

Spring Grid Drills Open Today

No Scrimmage Scheduled; Sessions Run Thru April

Husker footballers swing into spring practice this afternoon, with checking out of equipment and light limbering up exercises scheduled for the opening session.

Head grid coach A. J. Lewandowski said yesterday that he hopes for a turnout of about 30 men. "It's hard to predict how many men will report," said Lew, "but I look for at least 30 candidates and have hopes that more will turn out."

Plans No Scrimmages.

Lewandowski's present plans call for no scrimmages, but Lew pointed out that the amount of contact work will be determined by the number and ability of the candidates. Passing, kicking, calisthenics, and skull drills will feature early practice sessions. Contact work may come later if the boys appear ready for it.

with the number of workouts per week as yet undecided. Number and starting time of workouts will be determined by the study and work schedules of the boys reporting, according to Lewandowski.

Summer drills, to run from mid-July to mid-August, are also slated this year, marking the first time in the history of UN football that summer sessions have been scheduled.

An edition of Diophantus' "Arithmetic," published in Latin and Greek in 1621, has been presented to the University of New Hampshire by Dean Herman L. Slobin of the university's graduate school.

Attention Grid Squad Aspirants

Students interested in reporting for spring football should report to the south locker room under the east stadium at 4:00 this afternoon. Equipment will be issued at that time.

spring squad. The lettermen expected to report are Frank Hazard, Bert Gissler, Buzz Hollins, and Lyle Kops; the newcomer is Joe Kessler.

Kessler Set to Go.

Hazard, a guard last fall, will hold down a tackle slot in spring drills, while Gissler is slated to remain at an end post. Kops will team with Hazard at tackle, and big Buzz Hollins seems ready for further service at fullback.

Kessler, ineligible last fall, appears set to grab the quarterback post. In Kessler and Hollins, Lewandowski has the start of a strong backfield. The Husker mentor hopes that spring drills will uncover a tailback and a wingback to run with Kessler and Hollins in the backfield.

Drills Run Through April.

Possible forcing of 4-F's into essential industries is not altering Lewandowski's plans for spring sessions or for next fall's campaign. Though the loss of his 4-F footballers would undoubtedly upset his plans greatly, Lew is content to face that problem when it arises. In the meantime, the Husker coach continues to count on 4-F material as he lays his battle plans.

Spring drills are scheduled to run through the month of April,

Second Guessing with Harold W. Andersen

Just returned to his coliseum office from a week's jaunt to New York City for the annual conclave of college basketball coaches, Husker athletic director A. J. Lewandowski relates a story of an action-packed seven days. In addition to attending the coaches' meeting, Lew watched several of the nation's best collegiate basketball teams in action at Madison Square Garden and journeyed up Hudson to West Point, there to visit Colonel Biff Jones, his predecessor in the athletic director's post at UN and now head of the athletic department at the military academy.

At the garden, Lew saw portions of both the annual invitational tourney, which yearly draws the top collegiate teams of the nation, and the eastern playoffs of the National Collegiate Athletic association's annual tournament. The best team he saw in action on his eastern trip, however, was not a college club, according to Lewandowski. In Lew's opinion, the Mitchell Field service team, composed largely of former Long Island university cagers, was far and away the best club he watched, ranking over such powerful college teams as Dartmouth, Catholic university, and Ohio.

At West Point, the Husker coach saw several other former UN athletic personalities in addition to Colonel Jones. Capt. Paul Amen, who starred on Husker football and baseball teams in the late 30s, is head baseball coach at the Point and, according to Lew, has prospects for a powerful squad this season.

Eighteen Win Letter Awards At Iowa State

Ames, Ia.—The Iowa State college athletic council has made "I" awards to 18 members of the Cyclone swimming and basketball teams and two freshmen numeral awards to basketball men. Because of the shortness of the indoor track season no letter awards to track men will be made until the end of the spring quarter.

Members of the swimming team receiving "I" awards are:

Myron Anderson, Omaha, Neb.; Carl Brandner, Ames; John Guggenbuhl, Des Moines; William Hirschi, St. Louis, Mo.; William Kizer, Omaha, Neb.; Doug Robinson, Des Moines; Eli Rottman, St. Louis, Mo.; Robert Savage, Webster City.

Basketball Awards.

Basketball team members to get the "I" award are:

William S. Block, Muscatine; Price Brookfield, Friona, Tex.; Lloyd T. Kester, Ames; James L. Myers, Sioux City; Lyle Naylor, Webster City; Gene H. Oulman, Mason City; Robert W. Sauer, University City, Mo.; Ray C. Wehde, and Roy C. Wehde, Holstein. The manager "I" was awarded to William K. Lambert, Omaha, Neb.

Freshmen numeral awards for basketball went to Glenn Myatt, Lost Nation, and Roy Ewaldt, Paulina.

Prized by Dr. Frank L. Shephardson, professor emeritus of Greek at Collgate university, is his 62 year old Phi Beta Kappa key, won while he was a student at Brown university.

Have a "Coke" = Sakabona

(WHADDYA SAY?)

... from Bloemfontein to Buffalo

In South Africa, as in the U. S. A., the greeting Have a "Coke" helps the American sailor to get along. And it helps, too, in your home when you have Coca-Cola in your icebox. Across the Seven Seas, Coca-Cola stands for the pause that refreshes,—the friendly gesture of good-natured folks.
