's certain that a great many outfits will be scraping the bottom of the man-power barrel before World Series time next fall.

Pioneer Co-op Nips Theta Xi In Overtime

In the hotly contested intramural games Thursday evening, the Sig Ep's nudged out the ZBT-Sig Nu team 18-17, and the Pioneer Co-Op won over Theta Xi's in an overtime game, 18-16.

Z.B.T.-Sig Nu vs. Sig Ep. With Krotchvil setting the pace for the Sig Ep's they soon had a lead on the ZBT-Sig Nu combination. In the first half, the Sig Ep's used a fast break to good advantage, while the ZBT-Sig Nu's had to depend on long shots. The score at the half: Sig Ep's 12, ZBT-Sig Nu's 6.

The second half started with Krotchvil caging short shots, while the ZBT-Sig Nu's depended on Fox for their points. The ZBT-Sig Nu's were slowly closing the margin, but time ran out before they could get the lead. The final score stood Sig Ep 18, ZBT-Sig Nu 17.

Pioneer Coop—Theta Xi. The game was evenly matched all the way, neither team scoring many points. The Pioneer Co-op had the advantage of height, but the Theta Xi's made up this handicap in speed. Half time score was a tie, 8-8.

The second half found the Theta Xi's outscoring the Co-op in the opening stages but in the closing minutes the Pioneers tied the score, and time ran out with the score 16-16. Pioneers tallied once in the overtime to cop the final decision, 18-16.
