Mortar Board Announces Ivy Day Dedication, Program

Traditional Ivy Day ceremonies this year will be dedicated to Lorene Bennett Chandler, 1944 Mortar Board who was killed in an explosion in March of this year, according to Rachael Ann Lock, president of Mortar Board.

The Ivy Day program, May 6, will begin at 1:30 with a concert by the university band under director Don A. Lentz.

MB's Dedicate.

Ceremonies will begin at about 1:45 p. m. when the Mortar Boards give a short dedication ceremony to Lorene Bennett Chandler. The dedication will be followed by the ivy chain, composed of all senior women, and the daisy chain of junior women. After the junior and senior chains, the May Queen and her court, including a senior maid of honor, four senior attendants, four junior attendants, and two sophomore and freshmen attendants respectively, will be presented.

Bob Henderson, Ivy Day orator, will then be presented, and following his talk, Howard Chapin,

All seniors who are planning to take part in the ivy chain and junior coeds who will take part in the daisy chain as a part of Ivy Day ceremonies, May 6, should meet in room 315 of the Union, Wednesday at 4:30 p. m. Pastel dresses or pastel skirts and blouses are necessary for taking part in the chains.

senior class president, and Ray Calkins, junior class president, will plant the traditional ivy.

Next on the program is the inter-sorority sing and presentation of the sing cup. The Ivy Day court will disperse at about 3:30 p. m., according to Rachael Lock, and Mortar Boards will then mask new members for the coming year.

Harold Andersen was unanimously chosen president of the newly-elected Student Council at the Wednesday meeting of both old and new members. The new president is sports editor of the Nebraskan. Other officers elected for next year were Jo Martz, vice-president; Hazel Abel, secretary; and Blanche Reid, treasurer. Edith Pumphrey won the toss of a coin to determine her tie with Madeline Holtzschler for ag representative to the Council. There was also a tie between H. J. Norman and Stanley Andelt in pharmacy but Andelt told the council that he would be leaving for the armed service soon and that Norman would be in school in the fall, so the tie was dissolved.

Lois Christie, 1943-44 president, asked for a report of the committee appointed to appear before the senate committee on student organizations and social functions to discuss the question of formal parties outside organized houses. June Jamieson told the council that nothing had been settled as the senate committee is still investigating the matter.

Howard Chapin brought up the subject of the 12½ percent commission that the Student Foundation should receive from rental of caps and gowns from the bookstores. As the Foundation had some difficulty last year in collecting the funds from one of the stores, it was suggested earlier that the council procure written contracts or documents from the stores for proof of the transaction. Dave Simonson made the motion that the council submit a contract to the bookstores that would insure the Foundation of receiving its commission of 12½ per cent. The motion carried.

There was discussion concerning firms which handle graduation announcements. Howard Chapin said that he thought that Lincoln companies should be allowed to have the business, which in the past years has been given to a Kansas City firm. Pat Cole suggested that the council advise next year's senior class president to work on the matter and perhaps select an organized campus group to take charge of the job of selling the announcements.

Ghost Scribe Prints Tabloid On UN Politics

Anonymous published, a printed one sheet tabloid called "The Spectator" was distributed over the campus early Wednesday morning where it was found by students who stopped for their copies of the Nebraskan.

Attacking the recent election of Student Council and publications board members, the sheet named several students as being part of a political machine said to be operating at the university.

Origin Unknown.

The paper was not distributed with the Nebraskan by circulation manager Bill Korff, but before he reached most of the buildings on his route around 7 a. m., the other paper had already been left.

"Shirley Jenkins," a name which is not listed in the student directory, was given as that of the editor and a non-existent Greek letter organization, Phi Kappa Theta, was given as the author's affiliation.

Printed on one side only, the paper had four columns and was approximately 8½ by 11 inches.

Herring Discusses Relations With Latin-America at Convo

Herbert Herring, one of the foremost liberal exponents of the "good neighbor policy," will speak on Latin America at a convocation in the Student Union ballroom at 11 a. m. today.

Having made a lifetime study of Latin-American affairs, Herring has taken more than 40 trips to the southern republics and has been the director of 25 international conferences in Mexico, Guatemala and the countries of the Caribbean. At present he is director of the committee on cultural relations with Latin-America, Inc., Claremont, Calif.

Author of Several Books.

A native of Iowa, Mr. Herring was educated at Oberlin and Columbia. He is the author of "And So to War," "Good Neighbors ABC," and editor of "The Genius of Mexico" and "Renascent Mexico."

Herring will also speak at the 32nd annual meeting of the Nebraska history teachers association today and tomorrow. His subjects will be "The Good Neighbor Policy After the War."

"Argentina's Role in Latin-American Relations," and "Mexico's Revolution." Other speakers will be Dean C. H. Oldfather, whose subject is "The Peace Policy," and Miss Carrie Roberts, who will speak on "American History in Schools and Colleges."

For the convocation this morning, professors may dismiss classes with the approval of their department if they wish.

Eight Victory Speakers Go To Finals

Eight speakers will compete in the intra-mural victory speaking finals, it was announced last night at the conclusion of the second round of speeches by Anne Wellensiek, contest manager.

Speakers and the organizations they represent are as follows: Bob Hastert and Hal Schwamb, Sigma Phi Epsilon; Enid Barron and Virginia Stuermer, Towne Club; Eleanor Knoll and Nadia Kunzman, Delta Gamma; Margaret Neumann and Roberta Burgess, Gamma Phi Beta; Gene Steck, Beta Theta Pi; Lorene Novotny, Alpha Phi; and Grace Steckley, Alpha Omicron Pi.

The finals will be held Tuesday night at 7:30 in room 203 of Temple. Three highest individual speakers and two highest teams will be recognized at the conclusion of the finals. The intra-mural gavel will go to the highest house represented.

Uni Forum of Air Completes Series On Manpower

"Will There be Enough Teachers for 1944" will be the topic of discussion on Saturday's university forum which will be aired over KFAB at 5:30. This is the third and last of the series of panels dealing with manpower.

Walter K. Beggs, assistant professor of history and principles of education will be the moderator for the fourth time. Other participants will be George W. Rosenlof, university registrar, Richard D. Moritz, dean of the summer session, and Mr. W. A. Rosene, director of certification of the department of public instruction.

Ag Students Hold Open House Saturday

BY BETTY HUSTON.

Ag students are polishing up the old hospitality and boning up on campus landmarks in final preparation for the openhouse festivities tomorrow afternoon at which time they play host to city campus students. Over 200 students have been working for three weeks on exhibits, the program and publicity for the campuswide affair, first of its kind ever to be attempted at ag.

The day's program will begin at 2 o'clock when all of the departments and buildings will be thrown open for public inspection. At 4:30 the annual presentation of the Goddess of Agriculture will be made in the college activities building, and at 7 o'clock a community sing will be held.

Features Exhibits.

Heart of the open house will be the student exhibits which will cover a cross-section of classroom activities on the campus and will attempt to give visitors a composite view of the type of work covered in the fields of home economics and agriculture.

Student guides will be on hand in all of the buildings to explain exhibits and direct the guests. Maps of the campus have been prepared for distribution, and signs and an information booth will enable visitors to find their way to points of interest.

Because of the small number of men on the campus, agricultural exhibits will of necessity be simple but will, nevertheless, cover the most outstanding work being done at the college. The prize beef and dairy cattle will be on display as will be the new lambs and the experimental houses at the poultry farm. All of the barns will be open and equipment on display. The woodworking and forge shops in the ag engineering building at the north end of the main mall will also be open.

Monica Ann Alberty, Roberta Buell and Catherine Curley, sophomore clothing and textile majors in the home economics department analyze fabrics and prepare an exhibit for use at the ag campus open house to be held from 2 p. m. to 4:30 p. m. tomorrow afternoon.

The home economics students will be represented by displays of the textiles and clothing, foods and nutrition, child development, home furnishings, family economics and design. Also in the girls' division are the new foods and nutrition building, the child development lab and Love Memorial co-operative dorm and the home management house at 3220 Starr which will receive guests from 2 o'clock to 4:30.

One of the outstanding exhibits will be that of the home furnishings classes which will contrast a display of a sample interior with one of traditional style. Original floor plans done in color as special student projects will also be featured.

The textile and clothing classes will present finished examples of student work in cotton and wool, clever costume accessories, refurbishing projects and a variety of textile tests.

Original oil paintings, a stencil demonstration, finger painting, basketry, metal and woodwork and weaving will be highlighted in the design displays. Scientific research material, a fat straining demonstration and table settings will be found in the foods department.

Ice cream will be sold in the recently redecorated cafeteria.

Ag Students Get Tags For Open House Guides

All ag campus students have been asked to report to room 306 ag hall at 1:30 Saturday afternoon to get tags which will designate them as guides for the ag open house activities. Any students who do not have an assignment for the afternoon may get one at that time.
